BRIDGE BEAVER BROOK

PLAN TO UTILIZE MATERIAL OF
THE OLD PAWTUCKET BRIDGE
FOR THAT PURPOSE

An interesting meeting of representatives of the Pawtucketville Improvement association, Pawtucketville
Social club and Centralville Social club was held in the quarters of the latter organization last evening. The purpose of the meeting being to discuss the project of erecting a bridge across Beaver brook at Beaver street.
Also that of grading Condit avenue. The Pawtucketville Improvement association was represented by Thomas F. Matte, while the delegates from the Pawtucketville Social club were Arthur Ganest, Roderick Descheneaux and Orla Morin. The delegates from the Centralville Social club were John
H. Beaulieu and Pierre Brousseau.
In the course of the meeting it was brought out that the old steel girders and timbers in the present Pawtucket bridge, which is soon to be replaced by a new structure, could be used in building a new bridge over Beaver brook, and the following committee were appointed to interview Commissioner Morse and present the request

THAT RIVER HEARING

LOWELL WILL BE REPRESENTED AT THE HEARING AT WASH-INGTON MAY 23

Delegates from Lowell, Lawrence,
Haverhill and Newburyport met at the office of the harbor and land commission in Boston yesterday, for the purpose of considering plans for the appeal hearing before the board of army engineers at Washington, May 23.
The tentative plan of appeal involves a request that the findings filed by Col. W. E. Craigill be returned to Lowell for further consideration of the point raised by Col. Abbott of the engineer corps as to what proportion of the river plan may properly be considered to be the federal government's rightful interest in the project.
Chairman William S. McNary of the harbor and land commission, will attend the hearing in Washington, as well as representatives from each of the cities along the Merrimack valley.

WHAT THE COOK SAYS

Here are some axioms of Cook's which I am sure will be appreciated by many housekeepers. Brooms hanging instead of standing will be kept
soft and pliant. A dish of hot water set in the oven will keep cakes from burning. Keep flour cool and dry and securely covered. Clean your glassware with a quart of water
mixed with a tablespoon of ammonia. To keep cereals in good condition always put them in glass jars.
Prick nutmegs with a pin and, if good, oil will run out. Dry, pulverize and keep orange and lemon peel in corked bottles to use for flavoring.
Quicksilver and white of eggs destroys cockroaches and bugs. Keep an account of all supplies with price and date of purchase. Count all money carefully when you receive change.

Let simmer a few moments then add two ounces more of butter and the cod and heat thoroughly. Turn the fish into a baking dish. Make a border around the edge with buttered points of bread, sprinkle pondered bread crumbs over the fish and brown the bread points and crumbs nicely in the oven.

Cook here tells you how to plank
a steak. The only utensil needed is a hardwood plank. Before using heat the plank very hot before the fire or in the oven, lay the steak on until it boils. Then add a dessert spoon of mushroom catsup, two tablespoons of cream and salt and pepper to taste.

A line pineapple salad is made by Cook in this way: Drain a can of sliced pineapple and arrange each slice on a bed of lettuce. Over this put a tablespoon of boiled dressing,
in which plain cream or whipped cream has been added to give a mild flavor. Now sprinkle grated cream cheese over this, add a dash of paprika
and one has a very delicious salad.

To make the boiled dressing take a tablespoon of butter melted slowly,
the same of flour, two of sugar, one half teaspoon of salt and the same
of paprika. Mix into a smooth paste, then add one half a cup water and the same of vinegar, stirring all the time it cooks to prevent lumps.
When thick remove from the fire, and the yolk of two eggs and a quarter teaspoon of prepared mustard, beating all the time. Then set on the fire again about two minutes to heat the eggs through. This may be kept in a jar in a cool place to last indefinitely.

Cod a la Bechamel, made by Cook, is very delicious. Take two cups of cold cod, carefully flaked, season with half a teaspoon of salt and quarter of a teaspoon of pepper. Make a sauce as follows:
Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan and stir in an ounce and a half of flour. Mix well and stir in two cups of clear stock, stir and cook

and fasten into place. Brush over with olive oil or melted butter, dust with salt and pepper and lay the plank in the broiling chamber of gas stove for at least fifteen minutes.
Baste frequently and reverse the plank from time to time.

While the steak is broiling press
fresh boiled potatoes through a ricer, season and mix cream to make it
creamy. Put it into a pastry bag
and fashion it through in tuberose
fashion on the edge of the board.
Between the potato roses put little mounds of cauliflower, spinach,
onions and whatever other vegetables
you wish. Return to the bottom of the oven and allow all to brown delicately.

Stone jars with tight fitting covers
make excellent bread boxes, says Cook. Baked beans will be better if they are parboiled before they are put into the pot for baking. When trying to save that fat is not enough to answer the test before the article is put in. Pieces of stale bread may be saved for Brown Betty pudding. Queen pudding or bread muffins. Meat and fish should be taken from the fire sometime before frying or they will cool the fat.

Don't throw the feet of chicken away but clean them carefully and put them in the stock pot. Keep the dishes containing food closely covered and the refrigerator will be kept free from odors. Too many articles should not be put in hot fat at one time, for the temperature will be lowered and the article absorb the

fat. Warm cake and pie pans and rub the inside with paraffin wax.
This is superior to the old method of greasing pans with butter.

Cook gives the following directions
for pastry making: Use pastry flour
when possible. It makes a much more tender crust than does bread
flour and will require less shortening.
Lard makes a very tender crust but butter gives a better flavor. Shortening that is worked into the dough
makes the pastry short and tender,
but that which is spread over the pastry when rolling out makes it
flaky. Shortening should be thoroughly chilled before using. In very warm weather it is better to cut or rub shortening in with a knife or fork, rather than to use the hands.
as the heat from the fingers often softens the shortening and makes the pastry sticky. When rolling out the dough use only enough flour to keep the dough from sticking to board and
pin. Pastry should be kept as cool as possible during mixing. Use ice water when it can be obtained.
Handle pastry as little as possible
and bake in a hot oven.

CLARA BARTON

Memorial to the Founder of the American Red Cross

Special to The Sun

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5.—Active steps will be taken by the Clara Barton National Memorial association to secure the funds necessary to erect in the city of Washington a memorial to commemorate the great work done by Miss Barton in the Civil war and as founder of the American Red Cross. The association has in mind the erection of a splendid memorial which shall be a distinct recognition of Miss Barton's indomitable courage and her self-sacrifice in the cause of humanity. It is the wish of the association that the funds be raised by popular subscription, so all may have an opportunity to contribute towards a lasting tribute to the noble woman whose humanitarian efforts were not confined to any one country, any one cause or any one class of people. Clara Barton ministered to all who needed her personal help or the assistance of the great society she represented, and in erecting a permanent memorial to her bravery, her tenderness and her humanity, it is regarded as especially fitting that the entire country join in the movement.

This week Mrs. John A. Logan, widow of the famous general of the Civil war, as president of the Clara Barton Memorial association, will send out thousands of circulars calling attention to the proposed memorial and asking co-operation and funds. No definite form has been selected, but the suggestion of a Greek temple, dedicated to Miss Barton and containing suitable tablets commemorating her deeds and the establishment of the American Red Cross through her efforts, has met with much favor.

The appeal to be issued within a few days recounts how, in 1861, when the Civil war began, Clara Barton, a clerk in one of the departments in Washington, dropped her pen and commenced without preparation, the work of nursing the wounded. She followed the army to the battlefield where she enlisted loyal workers to assist in caring for the sick and wounded. "She was of invaluable service to the troops, the government and the country," says the appeal. After the battles of Cedar Mountain and Gettysburg, where we lost 70,000, came the disaster of Manassas and the Second Bull Run. Miss Barton gathered everything she could use for the relief of the wounded, of which there were 40,000. She went to the battlefield, and through three long days and nights without sleep ministered to the suffering men. When the battle of Antietam was imminent Gen. Rucker sent for Miss Barton and told her she must go on the march so as to be on the ground after the battle. The siege of Fredericksburg, Petersburg, the eight months' siege of Fort Wagner, Sumter and Gregg, the campaign and siege of Charleston found her close to the troops. After the close of the war she spent four years searching for missing men on the battlefields, the prisons and prison and field burying grounds. This work was undertaken by her at the personal request of President Lincoln. Devoting herself to this gruesome labor, she restored to the rolls 40,000 out of the 50,000 missing.

After the Civil war she went to Switzerland and became interested in the splendid work of the Red Cross, and was urged to join in the work. She did this, and was active during the Franco-Prussian war.

Witnessing the wonderful work done by the Red Cross in Europe, Miss Barton determined to urge the United States to join with the other countries which had adopted Red Cross work. It proved a long and tedious task, but with indomitable courage and persistence Miss Barton worked on, until General Garfield became president. Then she found ready sympathy for the cause. President Garfield was impressed with Miss Barton's conception of the Red Cross for America. She had worked in blood and fire before his eyes, he himself had stood with her in the rain of bullet and shell in the Civil war, and he worked zealously for its incorporation here. Miss Barton was the founder of the Red Cross in America and also the originator of the American amendment which was accepted by the Geneva conference and which was the first to provide that the Red Cross might be utilized to minister to sufferers from pestilence, famine, fires, flood or other calamities in time of peace. In addition to its work in time of war, the president of the International Red Cross at the convention of Geneva in 1882 characterized the establishment of the American Red Cross as follows: "Its whole history is associated with the name of one known to you all—that of Clara Barton. Without the energy and perseverance of this remarkable woman, we should not for a long time have had the pleasure of seeing the Red Cross received into the United States. And thus through Miss Barton's efforts, not only was that wonderful humane work carried on during the Civil war, both on the battlefield and in the hospitals, but the great movement of neutrality for Red Cross workers and international relief on war was brought about by her personal labor. The appeal will be sent to the Grand Army posts, Sons of Veterans, Relief Corps, Daughters of American Revolution, Loyal Legion and other patriotic societies, as well as to citizens. It is not intended to ask congress to make an appropriation, but to raise the necessary funds by voluntary contributions throughout the country. The appeal closes as follows:

"Will not the descendants of the soldiers to whom she ministered on the battlefield, in camps and hospitals, come forward with such donations as they may be able to give to the memorial? Will not the survivors of the reconstructions in Cuba, hundreds of whom would have perished but for her appearance, as president of the Red Cross movement, legally incorporated, chartered and officered for the sole purpose of erecting a memorial in Washington to the memory of Clara Barton?"

The president of the association is Mrs. Logan; John Joy Edson of Washington, the national treasurer, and the board of trustees and the vice presidents are men and women of recognized prominence in patriotic and humanitarian work.

MARKET ENLARGED

Vigean's Market in Upper Merrimack Street Now Has Double Floor Space

Vigean's market, located at the corner of Merrimack and Suffolk streets, which was opened about a year ago, has been enlarged by taking over the adjoining store on the Suffolk street side of the market. This annexation means that the size of this establishment has been doubled. In the newly added portion of the market will be located the fish and meat departments as well as the refrigerators. Mr. Vigean, proprietor of the business, realized that his store was too limited in which to satisfactorily do business, and he feels that this valuable addition will be greatly appreciated by his customers. The opening of the large market will be observed by offering special bargains to customers today and tomorrow.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

SPOOKS' NEW COLLAR

Once upon a time Spooks went to the kitchen for her breakfast of fish. Now Spooks was very fond of fish and for the last few weeks she had had all she wanted, in fact so much that Cook had said that the cat was growing so fast and was so fat she wasn't nearly as pretty as she used to be.

This morning Spooks ate more than ever so when she was through, instead of going out to play, she curled up in a corner and went fast asleep. "Come Spooks and play," called Nina but Spooks only opened one eye and winked and turned over to go to sleep again. This was too much for Nina so she grabbed the kitten and took it out in her arms. Spooks stretched and yawned and snap went her pretty collar that Nina's uncle had given her when she was little.

Poor Spooks, she had eaten so much and had grown so lazy, she had outgrown her collar. Nina was going down town with her mother that day and she asked if she could buy Spooks a new collar and her mother had said they would look for a real pretty one that afternoon. Nina got all dressed in her new spring dress and hat. She wanted to take her new umbrella but her mother said as the sun was shining, she thought it would look funny to be carrying an umbrella.

"All right," said Nina and they went into a store. Nina saw a lovely collar with blue stones on it and her mother said she could have that one if they could get it large enough. When Nina put the collar on Spooks it seemed very large but Cook said if the cat ate as much as she had been doing, she would soon grow to the collar, so they kept it and do you know, it is small for Spooks now.

LOWELL REMONSTRANT

ASSESSOR O'SULLIVAN HEARD IN OPPOSITION TO INCOME TAX BILL

Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan, member of the board of assessors for the city of Lowell, was one of the many remonstrants who spoke before the house yesterday against the income tax bill. He told the committee that every assessor in Massachusetts is opposed to the bill, and that he is of the positive opinion that the enactment of the bill would mean a loss instead of a gain to the state and various cities and towns.

Mr. O'Sullivan contended that the rate of 6 per cent. is too low and so it will not produce the revenue it is expected to produce. Even if the rate is lower, he said, no law will induce every owner of taxable intangible property to disclose all their property of this character.

He said he never heard of any man coming forward and voluntarily showing up all of this character of property in his name, regardless of where he may live, and particularly in Lowell.

That he is not opposed to an income tax, was the emphatic assertion of Mr. O'Sullivan, but he said that if we are going to have an income tax, we must have the law in such shape that it will contain an absolute compulsory provision which cannot be escaped by the tax-dodger.

Mr. O'Sullivan said that there is no doubt that the present tax laws are inequitable, as they cause too many injustices and hardships, but the bill in question will not remedy any of the existing deplorable conditions.

Favored the Bill
Attorney Arthur L. Spring, representing the Massachusetts state board of trade and speaking in favor of the bill, contended that the state requires additional revenue. Assessors should correct the evils of the bill rather than throw down the entire proposition.

Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan of Boston stated that the bill is favored by the Boston assessors and by Mayor Curley. Henry F. Abrahams, secretary of the Cigar-makers' union, 97 of Boston; George R. Willett of Norwood, a member of the State Tax association; Attorney William F. L. Gilman of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and City Solicitor Ernest H. Vaughn of Worcester also spoke in favor of the bill.

The opposition was opened by Representative George W. Worrall of Attleboro, who contended that the bill would permit of about 100 exemptions. Representative William O. Souther Jr., a dissenting member of the taxation committee also spoke in opposition.

He said that to enforce the provisions would cost the state $100,000. Others who opposed the bill were John Hannigan, an assessor of New Bedford, and Attorney W. P. Thore of Boston.

SAVES MEN, LOSES LEG

AMESBURY CONTRACTOR CAUGHT UNDER 15-TON PRESS AFTER WARNING MEN

AMESBURY, May 5.—Daniel C. Cashman, president of the Cashman Bros. company, contractors, yesterday afternoon suffered the loss of his left leg, when it was torn from the knee socket by the fall of a 15-ton piece of machinery at the munition factory of Gray & Davis.

Cashman, who is 50 years old and a resident of Amesbury, is at the Anna Jacques hospital in a critical condition. An operation for the amputation of the remaining part of the left leg will probably be performed today.

The accident was due to a break in a link of the immense chain by which the heavy machinery was being placed in the factory.

Mr. Cashman was at the Gray & Davis company plant superintending the installation of many huge and heavy pieces of machinery. When a

P. M. CONFERENCE

The fourth quarterly conference of the Merrimack Valley Primitive Methodist churches was held at the Gorham Street Methodist church yesterday afternoon. Those present included Rev. Alfred Humphries of the First church of Methuen, Rev. J. T. Darlow of the Second church of Methuen, Rev. G. T. Ullom of South Lawrence, Rev. Alenah Mesford of the Lawrence Street church, and Rev. N. W. Matthews of the Gorham Street church. Business was transacted in preparation for attendance at the annual conference next week at the Third church of Fall River. Last night Rev. Alfred Humphries spoke at a public meeting.

Mr. Cashman is a well-known contractor along the north shore. He is interested in many enterprises at Salisbury beach and other places along the shore.

Mr. Cashman heard a grinding noise, which he experienced at immediately terminated to be a breaking link. He shouted to his men to jump clear of the suspended machinery as it was about to fall. He waited for a moment after giving his men the warning and then moved to leave the spot.

His foot slipped on a tool and he fell. The 15-ton press fell upon his leg. Mr. Cashman retained consciousness. He directed his men in their efforts to effect the removal of the machinery so as to liberate him.

Dr. P. J. Mullen was summoned and he took Mr. Cashman to the Anna Jacques hospital, where he and Dr. U. S. Benson, a Haverhill surgeon, attended to the wound.

NAVAL BATTLE

Italian and Austrian Warships and Aircraft
Engaged in Adriatic

BERLIN, May 5. (By wireless to Sayville.)—A battle in the Adriatic between Italian and Austrian warships and aircraft is reported in a statement received here today from the Austro-Hungarian admiralty.

The statement also says Austro-Hungarian warships have raided the Italian city of Ravenna.

The statement follows:

"On the afternoon of May 3 and Austro-Hungarian naval air squadron bombarded with good effect the barracks and a sulphur factory at Ravenna. Flames were observed at the sulphur factory and a railroad station. The aeroplanes were shelled heavily by two batteries of anti-aircraft guns, but returned unharmed.

"At the same time a reconnaissance squadron of torpedo boats met four of the enemy's destroyers southwest of the mouth of the Po. A combat at long range ensued but it was without effect as the superior speed of the enemy's warships did not permit approach to them. Several aeroplanes joined the combat and fired with machine guns at the enemy's ships."

ZEPPELIN WHICH RAIDED SALONIKI DESTROYED—ONLY ONE OF 30 MEN ESCAPED

LONDON, May 5, 1:30 p. m.—A Zeppelin raided Saloniki during the early hours of this morning, according to a Reuter despatch from that city. The airship was subjected to a heavy fire and is reported to have been destroyed.

A later Reuter despatch from Saloniki states that the report of the destruction of the Zeppelin has been confirmed. Only one of the crew of 30 on the airship escaped.

GERMANS ATTACK FRENCH POSITIONS WEST OF THE MEUSE AND ARE REPULSED

PARIS, May 5, noon.—West of the Meuse the Germans yesterday evening strongly attacked the French positions north of Hill 304, says the official statement issued this afternoon by the French war office, but they were repulsed along the whole front attacked, except in one or two points in the advanced trenches.

An attempted attack on the trenches at Cappy, south of the Somme, the statement adds, completely failed.

East of the Meuse and in the Woëvre there was an intermittent bombardment.

Otherwise the front was comparatively calm.

The text of the statement follows: "South of the Somme a coup de main attempted by the enemy on our trenches in the region of Cappy was completely repulsed."

"West of the Meuse after bombardment of extreme violence the Germans at the close of the day yesterday launched a strong attack upon our positions north of Hill 304. They were repulsed along the whole of the front attacked but gained a footing at some points in our advance trench."

"East of the Meuse and in the Woëvre there was intermittent artillery activity."

DODGERS HAVE DESIGNS ON BUNTING HAVE EXCELLENT CHANCE OF COPPING TOO

BROOKLYN, May 4.—Wilbert Robinson's Superbas, having got off to a good start, are going right out to cop the old flag and bring it home to decorate Squire Ebbets' ball park in this city. Mr. Ebbets has been picking the Superbas to perform this feat for some seasons past, but until last year the team has never come near to fulfilling its owner's bright prophecies. This year, however, with a seasoned team and a pitching staff second to none in the league it looks as if the Dodgers might come through and barring accidents, there is no reason why they should not. Robinson is to be commended for building up the Brooklyn team to championship caliber. He has shown excellent judgment in picking his men for positions on the team, and in very few cases have his selections fallen down. His pitching staff composed mainly of youngsters, is the envy of all the rival managers, and there is not one member of it who would not be grabbed up if Robinson were compelled to let him go. The playing of the Dodgers, too, has revived interest in the great national game in Brooklyn these past two years, and even if the Dodgers do not come out on top the fans will stick by the team. Picture shows the Brooklyn manager and a few of his stars. Top, left to right, Daubert, Robinson and Stengel. Bottom, left to right, Rucker and Wheat.

St. Peter's church this morning with a solemn high mass, which was celebrated at 10 o'clock by Rev. P. L. Crayton, assisted by Rev. W. George Mullin as deacon and Rev. D. J. Keleher, pastor, acted as master of ceremonies. The congregation was very large and the service was very impressive.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

CASE OF CONLEY VS. BOSTON ELEVATED ON TRIAL—COURT ADJOURNED

The case of Martin Conley of Cambridge vs. Boston Elevated Co. was continued at the civil session of superior court before Judge Bell this morning. The case is an action of tort in the sum of $2000. The plaintiff claims that on Sept. 30, 1914, his wife, Kate Conley, was severely injured owing to the negligence of a servant of the company in the operation of a turnstile through which the woman was passing while entering the Central Square station in Cambridge, said station being in the care of the defendant company. The wife of the plaintiff, it is claimed, has died since the accident, but there is no allegation that death was due to the accident. Several witnesses were heard during the morning and at noon arguments were made. Court adjourned shortly before 1 o'clock until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

THURSDAY HALF HOLIDAY

MERCHANTS HAVE DECIDED TO GRANT IT DURING HOT WEATHER MONTHS

The heads of several mercantile establishments in the city held a meeting this morning at which the question of closing Thursday afternoons during the summer months was fully considered. After some discussion it was voted to close Thursday afternoons during June, July, August and September, and notices to this effect will be posted in the various stores within the next few days.

MUNITIONS PLANT FIRE

EXPLOSION IN PLANT OF CRUCIBLE STEEL CO.—FOUR FATALLY BURNED

HARRISON, N. J., May 5.—An explosion in a munitions plant of the Crucible Steel company here today, set fire to the building and burned four workmen, one fatally. The explosion was said to have been due to accidental causes. The plant was not seriously damaged.

At a brief special meeting of the school committee held yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock the seizure of land for the Pawtucketville school addition was approved and it was voted to notify the council that a six-room addition will be approved in the new Moody school.

A successful whist and social for the benefit of Garde Sacre-Coeur was conducted in the Sacred Heart hall in East Pine street by Miss Alice Normand last evening. The attendance was large, a varied entertaining program was given and the receipts were very substantial.

The members of the Worthen Street Baptist Sunday school held a banquet in the church vestry last evening. The affair was a red-letter occasion, inasmuch as the expenses of the evening were paid by the reds. The school was recently formed into two groups, the reds and the blues and a combination attendance and membership campaign was started with the understanding that the losers would entertain the winners at luncheon. The blues won and they were royally entertained by the reds.

An enthusiastic meeting of ladies and gentlemen interested in St. Peter's orphanage was held at the residence of Mrs. Henry L. Rourke in Highland street last evening, when plans and arrangements were discussed for the forthcoming military whist and dance in aid of the orphanage in Lincoln hall next Tuesday evening. It was reported that the tickets were being disposed of quite rapidly and it was the consensus of opinion that the worthy object of the undertaking would appeal to the charitable inclined throughout the city.

A well attended meeting of the British-American Social club was held Wednesday night in Post 120, G.A.R. hall. President Nell McNeil Waters occupied the chair and considerable routine business was transacted. The committee in charge of the recent bean supper reported that a good sum had been realized which will be added to the relief fund. George Whalley was elected to fill the office of vice president for the remainder of the year. It was voted to hold the second annual outing of the club at Revs. beach on June 24. The next meeting will be the last in the present hall, as larger quarters have been secured.

A song-recital in costume was given last evening in the vestry of the First Trinitarian Congregational church under the auspices of the Women's Federation, the affair, being in charge of Percy W. Edmunds. The accompanist of the evening was Miss Elodie Chapdelaine of the New England Conservatory of Music, and each number was well rendered. Those who took part were Percy W. Edmunds, Miss Elodie Chapdelaine, Alfred Sanson, Lisle Sewell, Mrs. F. L. Roberts, Master Roland Worth, Miss Elodie Clifford, Alexander Williams, Miss Alice Belanger, James E. Donnelly, Miss Eva Henderson, Jack Palmer, Miss Ella Thompson, Fred Timmins, Ed Handley and others.

U. S. MARINES LAND

TO PROTECT AMERICAN LEGATIONS AT SANTO DOMINGO—SITUATION CRITICAL

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 5.—Marines were landed today from the American converted cruiser Prairie for the protection of the American legation. The situation growing out of the attempt of factional leaders to overthrow the administration of President Jimenez is critical. President Jimenez has ordered the governor of Santo Domingo city to take charge of the forces under Gen. Ferrer. The rural guards have been placed under the command of the authorities appointed by the chief executive.

REV. HUSSEY INSTALLED

AT FIRST UNITARIAN CHURCH
LAST EVENING

Rev. Alfred Rodman Hussey, formerly of Baltimore, Md., was last night installed as pastor of the First Unitarian Society of this city. There was an informal reception previous to the installation exercises and following an organ prelude and singing of the doxology, Rev. George C. Wright gave the invocation. Caleb E. Fisher, D.D., read from the scriptures and the choir sang an anthem, "The Earth is the Lord's." The sermon was preached by Rev. Augustus M. Lord, D.D., of Providence, R. I. The full program of exercises was as follows:

Organ prelude.
Doxology.
Invocation, Rev. George C. Wright of Lowell.
Scripture-reading, Rev. Caleb Fisher, D.D., of Lowell.
Choir anthem, "The Earth is the Lord's," Rogers.
Sermon, Rev. Augustus M. Lord, D.D., of Providence, R. I.
Prayer, Rev. James de Normandie, D.D., of Roxbury.
Response, choir.

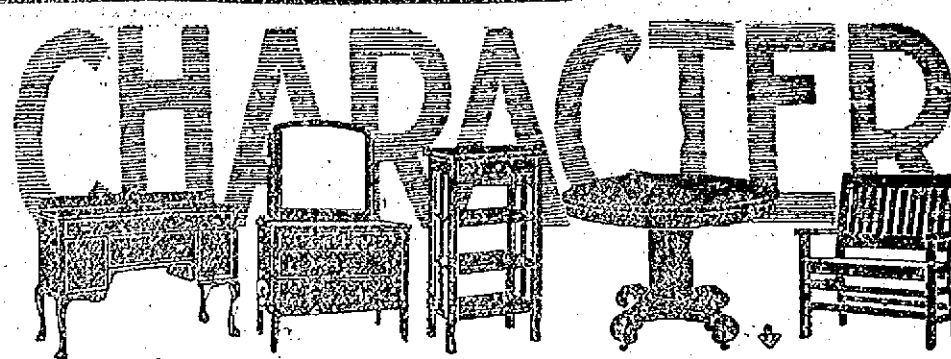

Congregational hymn.
Greeting to the minister, Rev. William B. Geoghegan of New Bedford.
The light band of fellowship, Rev. Allan Conant Fern of Lowell.
Choir anthem, "Father in Thy Mystical Presence," Scott.
Welcome to the parish and city, Frank E. Dunbar, Esq.
Address to the people, Rev. Charles T. Billings of Belmont.
Congregational hymn.
Benediction by the pastor.
Dr. Lord had for his sermon subject, "The Joy of Service," the text being, "My heart is to do the will of Him that sent Me."
"Christ," he said, "was starting them on the road to happiness by showing them that happiness is really something different from what they thought it to be. Translate his language into the language of pure reason and you get precisely the same thought in the words of Aristotle: Happiness, he says, is a kind of energy and energy is produced and not like property, merely possessed. Not what I have, but what I do, is my kingdom."
"The crying need of the day, of the generation, is what Jesus means by 'the will of God.' To get the power and conserve the energy to do something toward meeting such an insistent need of a world larger than our personal life, to feel that we are sent and are able to give where we are sent; that, says Jesus, is the highest happiness. To achieve that happiness for ourselves and for our fellowmen would be our desire.

"Almost the worst fate that can befall us, the most grapping handicap that can be laid upon us when we are young, is to have much given to us and little demanded of us, until we come to look for happiness in the guise of what we can get, rather than in what we can do.
"I think our understanding of a man's joy and satisfaction in his power of doing things, or mastering a particular kind of work, will enable us to understand the feeling that grows in a good workman, that there is a power urging him through his work to do that work better and better. That feeling in our urgency, the vision of work that is possible, which will not let man be happy until he moves toward it, but day by day as he moves, thrills him with the joy of doing something, of getting somewhere. The work of God, in other words, is not something apart from the vital interests of men. The work of God is the work of the world well done by men; and no kind of work is so humble that God's will is not seeking expression through it. I believe that the clamor of the spirit is everywhere that no honest toil need be devoid of joy and uplift. The building up of a great business that shall serve generation after generation, the invention of a method of manufacture, the organization of an industry for the welfare of

HOW TO GET STRONG

A Simple Remedy

Whatever the cause, we want to say to every person who needs strength, you need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, as it is the most efficient strength creator we have in our store. Here is proof from Dorchester, Mass.:
"I don't know what we would do without Vinol in our family. I was weak, nervous and run-down as the result of an operation, and Vinol restored my strength. Then Grandmother had a nervous breakdown, and Vinol built her up and restored her health and strength after everything else had failed. We have used Vinol for 15 years in our family, and would not be without it in the house." Myrtle L. Realy, Dorchester, Mass.
"We believe in Vinol because we know it is a great strength creator, due to the extractive medicinal elements of fresh cod livers, without oil, combined with phosphate of iron and beef peptone, all dissolved in a pure medicinal wine, so we always return the purchase money if Vinol fails to benefit those who buy it. THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

MAKING READY THE PORCH

"I am going to try and make the porch look real nice this coming summer," said Marjorie one day, "and I am getting all the suggestions I can now, so as to do the job with the smallest amount of mistakes and at the least cost."
"That is the proper way to go at it," responded Marie. "Willow furniture for porches has a warm place in my heart for it has a practical and comfortable value beyond all other kinds. It is smart looking too, and they look as if they were made for the porch. A single piece made on the lines of Easter Indian goods lends the true oriental flavor that nothing else supplies."
"Willow furniture combines well with old blue porch pottery, and with Japanese chintzes of blue and white, which there is nothing more dainty for afternoon teas or a lounge in the open. The pretty green and white china harmonizes well with it, too, as do also the old fashioned braided rugs which can now be purchased in almost any size and weave. They lend an old time atmosphere to the veranda, which is appreciated by the housewife with a hankering for an artistic home."
"Among other charming styles of porch furniture is a set of grass or reed stained in either dull green or a pretty bronze back to the chairs and the body of the pieces is woven partly solid and partly openwork design. They lack any profuse ornamentation, which, however, is an admirable idea for veranda use. Included in the set are several large tables, a large square one for a family meal, a circular 12x table and a card table. There are also jardiniere stands and chairs, not to mention a delightful swinging seat modeled after a Gloucester hammock."

MICHIGAN COPPER MINES

The complete report from Michigan copper mines received by the United States geological survey show the production to be the largest in the history of the industry. The total refined copper produced amounted to 235,556,410 pounds, according to R. S. Butler, as compared with 158,003,748 pounds in 1914, and with 231,122,228 pounds in 1912, the record production previous to 1915.

At an average price of 17.5 cents per pound the copper output of Michigan had a value of about $41,500,000 for 1915.

The copper mines produced 555,933 ounces of silver in 1915, valued at $297,065.

There was mined and milled in the Lake Superior district 12,524,599 tons of ore producing concentrates containing 255,253,378 pounds of copper, or a recovery of slightly above 1 per cent of copper from the ore. A portion of the concentrates produced was not smelted in 1915.

Major General Sir John Maxwell

Major General Sir John Maxwell of the British army, who was ordered to Dublin to take command of the troops engaged in suppressing the revolt in Ireland, is married to an American, formerly Miss Louisa Bonyage, daughter of Charles W. Bonyage, the California millionaire. He was formerly commander of the British forces in Egypt. Under the martial law that has been proclaimed he is clothed with plenary powers of life and death, and it is said he has orders to put down the revolt with an iron hand.

all that are engaged in it and are served by it; every man's work carries within itself the possibility of better conditions for those engaged in it. The will of God can find expression and is struggling for expression only among the workers who are working for each other. This is the work of God, and he who is enlisted in it heart and soul, who assumes his share in it, however humble, is uplifted and carried on in the power and the joy of the whole. "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, no matter if that is in the Declaration of Independence, it is a false metaphor out of the mistaken philosophy of the 18th century. Happiness is not anything you can catch up with or keep hold of. It is something that takes hold of you and goes along with you. It is an inappellable force of abounding life, that must express itself and that must express the larger life which is its exhaustless force. It has to do with price or payments, but with inherent values. Of what avail is it to know the price of everything, and to be spiritually a fool? That is to know the value of nothing.
"Every one of us knows those who have sold their souls for things that do

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

George G. Parsons, a respected and well-to-do citizen of Fresno, Cal., was in town this week, renewing old acquaintances.

The younger generation will probably ask why such an announcement appears in this column, rather than among the personals.

The answer is, that George Parsons is a real old timer; a baseball player in the latter '90's and early '00's, and the first man to pitch a curve ball in a ball game in Lowell. Now that's some distinction, and hence Mr. Parsons is accorded a place among the real old timers of Lowell.

Mr. Parsons in his early days pitched for a strong semi-pro team in this city, known as the "White-washers." They didn't take their name as a result of their respective occupations when off the diamond, for it was white in the game that they did the job of whitewashing, and hence their ominous title. On the team with Mr. Parsons was the original Barney McLaughlin. There have been several Barneys in baseball, in Lowell, in the past 30 or 40 years, but this one was the original and greatest Barney, who afterward played second base for the Philadelphia Nationals, and then came back to the Lowell New England League team. Other players on that team were Dana Saunders, Billy Conway, Ben Callery, now in Chicago, John Breen and "Pinky" Breen. "Pinky's" Christian name also was John and hence to distinguish them, he was given the nickname which stuck to him throughout his life. In later years Truant Commissioner William F. Thornton played with the "White-washers" before he became the star infielder of the old Athletics. George Parsons became famous in amateur baseball circles as the first amateur to attempt the curve ball with success. And after he went to Fresno, Cal., in 1883, he appeared on the diamond one day and startled the natives by handing out an assortment of benders that none could fathom. Mr. Parsons in his baby days lived with his parents in North Billerica, but came to this city when a boy, his father for many years conducting the "Shades" hotel in Market street, at the corner of Carpel Lane. He attended the Green school, and shortly after his arrival in Lowell, a week ago, while walking along the street, he met his old school teacher, Miss Ruth B. Bailey, whom he avers hasn't grown a day older in 30 years. So tickled was Mr. Parsons at meeting his old time school marm that he insisted that she accompany him to a picture where they had a "group" picture taken, which Mr. Parsons sent across the continent to his family in Fresno. After leaving school, Mr. Parsons went to work at the old planing mill of A. L. Brooks & Co., in Dutton street and was foreman of that establishment when in 1883 he resolved to try his luck in the far west and emigrated to Fresno. After engaging in business in Fresno for some time, he went to Modesto, Cal., some 22 miles from Fresno, where he held the position of postmaster for 12 years. Returning to Fresno he engaged in the real estate business and is at present located there. He states that he is reminded of the old days frequently by the fact that one of the schools which his boy attended is known as the "Lowell" school.

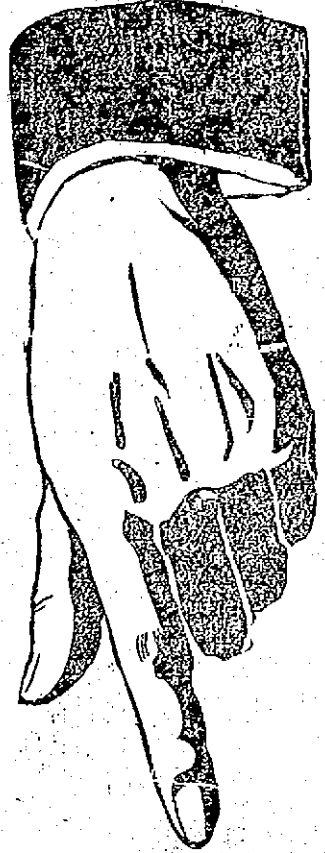

Of course, naturally, the first question put to him by the writer upon learning that his home is in Fresno was: "Do you know 'Fresno Dan' Russell?"

Mr. Parsons, smiling, replied that he knew Dan, and knew his counsel very well.

"Suppose you were making a small bet on the identity of the real claimant, would you lay your money on 'Fresno' or on 'Dakota'?" asked the writer.

"How dare you ask such a question of a patriotic citizen of Fresno," replied Mr. Parsons, with a huge grin. Speaking of the salubrious, or I believe, they refer to it as the "glorious" climate of California, Mr. Parsons said: "The weather people must have seen me coming, for they framed up a most penetrating winter season. I thought it would never stop snowing. Out in my country we had two inches of snow on January 1, and it was gone in half an hour, and that's all we saw of the snow this winter, while I was at home."

In regard to the heat of summer, Mr. Parsons said: "You know that when it's 92 in the shade here in New England, the men who work in the streets or in the fields, generally are obliged to quit work on account of the excessive heat. Out in California they go ahead with their day's work in the open, uncomplainingly, and without disastrous results, with the thermometer 110 in the shade. If you

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to A. W. Dows & Co., or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Koresin capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless, and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

look at the thermometer in California it seems very hot, but you will not feel the heat as you will in New England. We never hear of sunstroke out there, and what cases of heat prostration occur invariably are superinduced by some other cause."

Mr. Parsons while speaking with the writer paid the beautiful tribute of a school day chum, to the late Bishop John B. Delany with whom he played when a boy and he will return to California carrying with him as a highly prized souvenir of his visit to the east, a copy of the life and writings of the lamented prelate.

They Beat Us Out.

While the past few days have been the first of the year on which one could safely go without an overcoat, quarter of a century ago at this time Lowell was in full blast, and on May 15, the boys of Miss Burrell's class of the Edson school held a most enjoyable outing at the lake, with their popular teacher as the hostess of the occasion, while on Saturday, May 15, quarter of a century ago, the attractions there consisted of free dancing, a band concert by the old Lowell city band and fireworks in the evening.

"Dave" Quimby Coming to Town

As all coming events cast their shadows before, the shadow preceding the coming third annual assembly and initiation of the Lowell Fat Men's club, which is to take place on Monday evening next in Elks' hall, Middle street, will be Mr. David Quimby, formerly of this city, president of the United States Fat Men's club, who will arrive here early in the afternoon and who will renew old acquaintances at the American house.

Mr. Quimby, when down to weight, tips the beam at 350 pounds and hence is some shadow. He is now a prosperous candy manufacturer in Boston but he started to make his pile in Lowell and his first investment was in pigs, and thereby hangs a tale.

Long ago Mr. Quimby and his brother decided to leave their native hills of Vermont and seek fame and fortune in a big city. They selected Lowell as the big city, probably because Lowell was as far as they could go, out of the amount of funds in their possession. When they struck town, Frank Shaw was running the old Washington Tavern, prior to taking over the American house. Dave struck a job doing chores around the Washington house, and so well did he perform his work that Mr. Shaw adopted him, and when later he bought out the American house, Dave went along as Frank's barkeep. In those days, which were somewhat beyond quarter of a century ago, the farmers came to town with their produce and sometimes with live stock, even as they do today, only in larger numbers in those days, and one of their favorite meeting places was the American house, at which "Dave" Quimby's today, was famous. One day long ago a farmer blew into the hotel and sought the bar, and began conversing with Dave on his prospects. He informed the man behind the bar that he had in his wagon six little pigs, which he would sell very cheap, to get rid of them, and he painted a glowing picture of the vast amount of money to be acquired at successful pig-raising. "Dave" became interested. At that time he had saved up a few dollars and was looking around for some kind of profitable investment, and as it was the first time in his life that he ever had more money than would get him by from pay day to pay day, he was quite "leary" about taking any chances with his little roll. But the farmer had interested him to such an extent that he stepped around the corner and met the piggos face to face. One glance was enough. Dave was completely charmed at the cute appearance of the wee little porkers, and he struck a bargain at once. The farmer wanted to unload them, and Dave there in the hotel bar-room, but Dave made him wait until he had an opportunity to pick out a temporary abiding-place for his charges, which he succeeded in doing by frequent applications of today. In a short time he had made arrangements with a stable keeper in Warren street where Pound Keeper Peabody now holds down a fine city job, and there installed the pigs.

Perhaps you think the outcome of this story is that "Dave" was badly stung, on his bargain. Nay, such was not the case, for Dave became very much attached to his pigs, and he carried the critter to the hotel over to the stable every day and personally fed them, while he varied the diet with an occasional banquet of corn, and other good things. But day in and day out he fed his pigs, and paid for their lodgings beside, and they grew apace and waddled fine proper-looking animals that would make them eligible for any Fat Men's club in the land. Dave decided that they were no longer pets, and he believed that the time had come to realize a dividend upon his investment. Accordingly he made it known that he had six piggos for sale, and in a short time disposed of them at a fancy price, and then there decided that as his first investment had been a success he was destined to become a business man. Shortly afterward he went to Boston, and entered business and now at the turn of a century they engaged he can find time to attend sessions of the Fat Men's club wherever they may be held. Mr. Quimby has a beautiful home in Somerville, and among the appointments at his home are finely equipped training quarters for strange as it may seem, the critter to the pig in weight.

Mr. Quimby takes physical exercise daily, and claims that it keeps him "down to weight." He is unusually active for one of his size, and enjoys a good time like any other fat man. Mr. Quimby will preside at the exercises here Monday evening, but will come to the American house in the afternoon where he will be pleased to meet any old friends, fat or lean.

NORTH POMONA GRANGE

Meeting Held Today at Odd Fellows Hall on Bridge Street—Instructive Papers Read

The monthly meeting of the members of Middlesex North Pomona grange was held today at Odd Fellows hall, Bridge street, with about 200 grangers present. The meeting was presided over by worthy Master Warren E. Sherburne of Tyngsboro.

A business session was held in the forenoon and considerable business was transacted. It was voted to hold a field meeting on July 21, and the farm in North Newbury was selected as the place for the meeting. A committee was appointed to look after arrangements for this event, which promises to be a notable one in the history of the organization. Aug. 17 was set as the date for the annual farm visiting.

According to present arrangements, those who wish to participate in the visiting trip will assemble at Morris street at some specified time and their automobiles will be boarded. Several farms in the various towns surrounding Lowell will be inspected, and the members of the visiting party are requested to take notes and report at the following meeting of the grange. Last year the farm visiting trip was very successful for there were about 15 automobiles in line, each one carrying between four and five passengers.

At the close of the business session this forenoon a very interesting paper on "The Grange and Its Influence" was read by Mrs. Alice Colburn of the Dracut grange. This was followed by the reading of another important paper on "The Grange and Its Opportunities," by Mrs. Etta Spaulding of Chelmsford grange. Mr. Day of Billerica grange, who was formerly connected with a Boston banking house, read a paper on "The Grange and Its Purposes," and he also discussed in a very able way the methods of the Boston clearing house. At 12:30 o'clock the meeting adjourned for luncheon and those present repaired to the spacious dining room, where a very appetizing and plentiful dinner was served by the members of Carlisle grange. The dinner committee being headed by Mrs. Nettie Wilson.

The grangers reconvened at 2 o'clock and in the course of the afternoon listened to an interesting address by a prominent speaker, Mr. Hamilton of the state board of education, who took for his subject, "Team Play Between the School and Home." At the close of the address, which proved to be both interesting and instructive, Miss Mildred McKnight of this city gave several readings, which were very pleasing, while Mrs. Carrie Chase, the pianist of the grange, entertained with piano selections.

CONDUCTOR IS GUILTY

DAY STATE CARMAN FINED $25 FOR EJECTING A PASSENGER FROM HIS CAR AT MELROSE

BOSTON, May 5.—Edgar E. Burr, a conductor on the Boston street railway, was fined $25 by Judge Bruce in the Malden court yesterday for "disputing an almost self-evident fact" and forcibly ejecting a passenger from his car.

Burr had been accused of assaulting Dr. Dertram S. Killian, an Everett veterinarian. The physician, with five friends, was returning from a dance given by the Stoneham fire department about two weeks ago, according to the testimony. He boarded a Wakefield car by mistake instead of one for Malden square.

When Franklin square, Melrose Highlands, was reached, Dr. Killian attempted to board a car for Malden. It was then that Burr ejected him. When the physician returned and attempted to board the car the two clashed and blows were exchanged. Finally a policeman interfered and the physician was allowed to board the car and continue his trip.

NEW CANDLE PIN MARK

LYNN, May 5.—A new record of 1038, beating by three pins the score which has stood 10 days, was made tonight in the three-men candle pin division of the national duck and candle tournament by Collins, Derwin and Cole of the Lynn Elks team. A three-string total of 556 by Collins was the principal feature.

The Elks of Lynn and Lynn and Lynn rolled 1537 and Collins and Arnett in the doubles event put up 647, the high score of the day. The high individual was 322 by Arnett.

The Revere Elks with Paul Poehler rolled against the duck pins and the five-men team scored 1537, placing them in second position. In the individual class Kerrigan rolled 332, while Poehler's score was 325. Kerrigan, Miller and Poehler rolled 931, which places them inside the money.

BEN LINDSEY CRIMINALLY ILL

DENVER, Col., May 5.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey of the Denver juvenile court, who has made a national reputation through his adjudication of juvenile crimes, lies critically ill at his residence here. About a week ago Judge Lindsey was operated on for the removal of a tumor about the size of an orange from his back. Since then his condition has gradually become weaker.

TRIAL BY JURY GIVEN

DRAMATIC CANTATA PRESENTED IN ASSOCIATE HALL BY ST. PATRICK'S SANCTUARY CHOR

"Trial by Jury," a well known dramatic cantata, was presented very successfully at Associate hall last evening under the auspices of St. Patrick's Sanctuary choir. Quite a large audience attended and enjoyed the entertainment very highly. If one can judge by the applause that greeted the various climaxes of the production.

The leading soloists were James S. King, who assumed the role of plaintiff, and Thomas H. Delmore, who played the part of the defendant. John J. Boland, Eugene J. Dean, Daniel A. Powers and John F. Stapleton also did very creditable work. Charles N. Shaden of Boston was musical director and Brother Nilus assisted in the work. W. T. McCarthy as accompanist aided very largely in the musical success attained. The presentation showed the work of careful training and the possession of much musical talent on the part of the cast.

The cast of characters was as follows: Plaintiff, James S. King; defendant, Thomas H. Delmore; Judge, Daniel A. Powers; counsel for the plaintiff, John J. Boland; foreman of jury, Eugene J. Dean; usher of court, John F. Stapleton.

LAW AND ORDER IN DUBLIN

BERLIN, May 5, via London.—Law and order were better maintained today in Dublin than probably at any period in the history of the Irish capital. Before the recent disturbances the police were considered as an object for abuse by sections of the populace and even now under martial law their orders are obeyed with reluctance. A word from a soldier, however, commands instant respect, supported as it is, by rifle and bayonet.

Saloons are allowed to open only between 2 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon and after 7.30 o'clock in the evening no one is allowed to pass without a challenge.

The lord mayor and other city officials are working day and night in organizing the food supply and re-establishing the municipal services. Their difficulties have been increased by the lack of small currency and the closing of the banks.

KING PRAISES IRISH TROOPS

LONDON, May 5.—King George has sent the following despatch to Lieut. Gen. Sir John Maxwell, military commander of the forces in Ireland:

"Now that the recent lamentable outbreak has finally been quelled, I wish to express to my gallant troops in Ireland, to the Royal Irish constabulary and to the Dublin metropolitan police my deep sense of their whole-hearted devotion to duty and the spirit of self-sacrifice with which they acted throughout."

Two others, Francis Fahey and Richard Davys, were sentenced to ten years.

Joseph Plunkett, court-martialed and shot by order of the British government in Dublin yesterday, was one of the seven signers of the proclamation of the Irish provisional government.

When Patrick H. Pearse, provisional president and Thomas J. Clark and Thomas MacDonagh met a similar fate it was announced in cable despatches that the remaining four signers of the proclamation—Plunkett and James Connolly were imprisoned and that S. MacDermid and E. Connolly had not been accounted for. MacDermid, who is a cripple and in feeble health, and Connolly and James Connolly, three of the signers, are apparently still alive.

William Pearse, among those who were shot yesterday, was a brother of Patrick H. Pearse. He was a sculptor and was once a tutor in the Irish boys' school of which his brother was headmaster.

Edward Daly and Michael O'Hanrahan, also among the rebels killed yesterday, have not played prominent roles in the revolutionary movement so far as cable despatches indicated.

DISARMAMENT OF IRELAND

LONDON, May 5.—The Irish nationalist members of the house of commons will ask the government to secure the complete disarmament of Ireland. The Nationalist volunteers are willing to hand in their arms if the measure is made general. That the situation in Ireland is still serious is shown by letters from the Bishop of Dublin published in this morning's papers, in which he writes:

"Martial law should not be too quickly withdrawn from Dublin. The danger which has been much greater than the government will admit, is by no means past. Many armed rebels still are at large in Dublin and the danger of another uprising can only be averted by the most strict measures. This is not the time for amnesties or pardons. It is a time for swift, stern punishment."

SIR ROGER'S TRIAL

LONDON, May 5.—Sir Roger Casement's trial will take place in London within a fortnight before three or five judges and a jury. Baron Reading, the lord chief justice of England, probably will preside. The attorney-general will conduct the prosecution.

GERMAN NOTE

ment might have to wait to see whether the abandonment will be effected.

The other was that the United States having already attempted to have Great Britain give up its interference with neutral commerce and having told Germany that it cannot discuss with her its negotiations with Great Britain has had no course but to break diplomatic relations with Germany.

While the general tone of the German note created an unfavorable impression, officials took the position that the language was immaterial if the guarantees were real.

New Orders Chief Point

Germany's declaration that she has issued new orders to submarine commanders not to attack without warning "merchant vessels recognized by international law" was considered the chief point. The German note now came to the point where Germany's future action would determine the course of the United States.

Refuses to Admit Sussex Attack

The refusal of the German government to openly admit the attack on the Sussex was considered only incidental to the main issue.

Until President Wilson himself decides whether the German note is acceptable there will be no announcement of the attitude of the government.

CABINET MEMBERS RETICENT

WASHINGTON, May 5.—When the cabinet meeting broke up Secretary Lansing met all inquiries with this reply:

"I cannot discuss it at all at this time."

All the other members of the cabinet made similar statements. It was made plain that President Wilson would decide his course after studying the official text.

While final decision on the attitude of the American government waits on the official text, some cabinet members indicated that the German assurances probably would be accepted and that diplomatic relations would not be broken unless the order to submarine commanders was violated and American lives endangered.

The cabinet was in session two hours and a half—the longest meeting held for several months.

Members of the cabinet were uncommunicative, all saying that no further steps would be taken until the official text was placed before President Wilson.

The private view of officials seemingly was that the new orders to submarine commanders apparently met the demands of the United States, unless an interpretation were placed on them to lead to attack on merchant vessels armed for defensive purposes.

The general tenor of the German note, however, was considered unsatisfactory. There was some disposition among the president's advisers to believe no drastic steps will be taken unless the new orders to submarine commanders are violated or modified.

BERNSTORFF GOES TO CAPITAL

NEW YORK, May 5.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador left for Washington today on a 1 o'clock train after having received at his hotel here the text of the German note. The ambassador denied himself to interview.

It is known, however, that the German embassy view is that the note is all for which the United States asked; that it signifies a return to what has been termed "cruiser warfare"—that is, the operation of submarines as cruisers intercepting commerce with visit and search. The embassy view is that inasmuch as no mention was made in the note of the question of armament it is not a complicating feature.

DEMORALIZED TONE OF MARKET

NEW YORK, May 5.—Wall street's grave view of the German note was reflected in the demoralized tone of the stock market at the opening today, active issues, particularly those comprising the war group, breaking three to six points, with 14 for Bethlehem Steel.

The tenor of the German reply was generally known before the market opened, the news tickers and other agencies having published many of its essential features.

Commission houses received countless queries by telephone and telegraph from out of town points.

Brokers had numerous selling orders and the course of the market at the opening denoted little support.

The more specific declines included Crucible Steel, 6 points; Lackawanna Steel, 4; Anaconda, 3 1/2; Industrial Alcohol, 3 1/2; U. S. Smelting, 6 1/2; and numerous 1 to 2 points declines elsewhere.

U. S. Steel opened with 4000 shares at $0 1/2 to $1, against yesterday's close of $2 1/2, and Marine Petroleum's initial sale comprised a block of 3500 shares at $2 to $3, a maximum decline of 6 points.

Railroads were relatively steady, declines in that division ranging from fractions to 1 1/4. Supporting orders brought rallies of 1 to 4 points in the first 15 minutes, but the market's undertone continued feverishly active.

Further recoveries were made before 11 o'clock by which time excitement had died down and trading was almost normal. In fact, leading stocks like the U. S. Steel among the industrials and Union Pacific among the representatives of railroads were then only mere fractions under yesterday's close, while the note was actually above that quotation.

Later excerpts of the German note were regarded as far more conciliatory in tone than the early passages. Some readers of the document were inclined to believe that German instructions to her submarine commanders would go far towards meeting the demands of the government at Washington.

An unfavorable interpretation of the German note caused active liquidation in early session of the cotton market today. The opening today showed a loss of approximately one dollar a bale in the case of July contracts. That delivery sold down to 12.37, comparing with 12.62, the high point of yesterday, while the general list showed net losses of from 12 to 21 points. Offerings were well absorbed at the lower level and rallies of several points followed, but sentiment was much unsettled.

REVIEW OF NOTES TO GERMANY
WASHINGTON, May 5.—Germany's diplomatic correspondence with the United States on the submarine issue has extended over nearly a year and more than one has brought the two countries to a pass where the long-expected break seemed unavoidable. All along President Wilson has spoken primarily for the inviolable rights of Americans and generally for the rights of neutrals. Germany has been restrained by a powerful public sentiment aroused against curtailing the effectiveness of her best weapon against her enemies, and President Wilson has been embarrassed first by dissension in the cabinet and later in congress and by pro-German propaganda conducted throughout the United States.

Submarine warfare did not actually enter the realm of diplomacy until after the destruction of the Lusitania. The accumulation of cases affecting Americans was taken up in the first note to Germany, which was despatched May 15, 1915. It characterized the attacks on the Falaba, Cushing, Gulflight and Lusitania as "a series of events which the United States continued to page seventeen

CAPT. WORTHEN POINTS OUT THAT THE NUMBER OF VETERANS IS RAPIDLY DIMINISHING

Capt. George E. Worthen of Post 42, G.A.R., will be chief of staff of Memorial day parade, and a feature of the day's exercises will be a union collection in the vestry of the First Universalist church after the parade. This feature was suggested, or perhaps more properly speaking, requested, by Lucius A. Derby, past commander of the Sons of Veterans, and it will include the three G.A.R. posts, the two relief corps, Ladies of the G.A.R., and Daughters of the G.A.R.

Thirty-seven veterans have died in Lowell since last Memorial day, May 30, 1915, and the total number of veterans in Lowell today, according to Captain Worthen's records, is 214, and the total number of widows of veterans is 285. The total number of veterans' widows Jan. 1, 1916, was 285. Ten have died since then and eight others have become widows since that date, so that the number at the present time is 236.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the Memorial day parade this year, and the day is not very far away. Captain Worthen has sent invitations to the four local militia companies, the high school regiment, the 2nd regiment Franco-American volunteers, and other uniformed companies to do escort duty.

Captain Worthen stated this afternoon that immediately upon receipt of his, the captain's letter, Col. Albert Bertram, commander of the 2nd regiment Franco-American volunteers, called at Mr. Worthen's office and assured him that he would be on hand with his command to do escort duty.

The program for the day will begin with the comrades assembling at the posts headquarters, and they will then proceed in automobiles to the cemeteries for the decoration of graves and the customary exercises. The automobiles will be supplied by Lucius A. Derby.

The parade will leave the South common at 4 o'clock, sharp, in the afternoon and will go over the usual route. The parade will be reviewed by the mayor and other members of the city council at city hall and after the parade will come the union collection at the First Universalist church, instead of supper and entertainments at the various post halls as has been the custom in former years.

IN POLICE COURT

This morning's session of the police court was one of the shortest that has been held in a long time. With the exception of several cases which were recontinued and simple drunks, there were but three cases with drunkenness as charged.

John O'Leary, charged with drunkenness, was sentenced to four months in jail. Zephaniah G. Englund was fined $8 and one woman, who has been on parole from the state farm, will be returned to that institution.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many kind friends, who by word and deed helped to lessen our pain and sorrow caused by the death of our beloved mother, Aina Maguire. We are also grateful to those who sent floral tributes.

Alaska and Cuba will send delegates to the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in New York city next month.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS OF THE HIGH SCHOOL PRESENT TOKEN OF THEIR ESTEEM

Mr. William Dennett, the new principal of the Morey grammar school who resigned his position as teacher of chemistry at the local high school today, was presented a beautiful gold mounted fountain pen by the members of last year's football squad of which he was faculty manager. Mr. Dennett will assume his new duties at the Morey school on Monday.

The presentation took place today after the close of study hours in Room 6. William Desmond, left end of the football squad, who made the presentation, spoke in glowing terms of Mr. Dennett's work for the promotion of athletics at the school and expressed the regrets of the members of the football squad at his departure. Mr. Dennett, although taken completely by surprise, made a fitting response, saying that he would always remember his connection with the school and the football squad of 1915. Fifteen members of the football squad and Coach Conway were present at the presentation.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A surprise box for the children when kept inside during the spring rains will keep them amused for hours at a time. Make it full of the most delightful surprises imaginable, a box which is a treasure trove of wonderful things to the kiddies. It will not be a bother or expense, for children love the quaintest little scraps of things and will play quite happily with anything that is novel.

Any sort of box will do for the purpose, but have one that you can lock until the propitious moment comes. Everything in it should be as striking and surprising as possible. Penny toys, picture postcards, foreign stamps, odd bits to make clothes for dolls, a new story book are all good. There is no reason for spending money upon the box, for the treasure of wonderful things must be kept for very special occasions; when it is a rainy day or the child is not feeling well.

Mothers should be careful what they feed their children at all times, but especially in the summer season. It is easy to obtain an authorized diet list suited to the age of the child and it is far safer to stick to such a list than to allow the child a nibble of this or that just because he happens to fancy it.

Children should be given a regular allowance of money for his own use. Through this he will learn the enjoyment of immediate indulgence in trifling whims or he may learn to expend his resources with discrimination. The child's claim to such allowance can be justified in his mind just as his right to food and clothing is justified. He gets these things as a reward of merit, but through his status as a dependent member of the home.

The common house fly is no longer and object of tolerant interest, but has become an object of hatred and disgust. He is known to be the principal factor in the distribution of the germs of typhoid and other diseases of childhood.

Especially is he regarded as the enemy of the baby, as there is reason to believe he carries about the germs of summer diarrhea as he leaves them behind him with other filth, when he lights on the nipple of the feeding bottle, or crawls over the saucer of cereal, or falls in the milk. Thus he is a real danger, not only to the baby, but to the whole family, and every effort should be made to do away with him.

Baby's nipple should be washed very carefully. It should be rinsed and dropped into boiling water for a few minutes. It will dry with its own heat when removed, then it should be put away in a glass jar that has also been boiled, covered and kept out of sight. When handling the sterilized nipple take hold of it by the lower rim. Do not touch the part that is to go into baby's mouth.

Never put the nipple in your mouth to test the milk, as the baby might easily be made ill if the mother has been bothered, covered and kept out of sight. It will be found convenient to have enough bottles, nipples and clean bottle corks for the entire twenty-four hours, and it will be a great saving of time if all the feedings are made up at once. This will also ensure their being of uniform quality.

Here is a good diet for a teething baby: Breakfast—Juice of a Florida orange strained, soft boiled egg with graham or whole wheat bread, crumbled into it substituted sometimes by cereal or zwieback which is excellent, a slice of bread and butter, a glass of milk or water and sugar.

Dinner—Three times a week make broths of either beef, lamb or chicken, cooking it slowly all day previous to serving it, allowing it to stand overnight, taking off all the fat, and serving it with stale bread broken up in it. If there is no broth give a baked potato creamed with butter, a custard or baked apple, a glass of milk and a slice of bread and butter.

Supper—Bread and milk or broth, a slice of bread and butter, and just before putting the baby to bed, a glass of milk.

Orange juice is a most wholesome drink to give young babies. Strain the juice and give a teaspoon just after or before the milk feeding. Small babies need cool water to drink. Their milk is a food, not a drink, and a fretful baby often is crying for water. To make barley water blend one teaspoon of barley, one quart of water and boil continuously for six hours, adding enough water to keep a quart. Strain through a muslin and soak the barley before cooking it.

To make oatmeal gruel, to three cups of boiling water add a half cup of oatmeal and a half teaspoon of salt. Cook five hours in a double boiler. Dilute with hot milk and strain.

TO HELP THE POLES

ALL CHILDREN UNDER SEVEN YEARS OF AGE ARE DEAD IN POLAND

J. Fenton McManmon, president of this year's graduating class of the Lowell high school has received the following explanatory letter from Horace K. Turner, general secretary of the society formed for the purpose of aiding the starving children of Poland:

J. Fenton McManmon,
President Lowell High School Class.

Dear Sir:—All children in Poland under seven years of age are dead, except a few of the well-to-do in cities, starved to death or killed by hardship. Millions of little children in other war countries live in holes in the ground like wild beasts, slowly starving to death.

"Will the boys, the girls, educated in our schools and colleges, permit these millions of children to die also? Will school and college graduating classes sit at luxurious banquets and give costly memorials of pictures and casts to perpetuate the fair name of their class of 1916 when the cost of these would save the lives of little children who otherwise must starve in agony?"

I do not believe it and I ask the help of your class in this terrible time in one or all of the following ways:

1—Will the class give its class memorial fund to relieve the sufferings?

2—Will your class give at least part of the money to be used for its class festivities on the closing days of the class of 1916?

3—Will your class charge a small admission to the commencement exercises or collect a special contribution at these exercises? It will be a rich benediction on the closing days of the class of 1916.

Very truly yours,
Horace K. Turner.

Among the noted men affiliated with the movement to obtain aid in this country for the children of the war countries are Charles W. Elliot, David Starr Jordan, Richard C. McLaughlin, John H. Finley, John G. Hibben, Alfred Noyes, George E. Vincent, Benjamin L. Wheeler, Charles L. Ames, Francis M. Blair and many others, all heads of the principal colleges and schools of this country.

The members of the local graduating class had heard of the movement before receiving the above letter and have already voted to contribute the money that would otherwise be used for a class gift to the aid of the starving children of Poland.

At a meeting held by the graduating class yesterday afternoon the following officers were elected to take charge of the dancing party to be held in the assembly hall of the school on May 18: J. F. McManmon, George L. Connolly, E. Murphy, R. Walker, Alice Dacey, Dorothy Mahoney and George Bachman.

WHAT HORTENSE TOLD ME

Many colors add to their wearers' apparent size and one should be careful as to what colors to wear. Black has the power of making one look her slimmest, and the stout find it a good friend. Yet the effect is so depressing that one forgives those who ignore it's thinning quality. Subdued shades of blue, heliotrope, and olive green have also this happy and much coveted effect of lessening the appearance of bulk, but wedge-wood blue, pale gray and almost all tones of red have the opposite power.

White can be worn by all, though only the blonde should choose clear or dead white. The wise brunette should choose creamy tones. Mauve and certain shades of green, if worn near the neck and shoulders, are helpful in lessening any appearance of overfullness. Oddly enough these colors suit a certain type of blonde who is apt to become stout after very early girlhood is past.

A good shampoo to make the hair nice and fluffy is made from one egg, one tablespoon of tincture of green soap, one teaspoon of cologne, and water enough to fill a cup. Rub the mixture through the head. It is better to use a shampoo brush, brushing the scalp vigorously when applying it. If you have no shampoo brush a tooth brush kept for the purpose is all right. Rinse all the soap out of the hair before drying.

If you have a dark mark about your neck from wearing furs too constantly this winter, it is well to use regular applications of lemon juice and glycerine after washing. The glycerine helps to keep the skin soft.

To make bay rum for home use, use a quarter of a pound of carbonate of magnesia, saturated with oil of bay. The magnesia is pulverized and placed in a filter. After pouring through it water until sufficient quantity is obtained, alcohol is added. Naturally the amount of water and alcohol used will depend upon the amount of bay rum you wish to make, and it's strength.

A very little peroxide of hydrogen in the last rinsing water, when you shampoo your hair, will make the hair slightly lighter. How much you will require depends on the original color of the hair. One can try a little at a time until the desired shade is secured. A good curling fluid is as follows: Distilled water, one pint; bruised quince seed, one tablespoon. Boil gently until reduced to one half, strain through cheese cloth, and then add alcohol and cologne, one and a half ounces each.

The hair should be thoroughly brushed once a day, but not violently. Brush clear through the hair of the scalp. This will remove dust and dandruff, distribute the natural oil and make the hair glossy and fluffy. Do not plaster the hair down flat on the scalp when brushing, but lift it up from the scalp with each stroke of the brush. This is accomplished by using one side of the brush and giving a little upward turn to the wrist, lifting only a little strand of hair with each stroke of the brush.

Wrinkles are ugly, loathsome and inexcusable and are the penalty women pay for neglect. Some women have them because they were educated to believe that cosmetics and virtue are as companionable as oil and water. Other women are victims of the silly notion that it is a mother's duty to look after her family and relatives and neighbors and depend on—everybody except her poor self.

She must polish the silver and the mahogany, but never a shine up must she give her own face. Everything must be preserved, from strawberries to the family heirlooms, but it is quite proper that a woman's wonderful beauty should vanish through neglect.

Here is a wonderful wrinkle specific which women with wrinkles would do well to use: Rose water, one half pint; simple tincture of benzoin, one quarter ounce; attar of roses, three drops. Put the rose water in a bottle and add the benzoin and drop at a time. Add the attar of roses and bottle. Apply with cotton at night.

Freckles can be prevented by veiling the face in cold cream before you play tennis or motor in the bright sun. Blackheads, surface eruptions, and a chapped dry skin may be prevented by a daily cleansing and massage of the skin with cold cream. When the spring winds have whipped your face until it is almost raw, use this cream: Almond oil, three ounces; white wax, five drams; spermaceti, five drams; lanolin, one ounce; oil of bitter almonds, one ounce; elder flower water, three ounces; witch hazel, one ounce.

When badly sun burnt do not wash the face soon after but wipe gently with vaseline or cold cream and dust it lightly with talc. If you use water as hot as can be borne, dip soft clothes in the water and lay them over the face, renewing as they grow cold.

A facial massage is splendid if performed rightly, but if not it is positively injurious. With the tips of the fingers massage the forehead from the nose to the temple with a rotary motion, then slide down to the chin and work upward close to the side of the nose to the eyes. Slide down again, each time a little further back, and repeat the motion until the whole face has been covered. Next work under the eyes with the middle finger from the nose outward to the corner of the eyes.

Here are two creams containing ingredients that are usually beneficial to any skin: A good cream: Cream—Almond oil, three ounces; spermaceti, one ounce; white wax, one ounce; elder flower water, two ounces. Elder flower cream is also good: Almond oil, three ounces; white wax, five drams; spermaceti, five drams; lanolin, one dram; elder flower water, three ounces; witch hazel, one ounce.

Milk of almonds is a thin cream that is very whitening and softening in its effect: Blanched butter almonds, four ounces; orange flower water, twelve ounces; toilet water, one half ounce; oil of bergamot, fifty drops; oil of camphor, ten drops; oil of almonds, twenty drops; alcohol, sixty-five per cent.

The following cream is fattening and is especially for thin arms and neck: Oil of sweet almonds, forty grams; white wax, twenty grams; tincture of benzoin, ten grams; rose water, ten grams; pulverized tannin, one half dram.

ARE FIGHTING CANCER

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENTS ARE SPREADING THE GOSPEL OF HOPE

Among the many agencies now active in the campaign against cancer, several of the state departments of health are making notable efforts to spread the gospel of hope which is found in the early recognition of the danger signals of the disease and its prompt and competent treatment. The health authorities of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, West Virginia and Idaho have been especially active in disseminating trustworthy information and advice about the prevention and cure of cancer.

The New York state health department, under the leadership of Commissioner Hermann M. Biggs, is the latest to enlist its forces in the war against cancer. The entire March number of "Health News," the department's monthly bulletin, is devoted to consideration of the nature, prevalence and treatment of malignant disease, with the object of creating among the people a healthy vigilance which leads to the taking of expert advice on the first appearance of danger signals.

There is nothing that any one of us can do to prevent the occurrence of cancer except in avoiding certain specified causes of local irritation," says "Health News" in an editorial which opens the discussion. "On the other hand, there is incontrovertible testimony as to the probability of its cure in a large percentage of cases if taken in time. That cure consists in the complete surgical removal of the growth at the earliest possible moment. Early diagnosis, early removal—there is not now nor has there ever been any other successful method of curing the disease."

The leading article in this special issue of the health department's magazine is by Dr. Francis Carter Wood, director of cancer research at Columbia university. Additional papers are contributed by other notable figures in the scientific world, including Fredrick L. Hoffman, L.L.D., statistician of the Prudential Insurance company and chairman of the statistical advisory board of the American society for the control of cancer, and Dr. Harvey R. Gayford, director of the New York State Institute for the study of malignant disease.

Writing on "What People should know about Cancer," Dr. Wood endeavors to dispel some of the mistaken popular notions which have grown up regarding this disease. He dispenses of the stories regarding "cancer villages," "cancer houses" or

The Largest and Oldest Credit House in the City.

"cancer belts," briefly showing that the occurrence of a number of cases in a house usually is due to the fact that the occupants are old people; that "cancer villages" usually are small towns from which most of the young people have emigrated, and that in like manner "cancer belts" are found to be sections of the country where the population is distinctly aged.

The idea that cancer is hereditary is likewise made light of by Dr. Wood, and he declares that there is no reason whatever to worry because one member of a family has suffered from the disease. "It does not at all follow that any other member of a family will have it," says Dr. Wood, and quotes from the laws governing statistics to show that if there are two or more cases in a family it is due purely to chance.

The quackery which is practised by

unscrupulous people in the treatment of cancer is severely censured both by Dr. Biggs and by Dr. Wood. It is made perfectly plain that cancer is comparatively easy to cure if it can be taken in time. The bulletin declares that if the simple truth is thoroughly established that cancer begins in most instances in a recognizable form, it can be successfully combated. Dr. Hoffman in his paper emphasizes "the supreme importance of the earliest possible diagnosis and the incalculable value of the earliest possible medical and surgical treatment."

Dr. Wood puts stress on the declaration that if the disease can be diagnosed in its early stages the cancer can be removed with very great possibilities as to permanent cure. "The commission of health takes this opportunity," says Dr. Biggs, "to warn the people of the state against the expenditure of money,—often ill-afforded,—the raising of false hopes, and, above all, the waste of precious time through the use of alleged cancer cures and consultation with their unscrupulous purveyors."

In anticipation of a popular demand for information regarding cancer the Massachusetts State department of health is prepared to send a pamphlet entitled "What you should know about cancer" to any citizen who may request it.

LOWELL WOMAN LEARNS TO WALK AGAIN

WAS CRIPPLED FROM RHEUMATISM

Suffered From Deforming Arthritis—Joints Grated Like Sand—

Nurse Says Recovery Almost Beyond Belief.

"It is almost beyond belief," was the comment of a nurse who recently visited Miss MacMasters at her home, 312 Humphrey St., Lowell, Mass.

"I have read a great deal about Var-ne-sis, but paid very little attention to the letters until I investigated, thinking Var-ne-sis was the same as all other preparations. I have stood firm against advertised medicines, but my investigation has opened my eyes to the harm one may do by condemning every remedy without knowing something about it. Miss MacMasters was told not to take Var-ne-sis; had she heeded this advice she thinks she would be in her wheel chair today."

Miss MacMasters when seen was busy getting dinner ready. She told how she learned to walk again by grasping the edge of a table, and gradually worked from one end to the other. She stated that she recently went shopping and walked up and down stairs without difficulty.

She said: "For seven years I have not known a day that I did not have pain. All my joints were afflicted, when I moved my head I could hear and feel grating like there was gravel or sand in my neck. My knees would snap and grate like my neck; they were drawn up so I was unable to straighten them; the grating of my knees could be heard downstairs. If I wanted to sit down I would have to literally fall in a chair. Trunk straps were fastened around my body to get me upstairs. On the top step I was laid on a rug and dragged to the bed."

"The fingers of the right hand were drawn into the palm and the hand drawn to the body. I could not get my hand to my head, as joints were stiff, and I had to be fed and dressed like a child. I was in continual pain and no part of my body seemed to escape the disease. Different physicians treated me for a time, but finally said I could not be cured. One physician gave me injections of a vaccine, but I only grew worse. The last doctor said I would never get rid of the disease, as it was the worst form of rheumatism arthritis deformans. I was in bed for a long month."

"Reading about Var-ne-sis and how it helped others with rheumatism of the joints I decided to try it. I am glad I did, for in a short time I could use my wheel chair, then my crutches and finally my canes. The pain and stiffness became less noticeable. The crutched hunches of the fingers and the knees disappeared, my hands straightened, so that now I can feed and dress myself. I can walk downstairs step after step, saw a little and do some housework."

"I have given W. A. Varney my wheel chair, crutches and canes to add to his large collection, for I can get about now without any assistance. "I am glad you called, for I am always pleased to tell anyone how I recovered from this terrible disease. Perhaps my experience will help some other poor sufferer."

It is the duty of every rheumatism sufferer to investigate the truth of this statement. If not true it is the duty of the authorities to investigate. Hundreds of preparations claim a great deal, but none produces facts and evidence like Var-ne-sis.

Send to W. A. Varney, Lynn, Mass., for the "Story of Var-ne-sis." It's Free.

Veal Bill Substituted in Senate— Ways and Means Committee Favors Income Tax Bill

BOSTON, May 5.—The state senate yesterday substituted for an adverse report of the committee on public health a bill relative to the sale of young calves for food. Senator Hays, who moved substitution, said the purpose of the bill was to have the state and federal laws harmonize. Senator Hays declared that at present the state law permits the sale for food of the carcass of any calf weighing 40 pounds, and as Holstein and Guernsey calves frequently weigh 75 pounds at birth, they may be sold when utterly unfit for food. The federal law, he said, prohibits the sale of calves which are unwholesome for food, and rigidly defines unwholesomeness. He quoted Health Commissioner McLaughlin as favoring the bill. Senator Clark of Brockton opposed the bill on the ground that the federal law leaves the determination of wholesomeness to the judgment of inspectors. Senator Fay of Medford characterized the bill as the old "bob vein" measure, and simply another attempt to permit the sale of improper food products. Senator Ellis of Newton, a large cattle raiser, said the 40 pound provision of the present state law affords absolutely no protection, as many calves weigh more than that at birth. By a rising vote of 15 to 11, and a rollcall vote of 17 to 12, the bill was substituted.

AMERICAN OFFICERS RECEIVE VISITORS

Visiting the American camps in Mexico has been quite a favorite diversion of Mexican army officers—that is, of such of them as do not display openly the hostility to the presence of American soldiers in Mexico that is felt by many Mexicans. Among the Mexicans who visited the camp at Colonia Dublan was Lieutenant Colonel Trefigio Davila of Casas Grandes, seen seated at the left in the picture. The other seated gentleman is Lieutenant Colonel D. Rossey C. Cabell of the Tenth United States cavalry; standing is Lieutenant N. W. Campanole of the Sixth United States infantry.

Weekly Payment Bill
Senator Gifford of the Cape opposed the bill to provide for weekly payment of wages to employees of hotels on the ground that employees of small hotels would prefer to have their employer save their money for them.

The bill was favored by Senator Sheehan of Holyoke, made the point that there is no definition in Massachusetts statutes of the word "hotel." The bill was ordered to a third reading by a rising vote, 17 to 6.

Senator Clark of Brockton urged substitution of the bill to bring Massachusetts food and drug laws in conformity with the federal laws for the report reference to the next general court of the committee on public health. Substitution prevailed by a voice vote.

The Arlington street subway station bill was postponed until Monday on motion of Senator Bates of Boston.

The several milk bills were postponed until Monday.

Trading Stamps and Coupons
The committee on rules of the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday voted, with no dissenters, to admit the petition of Senator Jas.

F. Cavanaugh of Everett for "an amendment of the law relative to the distribution of trading stamps, checks and coupons, and for legislation with reference to misleading representation and advertisements."

This resolve has been admitted by the senate and has been the subject of several hearings by the house committee on rules.

The committee yesterday voted to admit resolutions addressed to the national congress in favor of a federal divorce and remarriage law.

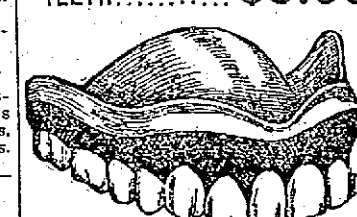

"Ought to Pass"
The ways and means committee of the Massachusetts house of representatives voted "ought to pass" on the income tax bill reported by the committee on taxation. This action was taken yesterday afternoon after the ways and means committee had concluded its hearing on the bill.

Both sides were heard yesterday. Arthur L. Spring, representing the Massachusetts state board of trade, said he would not contend the bill will uncover every dollar's worth of taxable intangibles, but he felt sure that it certainly would uncover hundreds of thousands of such property.

BOSTON PARTY HONORED

MAYOR CURLEY AND OTHERS SEE LEAGUE ISLAND NAVY YARD—SPEAKER AT RALLY

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—Few persons have been accorded the honors that were bestowed yesterday upon Mayor Curley of Boston, Capt. Harry Hamilton, Capt. James D. Coady, Lieut. William H. McKenna, Second Lieut. Charles G. Campbell and Adjt. George H. Washburn, all of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston.

The party motored from the Hotel Adelphi, headquarters for the campaign, to raise $500,000 for a citizens' army of Philadelphia, whose guests the Boston representatives were, to League Island.

At the gate the visitors were met by Commandant Russell, Civil Engineer Stanford, Paymaster Inspector Ryan, Lieutenant-Commander Evans, Paymaster Inspector Hagan, Commander Moses, Commander Priole, Commander Snow, Lieutenant-Commander Mannix, and the following marine corps officers: Captain Feland, Captain Halford and Lieut. Keyser.

At the office of the commandant a full marine guard of two companies was drawn up to salute the visitors. Such ceremonies are seldom accorded any save the highest military officials or government heads. The first ship visited was the Michigan, where the party saw the great 12-inch guns installed.

At every turn the guards, who for weeks have been ordered to keep out visitors, stepped aside and stood at attention while the guests passed. Every nook and corner of the yard was thrown open for inspection, and every detail of the work done there was explained. The visitors had an opportunity to study the underwater structure of a destroyer, the Brayton being in drydock.

One of the most interesting sights was a panorama of the yard, seen from the bridge of the transport Henderson, which will be launched on June 17, Navy day. From the top deck the plant looked like a map. The great warships appeared as toys, with tiny destroyers lying beside them.

"My," exclaimed Mayor Curley, "this is the greatest sight I have ever looked upon. You could put five Charlestown yards in any part of this one and then have some room to spare."

By the time the party had descended the steep ladders to the ground again, the Oklahoma was tied to her wharf. The party started down the street. Before this, Capt. Roger Wells, commander of the great ship, did not know he was to be visited.

More than 10,000 of the Philadelphia citizen soldiers marched in the big parade preceding the preparedness rally held at the Metropolitan Opera House this evening, where Mayor Curley and Gov. McCall were speakers.

BILLERICA

The adjourned semi-annual meeting of the Billerica republican club will be held on Monday evening for the election of officers and committee to serve during the ensuing six months. After the business meeting, several speakers will address the club on the political issues of the approaching campaign.

Plans for a Memorial day observance were made at the meeting of the Billerica republican club, held on Monday evening. The G.A.R. held yesterday afternoon in Gardner Parker hall. Past Department President Marion (Ruth) Bradbury of Mattapan was present. The club will serve supper to the veterans and others in the town hall on Memorial day. The next sewing circle will be with Mrs. Mary Kelly Wednesday afternoon, and it is expected that all members will attend.

The annual statement of the Faulkner Manufacturing Co. has been filed as follows: President and treasurer, George M. Preston; directors, James E. Preston and Whitmore Preston. Annual meeting, Jan. 26. End of fiscal year, Dec. 31. Report shows: Assets—Real estate, $18,050; merchandise, $831; cash and debts receivable, $7,651; profit and loss, $252,616; securities, $15,480; total, $354,431. Liabilities—Capital stock, $100,000; accounts payable, $251,431; total, $354,431.

FEEDING THE BIRDS

The Sun is in receipt of the following communication from Chairman Adams of the fish and game commission: Lowell Sun, Lowell, Mass.: "The commissioners on fisheries and game have had called to their attention, by the deputy in your district, the willingness of the people throughout the district to feed the birds during the winter. Probably more birds are lost annually through severe winters than from any other cause—the quail especially always having a hard time of it. This department stands ready and willing to forward grain and grit to those applying for the same, and to do anything else in its power to meet emergencies. The great difficulty lies in the fact that you never can tell just when the birds are going to need help, and when it is done, must be done quickly. We should prepare during this summer for next winter by planting grains (such as buckwheat, millet, rye, corn and sunflowers) to be left unharvested, and in the fall, by building artificial covers, such as brush piles or lean-toes by piling brush against stone walls, at a good angle, with opening of sufficient size to enable the birds to quickly dash out when attacked by enemies. Through the columns of your paper we wish to convey to all those who have assisted in the work our deep appreciation of their efforts.

Yours very truly,
William C. Adams, Chairman.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Today and tomorrow are the last chances for the theatregoers of Lowell and the surrounding cities and towns to see "Marrying Money," that brilliant comedy which is the offering of the Emerson Players and also it will be the final opportunity to see the Emerson Players as the season's most successful ever recorded in the history of Lowell theatricals—comes to a close Saturday evening. The demand for seats for the remaining performances is exceptionally big and to avoid any chance of disappointment, patrons are advised to make reservations early. Seats can be secured by phoning 261. "Marrying Money" is a hilarious comedy—the best ever seen in Lowell, and one which has played to bigger houses than any other play produced here this season. It tells the story of Theodore Vanderpool and Mildred Miles, both young people—who are poor. Each is

PIMPLES AND ERUPTIONS
MEAN BAD BLOOD.

People who have impure or impoverished blood should be careful to take only a vegetable remedy such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is and has been for over forty years.

The first day you start to take this reliable medicine, impure germs and accumulations begin to separate in the blood and are then expelled through the Liver, Bowels and Kidneys.

In place of the impurities, the arteries and veins gradually get fresh vitalized blood and the action of this good blood on the skin means that pimples, boils, carbuncles, eczema, rash, acne and all skin blemishes will disappear. Then you must remember that when the blood is right, the liver, stomach, bowels and kidneys become healthy, active and vigorous and you will have no more trouble with indigestion, backache, headache and constipation.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to-day at any medicine dealer; it is a powerful blood purifier, without alcohol. Buy it in liquid or tablet form, or send 10c for large trial package.

Depend upon this grand remedy to give you the kind of blood that makes the skin clear, the vision alert, the vision keener and puts ambition and energy into the entire body. You won't be disappointed. For free advice or free booklet on blood; write Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NO CHARGE FOR THIS BOOK.

If you will send three dimes (or stamps), to pay for wrapping and mailing and enclose this notice, Doctor Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send you a revised copy of his Common Sense Medical Adviser, in cloth binding, 1008 pages, with color plates. Just what you need in case of sickness or accident. Treats of Physiology, Anatomy, Sex problems, Marriage relations, Hygiene, Exercise, Disease and its prevention.

seeking a wealthy match and believing that the other is "rolling in wealth," they slope. However, after living the life of real "monied people" they find each other out and then the trouble begins. The author has woven together a series of the most wonderful situations and around the most brilliant group of characters ever seen in any play that has been produced in many years.

As Theodore Vanderpool, Herbert Heyes is very good, while Ann O'Day adds another charming triumph to her list as Mildred Miles. Edward Nanary, Joseph Crehan, Richard Barry, Erina Erwin, May Gerald, Rachel Crown, Frank Wright, Forrest Gordon, Paul Courteau and other members of the company play their various characters in a splendid manner while the scenic production offered by Director Frank Wright is the finest that Lowell has seen in many years. You cannot afford to miss this splendid attraction and also the opportunity to bid "goodbye" to all the favorites, who for the past 35 weeks have amused and thrilled Lowell audiences by their splendid work in the latest New York and Boston comedy and dramatic successes. Be on hand to give them all a great send-off and be sure that you get your tickets early. There will be many who will say "I couldn't get seats" and they will be sorry, for "Marrying Money" is the greatest comedy in seasons and the production is superb.

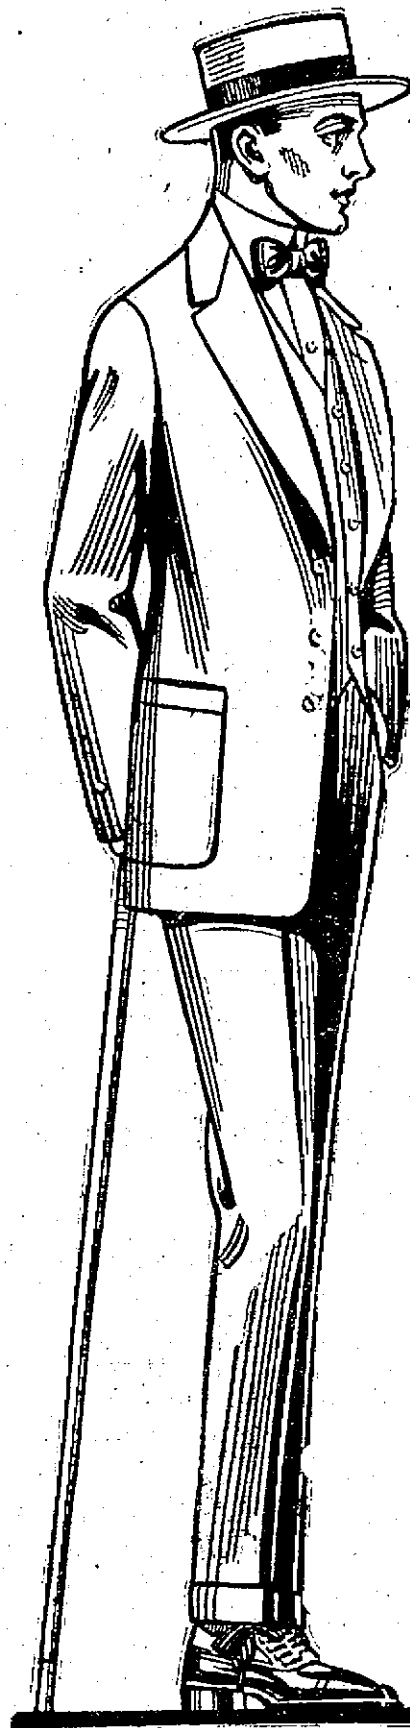

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Students of efficiency could do nothing better than to watch the California Orange Packers who are at the B. F. Keith theatre this week and who demonstrate conclusively the value of positive motions. The girls who put up the luscious fruit in crates work with wonderful speed, but if they merely showed speed without carefully prearranged motions they could never accomplish the feat of packing a crate of 128 oranges in one minute and 20 seconds. Miss Louise Lowe and Miss Helen Dale are the two prize winners, who have won five times the prize at the San Bernardino contest, held every fall. The donors of the prize specially stipulated that no two should be allowed to compete more than five times, and so the girls are now in vaudeville, assisting in educating people of the east relative to various phases of the orange growing and marketing industry. But orange packing is not the only feature of this act. Leo La Crosse and Orville Rogers, who are the champion orange box makers of Southern California, show how rapidly they can throw together boxes. Each crate consists of nine pieces of thin lumber, and 54 nails are required to put the pieces together. The boys are so expert that Miss Lowe sometimes makes three boxes while she is filling one. Both men are uncommonly speedy. The second feature of the act is the singing of the Mullanies, the sweet voiced Irish singers, whose modern ballads have become quite the rage. Mullaney has an inimitable personality. He is gracious, kindly, friendly and invariably his patter is well liked. But, after all, his songs strike the popular chord and they are encored again and again. The third feature of the act is the saxophone solos of the two men who are masters of the saxophone, enliven the show with their rendition of popular melodies. The saxophone is not a too common concert instrument. Its tone is smooth and mellow, and there are comparatively few players of it before the public. But the Three Markwitts, Edwin Lewis and Smith offer the unusual combination of six of these instruments being played at one time. In "What Happened to Ruth," the magnificent comedy secured one of the best liked of New York one-act plays. The theme is not new, but the elaboration of it makes for delightful humor. One feature in connection with this act is not programmed, but it will be readily appreciated. Florenz Kolb and Adelaide Harland in their costume and dancing diversion, "Evolution," 1860-1920, are at it in their work and their dancing is especially good. Maxson and Falk are singers and talkers, and Ollie Young and April have opened the bill with the flowers and jugglers. Good seats for remaining performances may be obtained in advance at the box office. Phone 28.

IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS

Worry never brought any good to anybody. But, you say, "I don't worry because I want to, I worry because I can't help it." Or, "I worry because I have so much to worry about."

We all have our troubles and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognizes this fact without being able to profit by it. The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular medical man alive. But he cannot do it because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured by the patient himself. That is why you should write today for the book "Diseases of the Nervous System" and read the chapter on "Neurasthenia." So many people have read it and written back, "This hits my case exactly. I am giving the treatment a trial and being benefited," that the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. has had a lot of these books printed and will send you a copy free on request.

the popular co-stars will be seen in "Life's Blind Alley," a five-act Mutual Masterpicture at the Jewel theatre today and tomorrow. It's a charming story, with those two favorites splendidly cast. The final episode of "The Girl and the Game" and many other dramas and comedies will complete the performance for the end of the week. "My Old Dutch" Sunday.

OWL THEATRE

tion picture world, will be seen today and tomorrow at the Owl theatre in another of those bright and sparkling comedies which have gained her such great renown. This time it will be the picture of the famous stage success, "Over Night," the play which was considered the "hit" of the past season.

The story of this photoplay deals with two young couples, just married, who have made up their minds to spend their honeymoons in the Catskills, up state in New York. And by a strange coincidence they decide to take the same boat up the Hudson.

Everything looks bright and promising for the honeymooners until Fate takes a hand. In the confusion one bride finds herself on the pier with the wrong husband; the other bride finds herself on the boat with the wrong husband. The action of the comedy then proceeds to the Catskills where the two ill-assorted couples meet and after many misunderstandings finally arrange themselves in the proper order. In addition to this sparkling comedy many other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

George Keating, Edward A. Cunningham and James Donnelly have been appointed to the grievance committee by the Trades & Labor council.

It was reported last night that the teamsters employed by Patrick Cogan are still out on strike. Local 72, teamsters' union which the teamsters have joined since coming out on strike will endeavor to arrange a conference with Mr. Cogan.

Electrical workers' union will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight and millmen's union will hold a session at Carpenters' hall, Rutland building. Business of importance will come before both meetings and several applications for membership will be acted upon.

A meeting of weavers was held last night in Boot & Shoe Workers' hall, Rutland building, with Organizer Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers as the principal speaker.

San Francisco musicians' union has decided to impose a fine of $50 on any member of the union proved guilty of purchasing non-union cigars and tobacco.

Of a total of 104,000 factory employees in New York city one eighth earn less than $5, one-third less than $7, two-thirds received 10 or less and only one-sixth made $15 or more.

It is estimated in Manchester, Eng., that the weekly wage bill of the 150,000 operators engaged in the cotton trade has been reduced by the effects of the year from $2,500,000 to $1,500,000.

Superintendent Maxwell of New York admits that the vacations of school teachers are too long. Once in five years he would call upon a teacher.

er to teach for six weeks in the summer. That summer the teacher would then have a vacation of four weeks, or twice the usual vacation allowed by a business house.

According to Dr. Jacques Bertillon, the French statistician, suicide is commonest among liquor sellers, chimney sweeps, butchers and musicians. It is frequent among shop assistants, cutlers, hair-dressers, costers, lawyers, doctors and druggists.

Nearly a thousand years in the aggregate of service of the 20 oldest employees of the Clark bridge mills, Halifax. In all 77 employees of the mills have an aggregate of 2985 years service, an average of 59.7 years each. The longest period served by any employee is 65 years.

Typographical Union

A special meeting of the Typographical union will be held tonight in Post 120 hall, Merrimack street, at which considerable business of importance will be transacted.

Trades & Labor News

Preliminary plans for the Labor Day celebration next September were discussed at a meeting of the trades and labor council held at 32 Middle street last night and it was voted to hold a parade similar to those of the past. Frank Warnock, president of the Trades and Labor council, was chosen general manager of the day's program. Each organization affiliated with the central council will appoint its own labor day committee to co-operate with Mr. Warnock. The following credentials were received:

Tailors—John B. Sheehan, Charles A. Keefe, Nils Peterson, Sven Jansson, John Knutson, Paul Bogasius and Herbert Pratt. Lathers—Charles E. Chase, Fred Lambert, Arthur Bergeron, George Wyman, Edward Pratt, Paul Lord and David Borden. Local 155, Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen—W. E. Donegan and W. E. Oakes. A number of communications from the American Federation of Labor were favorably acted upon and the reports of several committees were accepted as progressive. President Warnock made a lengthy report of the Boston conference of the state branch of the American Federation relative to the formation of a labor political party, a proposition on which a referendum vote is to be taken. The quarterly report of the board of trustees, which has been issued, shows the central council to be in a flourishing condition financially and financially. A report from the cardinals district council was read, stating that the carpenters of Lowell are now receiving wages of 50 cents an hour, an increase of five cents.

Saco-Lowell Exhibit

The Saco-Lowell shops of this city had an exhibit at the Textile show held in Boston last week. The show showed a spinning frame, one side equipped with Hinds ball bearing rolls, the other side with English self-weighted rolls with travelling cleaner; also a filling-wind spooler with three different types of filling-wind tension; also their waste-working machinery, including a collar card, 3x4-2, 4x4-2, 5x4-2, and a spooler and twister demonstrating the manufacture of three-ply carpet yarn out of waste.

Welfare Work

Welfare work as the general movement for better working conditions in the industrial plants of the country is called, is still in its infancy, yet its progress has been greater than most people realize, especially in this city. Lowell manufacturers. In many cases have been prompt to take advantage of the ideas in this direction which have been developed.

Better opportunities for rest and recreation, for the care of the injured or indisposed, and for hygienic lunch-room conditions are the forms which welfare work for the most part has taken, although it extends to many other things and has ramifications

HUSBAND OBJECTS TO OPERATION

Wife Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Des Moines, Iowa.—Four years ago I was very sick and my life was nearly spent. The doctors stated that I would never get well without an operation and that without it I would not live one year. My husband objected to any operation and got me some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and commenced to get better and am now well, am stout and able to do my own housework. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who is sick and run down as a wonderful strength and health restorer. My husband says I would have been in my grave ere this if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound.—Mrs. BLANCHETTE JEFFERSON, 703 Lyon St., Des Moines, Iowa.

Before submitting to a surgical operation it is wise to try to build up the female system and cure its derangements with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it has saved many women from surgical operations. Ample evidence of this fact is given in the numerous testimonials we are continually publishing in this paper.

throughout many districts of the mill city. The U. S. Cartridge company, is one of the local industries that now maintains emergency hospitals, which are placed in charge of a doctor and several trained nurses. The Lyons Carpet Co. has a well equipped rest room for its employees, and there is also a room where a meal may be cooked and served. In the rest room there is a piano and also a small library which contains a number of good books. The Silesia Mills in North Chelmsford has a similar equipped rest room for its employees.

In most of the mills the employees are taught to guard against infection. Male employees frequently get splinters and splinters in their hands, and if the splinters are not removed as quickly as possible the fingers become infected and injuries are frequently the result. Nearly all the local mills have departments in which minor injuries are taken care of, and every mill has a first aid cabinet as is required by law.

At the U. S. Cartridge Co. a system has been adopted whereby an absolute record is made of the various kinds of service rendered the operators. There is a day book for the minor matters, a card index with daily records of those of graver import, and blanks to be filled in those cases that naturally would come within the scope of the employers' liability act. If any operator should be injured to the extent that surgical treatment was necessary, the injured person would be sent to one of the city hospitals. Minor operations are performed at the company's hospitals. The company has been extremely fortunate in not having had any serious accidents.

SIX CENT FARES

Bauer Wants Present Commission to Hear All Six Cent Fare Case

BOSTON, May 5.—The proposal to abolish the public service commission during the trial of the Bay State street railway six-cent fare case was criticized as unwelcome and imprudent today by Ralph S. Bauer of Lynn, former president of the associated boards of trade of Essex county.

Mr. Bauer is one of the chief opponents of the six-cent fare petition. In an open letter directed to Representative Joseph E. Warner of Taunton, house chairman of the ways and means committee of the legislature, Mr. Bauer says that as the time for a verdict in the six-cent fare case will expire on Sept. 1, the proposed new commission would not have sufficient time to fairly consider the evidence, and that both the Bay State and its opponents would be put to a needless expense in trying the case over again.

Governor McCall has intimated that, with the passage of the bill now before the legislature, the present public service commission would be allowed to remain in existence until about Dec. 1. But, on this point, Mr. Bauer declares that "no human tribunal can render fair judgment when their state of mind is pulsating with their own death throes."

Ways and Means Committee

The following communication, addressed to the chairman of the house committee on ways and means by Mr. Bauer, is self-explanatory:

My Dear Sir—There is before your committee a proposition to abolish the present public service commission and we wish to make the following statement through you on this matter. The present public service commission is now properly and legally hearing parties at interest on the proposition of the Bay State Street Railway company to increase its unit of fare from five cents to six cents, shortening several of its present riding zones, abolishing many of its free transfer privileges, and do away with entirely the half rate workmen's tickets.

The railway company has spent $150,000 in preparing its case and has finished its part of the direct evidence before this commission. The opposition to their proposal has for months been preparing its side of the controversy at a very considerable expense, and is before this commission in an effort to protect the people of eighty cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts against an increase in street car fares. This whole case is the most important and far reaching problem ever put before any commission in this state.

It really affects the daily life of nearly 1,500,000 people of this Commonwealth, and a claimed capital of nearly $50,000,000 invested in street car properties. Our present public service commission has been legally made a tribunal to try this very important case before, and it is our belief that this is not an opportune time—when the case has been over half presented—to abolish the tribunal which has so far heard the case, and substitute in its place another tribunal, who from the legal time limit would be unable to fairly consider the evidence put in by either side. A fair decision cannot be reached without at least a properly hearing and weighing all of the evidence.

Neither of the parties should be subjected to needless further expense by legislative action on a matter that is new over half completed before the present commission, and compelled to try the case over again before a new tribunal, with the legislative time limit for final decision preventing any kind of a proper presentation.

We assume no responsibility as to a decision by the present commission that will be fair to all parties at interest, but we regard it impossible to try the case over again before a new tribunal, within the allotted time.

We deem it most important that all the interests involved be permitted to finish this case before the present public service commission, and we further believe that their judgment on this very important and far reaching case should not be put in jeopardy by the consciousness that they as a body are to be exterminated.

No human tribunal can render fair judgment when their state of mind is pulsating with their own death throes, and there can be no fair reason for any legislature to create conditions of this nature, when a case is on trial which has so vital a bearing on the daily life of eighty communities of this Commonwealth.

County Associated Boards of Trade, Ralph S. Bauer, Chairman, Legislative Committee.

CHORAL SOCIETY'S CONCERT

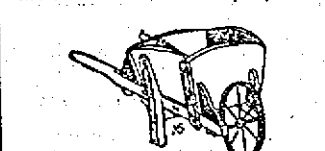

All musical tastes are bound to be satisfied by the Choral society concert in Keith's theatre on May 6, for the society never gave a program which contained so much variety as does this program for May 6. Besides the cantatas, "The Highwayman" and "Gallia," the society will sing the "Kermesse from Faust" and an arrangement of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Mr. Werrenrath will sing the song cycle, "The City of Joy" and a group of songs, and Mrs. Sundell will sing the "Ave Maria" from Max Bruch's "Cross of Fire" with orchestral accompaniment and a group of songs, among which will be a Swedish folk song in her native tongue by way of compliment to her Swedish friends in this city.

The Boston Festival orchestra, comprising more men than have ever appeared at these concerts, will play the Nul Cracker Suite of Tschalkowsky and there will also be a group of solos by Carl Webster, the eminent cellist of Boston.

It is seldom that such a variety of music is presented at a single concert, which fact together with the popularity of the two soloists will certainly insure a crowded house.

THE IRISH REVOLT

It is but natural that there should be conflicting views of the recent Irish revolt and the nature of the offense committed by the men who figured therein. That those men were misled is too evident from the circumstances of the case; but while we may and do condemn the combination of conspirators who ordered such a revolt without the slightest chance of success, yet we cannot condemn the rebels in the unrestricted manner in which critics assail them. They were but tools in the hands of reckless plotters and believing that all Ireland would be compassed by a general uprising they did what they believed to be their duty to their country. They rebelled against foreign rule in Ireland and they did so as Irish patriots. But some call them traitors, as for example the Courier-Citizen in the following:

"It is further not to be questioned that what these men did fully merited the extreme penalty. To turn traitor and start a revolution at home when the country is fighting for its very life against foreign foes is the crime of high treason and the penalty is everywhere death."

These men rose to cast off British rule in Ireland as did the American colonists in 1776. They were just as patriotic and just as brave as the men under Washington. They denied that they owed allegiance to England and assuming that to be true, they could not be traitors although avowedly rebels. This is an old point of dispute between imperial rulers and their unwilling subjects.

England will punish them as rebels, of course, and with more severity because there is abundant proof that the uprising was the work of paid agents of Germany, who posed as manipulating the whole Irish race from New York and Boston.

It is on the heads of these men the blame rests for inciting a rebellion which could not possibly end otherwise than in complete disaster to the unfortunates involved and extreme peril to the cause they meant to advance.

The men who rose in revolt at the risk of their lives were honest, patriotic and sincere, but sadly misled. The conspirators behind were doubtless handling German money to promote a revolt in Ireland as a means of hampering England in addition to her other troubles. In that they succeeded to some extent, but at a terrible cost to Ireland and her people. The great masses of the people gave their adherence to the constitutional movement represented by Mr. Redmond and the Irish party who believe in this method because it is the most effective, not because they fear or abhor physical force. From long experience the Irish people have found the constitutional method more potent than would be a large army in securing national reforms. To this fact The Sun has frequently alluded and as proof that the statement is undeniable, we have but to mention such measures as Catholic emancipation, the disestablishment of the English church in Ireland, the extension of the franchise, land reforms culminating in the complete expropriation of the landlords at a cost of $1,550,000,000 advanced by the government. In addition to these measures were the vast amounts expended under the congested districts board, and for the commodious laborers' cottages, over 60,000 of which dot Ireland all over; then the national university and the revival of the Gaelic language so long sought by the Irish people; and finally the crowning triumph—home rule, which will give Ireland fully as much liberty as Canada, after the lapse of certain suspensory reservations to run for six years.

With such a record of parliamentary achievements, it is no wonder that with the exception of a small minority the whole Irish people have the most implicit confidence in Mr. Redmond, who secured the most substantial reforms won since the days of Grattan in 1782.

There is grave danger that this revolt may convince England that should Ireland be allowed to open her new parliament after the war, this movement for complete separation may break out again; but on this point no parliamentary leader would dare give any pledge or promise more definite than that of Parnell when he said that "no man can set a limit to the onward march of a nation."

Mr. Redmond has appealed for leniency for the rebel prisoners and it is hoped that no more of them will be shot.

The case of Sir Roger Casement is now engaging attention and some papers in this country dub him the Benedict Arnold of the war. That is unjust. He held no office in the British army or under the government when the war broke out and therefore was not a traitor but rather an over-sanguine patriot. He sought the aid of Germany for the Irish rebellion and the liberation of his country from the British yoke just as the American patriots of the Continental army sought the aid of France when Lafayette came to our assistance. His proposition was gladly encouraged and probably financed by Germany. That is why the British government set a reward of $25,000 on his head. It was alleged that he showed signs of insanity and if the hopelessness of his undertaking would indicate insanity, then indeed is there ample proof. But whatever may be his fate Sir Roger must get the credit of patriotic motives as an Irishman.

It is to be hoped that the result of the revolt in Ireland will convince the Irish people in this country that the constitutional method is best for Ireland and that under present conditions an abortive revolt can result only in fruitless sacrifice to be followed in all probability by measures of repression that may overthrow the liberties already won. United action is necessary to success, and the leaders who are on the ground in Ireland are the men most capable of deciding upon the policies by which the liberties and the destinies of the nation can be most effectually safeguarded.

THE DANCE MATRON

Not without a sense of amusement can we look back to the "animal dance" period in this city when dancers were arrested for performing an alleged "indecent" dance in a public hall and when two agile police officers gave a famous demonstration that went the rounds of the funny columns of New England. Now, it seems like a chapter of ancient history, though it happened yesterday. The animal dances have gone their way, though their influence still remains, but no longer do we hear the complaints that were then so general. Whether the people have grown more moral all at once or whether the feeling against the dances was mistaken and hysterical will remain for the future historian to establish.

The change in the dances and in public sentiment regarding them is now being reflected in official action in nearby cities. An amendment to the city ordinances of Manchester, N. H., has just been launched which has for its object the doing away with the position of dance matron. When the dance agitation was at its height, a dance matron was elected in that city and since then she has been present at dances, private and public, in her official capacity. It is now argued that her services are not required, and it is said that a police officer will be detailed from the police department to attend such functions, and that the dance matron is slated to go.

Within certain limits and with well defined duties, dance matrons would be an advantage in all cities, but their duties need not necessarily be restricted to dance halls. We recently spoke of the lack of wholesome amusement in textile cities and of the dangerous nature of many types of entertainments patronized by the young women after working hours. Unless Manchester is entirely different from the average industrial city of New England, work might be found for the dance matron that would react favorably on the community and serve as a protection for those who because of youth and inexperience stand in need of advice and protection. It is a work that cannot be measured by the number of arrests brought about or convictions secured, but it is all-important nevertheless.

SECRET SESSIONS UNPOPULAR

The feeling of Lowell towards secret sessions of the municipal council or, more accurately, towards secret sessions by a majority of the council, was demonstrated during a previous administration. For some time the most important affairs of the city had been arranged and planned in secret, and the only action of which the citizens could judge was the farcical public conformation of policies adopted in secret.

The abandoned Lowell policy is recalled by recent action in Lynn where star chamber sessions of the municipal council have called forth strong public condemnation. Matters came to a climax a few days ago when secret action was taken relative to the granting of licenses, the result drawing down prompt condemnation from press and public. So strong and unmistakable was the feeling of the people of Lynn that the council unanimously adopted an ordinance which, if adhered to, will make secret sessions impossible for the future. At the same time a street speaking ordinance commonly called the "gag law" was abolished, on the motion of the finance commissioner, who said relative to the new regulation: "Not only will it stop the criticism directed against this council for the discussion of public business in private, but it will facilitate business."

The feeling of Lynn is the feeling of all cities where officials are elected by the public, paid by the public and expected to do the city's business in the interest of the public. Every question affecting local politics and in which finance is involved is a public question, and there is no logical reason why it should be decided in secret. Especially is this the case where city governments are non-partisan, and where aldermen or commissioners are elected by all the voters. Whether in the school board or in the municipal council, there is no place in Lowell or Lynn for the star chamber session, and the sooner officials realize it and act upon it the better for all concerned.

Incidentally, the Lynn public is to be congratulated for so impressing their views on their commissioners that a dangerous policy was dropped. Most abuses could be remedied in time if the public kept an intelligent watch on city hall and on the treasury.

INSPECTING HOSPITALS

Dr. Simpson of the state board of health believes that it is merely a waste of time for members of a commission to go about looking at other hospitals as the architect will finally be the one to shape the plans. His views are sensible and really the same applies to schools, though members of hospital commissions and school boards may be inclined to disagree with him. When it comes to tours of inspection state boards are not nearly so zealous as local boards, for some unaccountable reason.

SEEN AND HEARD

When a crime is committed the police try to keep it out of the papers on the theory, presumably, that the criminal might hear about it.

The Child Critics

Parents are living daily before the most critical audience in the world, their child. The small deities, the loss of temper, all such things are seen by the small critic, and they all color, in later years, his feeling for his parents.—From the Deliberator.

Editor's Big Day

The editor of a Kansas paper says that he picked up a Winchester rifle recently and started up the street to deliver the weapon to its owner. The delinquent subscribers got it into their heads that he was on the war path, and every one he met insisted on paying all they owed. One man wiped out a debt of ten years' standing. On returning to the office, he found a lot of hay, 15 bushels of corn, 10 bushels of potatoes, a load of wood and a barrel of turnips.

Explaining His Gloom

The best man noticed that one of the wedding guests, a gloomy looking young man, did not seem to be enjoying himself. He was wandering about as though he had lost his best friend. The best man took it upon himself to cheer him up.

"Er—have you kissed the bride?" he asked him by the way of introduction.

"Not lately," replied the gloomy one with a far-away expression.

Setting Himself Right

Friend (admirer of the Prodigy)—"Seventh grade, is she? Plays the piano, I'll bet." "And but 'touchy' partner." "I've no doubt that's meant to be very funny, Bill Smith; but as it appears you're only exposing your ignorance; they ain't natives in France—they're as white as wool we are."

Didn't Drop It

A servant girl who had been admonished by her mistress to be very careful in "washing up" the best tea things, was overheard shortly afterwards indulging in the following soliloquy while in the act of wiping the sugar basin: "If I was to drop this 'ere basin and was to catch it, I suppose I shouldn't catch it; but if I was to drop it and wasn't to catch it, I reckon I should just catch it."

Material Was There

Katie was starting out to spend the afternoon with her cousin, Nellie. Though the two little girls were fond of one another a few hours' play would frequently end in a vigorous dispute. "Now, Katie," said her mother, as she said good-by to her little daughter, "remember it takes two to make a quarrel." "Well," said Katie, "there's me and her."

Slightly In Error

A clergyman was called in by a young couple whose home had just been blessed with a daughter. The happy parents decided to have the christening at home. The minister took the child in his arms, and in his fatherly way addressed a few words of advice to the young people.

"See that you train this child up in the way that he should go," he began. "Give him the benefit of a good example, and see that he is surrounded by the very best influences. If you do this, who knows but he may become a Washington or a Lincoln. What is his name?"

"Beatrice," solemnly responded the mother.

Money a Big Help

A contractor having heard that his men did not commence work at the proper time thought he would drop down about 6:30 one morning. Going up the yard he caught sight of a joiner standing smoking, and his kit not even opened. Simply asking his name, which he found to be John Smith, he called him into the office, and handing him four days' pay, ordered him to leave at once. After seeing the man clear of the premises, he went to the foreman and explained that he had "made an example" of John Smith by paying him off for not starting at the proper hour.

Remarkable Anomaly

A London banker—not a temperance man—is quoted by the Review of Reviews as saying: "The drink question has been just about the worst handled of any of the domestic problems which have confronted England since the outbreak of the war. The savings, direct and indirect, from the putting through of Lloyd-George's total prohibition scheme last spring would have gone a mighty long way towards paying the cost of the war. We have the remarkable anomaly of a people sacrificing rivers of blood for their country, and yet unwilling to give up the use of a beverage which not only wastes money but lowers their industrial and military efficiency as well. . . . It will probably take another year or so of war to bring the country, to its senses."

Did You Ever Think?

Did you ever think as a hearse passed by that it would not be long until you or I would be taking a ride in that black-plumed hack? And never remember the coming back?

Did you ever think as you strive for gold that a dead man's hand can't a dollar hold? No matter how much you earn or save.

You must leave it all when you go to the grave.

High School Graduates

The exercises of graduation of the Lowell high school, Supt. Malloy stated today, will be held at Keith's theatre on the evening of June 27. The speaker will be President George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota. Mr. Vincent officiated in the same capacity in this city eleven years ago. At that time he was a professor in the Chicago university and he has spoken several times before the Middlesex Women's club.

There will be a graduating class this year of over 300, the largest in the history of the Lowell high school. The annual high school field day will be held Monday, May 22, at Seaside park and the elimination drill will take place on the Friday previous. The competitive drill for officers' places on the Girls' battalion will be held Friday, June 2.

Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, spoke to employees of the United States Cartridge Co. last evening. He met them in the large room devoted to the making of payrolls and other clerical work in the Lawrence street plant, and he spoke on education in a general way.

Bids on City Bonds

Bids on 4 per cent city bonds, $50,000 for school additions and improvements, $55,000 for water mains and equipment, $51,000 for macadam and paving, and $3000 for sidewalks were received and opened by the city treasurer and commissioner of finance today. All of the bids came from Boston. E. H. Rollins & Co. was the highest bidder, and Commissioner Duncan said that the premiums will amount to over $1500. The bids were as follows:

E. H. Rollins & Son, 100.539; R. L. Day & Co., 100.546; Harris Forbes & Co., 100.084; Adams & Co., 100.067; Blodgett & Co., 100.063; Arthur Perry & Co., 100.052; Curtis & Sanger, 100.041; Cropp, McGarage & Co., 100.0174; Esterbrook, 100.011. E. H. Rollins & company's bid of 100.539, the bid accepted by the city, means that the city will receive $8.55 on every $1000 bond and the total amount of the premiums, sometimes referred to as "velvet," will be $1635.76.

Chelmsford Street Bridge

Mayor James E. O'Donnell, after receiving numerous complaints relative to the Boston & Maine railroad's slow procedure in connection with the reconstruction of the Chelmsford street bridge over the railroad tracks at the depot, decided to take the matter up with the railroad company and has addressed the following letter to the bridge department:

Lowell, Mass., May 5, 1916.

Bridge Dept., Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:

Numerous complaints have been received at this office relative to the slow manner in which your company is proceeding with the work of reconstructing the Chelmsford street bridge, so-called, in this city, due, it is claimed, to the fact that one eight-hour shift of workmen is employed on the job.

As Chelmsford street is one of Lowell's busiest and most important thoroughfares, public convenience and necessity demand that no time be lost in restoring the street to its normal condition, and on account of the proximity of the bridge to the depot, it would seem the delay in completing the work would have a detrimental effect upon the business and convenience of the railroad, as well as upon that of the public.

I would respectfully suggest that your company take steps to have this work completed as quickly as possible, and no objection would be offered by the city, if the work were to be continued outside of the regular daily working hours.

Respectfully,
James E. O'Donnell,
Mayor of Lowell.

Building Permits Issued

There has been a great demand for building permits at the office of Commissioner Donnelly for the last few weeks, but the great majority of them were for additions and alterations. The American Hide & Leather company has taken out a permit for the erection of a large brick and concrete garage in Perry street at the southwest corner of Alton street. The building will be 42-5 by 27-8 and will be large enough to hold four large trucks or eight ordinary machines. The estimated cost is $2800.

Charles E. Cashin will erect a one-family dwelling at 1821 Middlesex st. The building will be 26 by 30 feet, with vestibule 6 by 6, and 21-2 stories in height. The estimated cost is $1800.

CENTRALVILLE ODD FELLOWS OBSERVE THE 97TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ORDER

Centralville lodge, 215, and Centralville Rebekah lodge, 137, I.O.O.F., observed the 97th anniversary of the order with a social gathering at their assembly hall in Bridge street. The attendance was large and the program included an address by Dist. Dep. Grand Master William H. Robinson of Lawrence, who was present with his suite; readings by Miss A. J. Todd and Miss M. Verna Neil; songs by Miss Rita Thompson and Warren Reid; piano solos by George Faulkner, and violin selections by Edwin McElroy. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Arthur P. Atwood, chairman; John S. Johnston, and Robert Nell for Centralville lodge, and Mrs. Grace E. Neil, Mrs. A. Westgate and Miss Edith Page for the Rebekahs.

PAINTING THE FENCES

THE WATERWAYS COMMITTEE SENDS ANOTHER COMMUNICATION TO THE MAYOR

The waterways committee has notified Mayor O'Donnell that it has sent a communication to Patrick Fay, notifying him that the fence along the side of Wall street next the Concord river should be strengthened, repaired and painted. A strand or two of barbed wire should be affixed thereto on supports extending over the river at a sharp angle with the fence.

The communication also says: It would be a benefit to the general appearance and health of this neighborhood if the police and the board of health would act in conjunction to prevent the persons living in this place from using the river bank as a deposit for refuse and from littering the adjoining streets and ways.

THE SICKABED LADY

Temporary teeth should not be allowed to be removed by decay. If cavities form they should be filled under proper precautions and the teeth should be saved, says Nurse, until the last moment unless they are causing infection. Faulty development can often be corrected and deformities that interfere with proper mastication and place a strain on certain teeth, can thus be avoided.

In early life the jaws should be carefully examined by both dentist and doctor in order to determine whether or not the proper development is taking place. If upper and lower teeth fall to fit well together, extra strain is placed upon certain teeth and the sockets are liable to injury and infection.

Nurse has told me of a simple remedy for whooping cough, which she wishes me to hand over to mothers whose children are suffering from this painful disease. Get a five cent package of chestnut leaves at the drug store, put in a basin with a quart of cold water, let it steep down to a pint, strain, keep hot on the back of the stove. Make fresh as wanted. For the dose put into a cup whatever the child will take with a little milk and sugar, making sure the tea is hot. Keep cold drinks away for a few days if possible.

Here is a method of preparing hot compresses for the ill when moist heat is required, which it would be well for all housewives to know: Take a double cooker, partially fill the lower part with water and place over the fire. Wring out pieces of wet flannel as dry as possible and place in the upper part of the cooker. Put the upper part in the lower and, when the water boils, the flannels are ready to apply. No wringing is necessary.

For a sore throat, says nurse, put some ice in a cloth and crush until it is as fine as snow. Then squeeze on it the juice of an orange or lemon and sprinkle over a little sugar. It is very refreshing and soothing.

Here is a good remedy for jaundice. Get a few cents worth of bitter apple at the drugstore, steep a little on the back of the stove, strain and bottle. Take a tablespoon or more on going to bed.

A good indigestion remedy is one pinch of powdered senna in a glass of cold water. Cover and stand five hours, then strain and drink.

Tartar, one of the greatest enemies of the teeth, may be kept away by dully brushing the teeth with a few drops of myrrh in half a glass of water, using a moderately stiff toothbrush. The teeth should be brushed after each meal, but where not convenient, do it anyway night and morning.

It is not an easy thing to think of things interesting for convalescing children to do to keep them from getting restless. Some children, however, would enjoy making a scrapbook, thinks nurse. Plenty of pictures can always be found in discarded magazines, and a blankbook with a tube of paste will complete the outfit. Most children love to cut, even if they are not old enough to paste. A small girl might like to try her hand at putting flowers or paper dolls and their outfits, also in paper. The tissue and crepe papers that come in bright colors cannot fail to attract the child, and she will at once wish to begin to fashion after her own ideas.

Some children like stuffing rag animals that have been cut and stitched ready for filling and get lots of fun in seeing the animals grow. Patterns for all kinds of animals can be bought and they can be fashioned from almost any bits of cloth at hand. Pretty designs can be made with a box of mixed sea shells. A child will often find pleasure in these when it refuses to be interested in an expensive set of building blocks.

There is a very close connection between the stomach and throat, says nurse. A throat trouble may become very serious and if not attended to may develop into tuberculosis of the throat. Food is the all important remedy in such cases, as indeed in every ill that humanity is heir to. One should positively avoid fresh bread, pastry, pickles, pork, all fried foods, rich gravies or dressings. No mustard, catsup or any food containing spices, for they irritate the throat and often cause a cough.

Avoid too much acid or too many sweets. Tea or coffee, if used at all, should be taken very weak. Eat whole wheat bread, prunes, figs, dates, apple sauce. Chew your food thoroughly, take a moderate amount of exercise, dress so as to not get chilled and by paying strict attention to the diet, the general health will be improved and most throat troubles will disappear.

A beef essence and a beef tea are contributed today by nurse, as two fine nourishing foods for invalids. In almost all cases, home made beef tea is made by cutting half a pound of lean beef into very small pieces. Do not have a grain of fat on it. Put it into a bottle with a large opening. Put in half a cup of cold water and cork tight. Set this in a basin of cold water and place on the fire when it will come to the boiling point but not boil. Keep it at this temperature for two hours, then strain and season with salt.

For the beef essence remove the fat from a slice of steak from the top of the round. Cut it three-quarters of an inch thick and broil over a clear fire three or four minutes, turning often. Heat the broiler to prevent the steak from adhering, as any suggestion of grease must be avoided. Remove to a warm plate, cut into small squares, gash on both sides and with a lemon squeezer extract the juices. Season with salt.

THE NESMITH PROPERTY

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE WILL SELL ITS INTEREST IN THE ESTATE

Efforts to clear up the tangle in connection with the John Nesmith estate in this city are progressing, and it is the hope of the trustees of the property in question as well as the state of New Hampshire, that the matter will soon be settled by the courts.

As published in yesterday's issue of The Sun, the state of New Hampshire, through Gov. R. H. Spaulding, appeared as plaintiff in a bill of equity filed in the supreme court yesterday, which seeks to obtain a cash settlement for property in this city bequeathed to New Hampshire by the will of the late John Nesmith. Mr. Nesmith gave the property, valued at that time at $50,000, to the state to be used for the benefit of the indigent blind of New Hampshire. The state, according to the bill, has been unable to administer the property, and at the present time is seeking aid made by the trustees of the estate.

The trustees are George S. Motley, Frank E. Dunbar and Joseph A. Nesmith of this city. They have made a number of attempts to clear up the tangle, but the attempts have been in vain. One of the features of the will is that the property must not be leased for a period longer than five years, and this has proved to be a stumbling block. It has prevented the renting of the property to advantage.

A short time ago the brick building at the corner of Merrimack and John streets was purchased by George S. Motley from Countess Montjoye and Baroness von Nagel, this being half equity in the building.

Mr. Frank E. Dunbar, one of the trustees, has made the following statement relative to the entanglement:

"It is a fact that the state of New Hampshire is prepared to accept the sum of $50,000 for its interest in the Nesmith estate, and with this understanding, proceedings have been begun in the supreme court of Massachusetts to obtain legal sanction to the sale. We expect that there will be no difficulty in bringing this about. All of the parties concerned are agreeable.

The sale includes all of the property in Merrimack street between the Union National bank and John street, and extending back into John street some distance. Recently, Mr. Motley bought a half interest in the estate from the heirs of John P. Nesmith, and this was the first definite move in the work of clearing up the title. The rest of the property, being controlled by the heirs of New Hampshire, by reason of the bequest made to take effect upon the death of the John Nesmith heirs, it became impossible to administer the property, being controlled by the state of New Hampshire on for the John Nesmith heirs, three of whom are living.

HAFFER GUILTY SHIPS NEEDED

Convicted of Libelling Admiral Beresford Says the Memory of George Washington

TACOMA, Wash., May 4.—A verdict of guilty was returned last night by a superior court jury that for four days had been sitting in the trial of Paul H. Haffer of this city, accused of libelling the memory of George Washington. The maximum penalty for the offense, under a state statute, is one year in the county jail, a fine of $1000 or both.

Col. Albert E. Joab, an attorney, caused Haffer's arrest after the latter had sent a letter to a newspaper referring to Washington as a "blasphemous," "slave holder" and "invertebrate drinker."

INVESTIGATION OF L.&N.

CORRESPONDENCE SAID TO HAVE PASSED BETWEEN R. R. HEADS TO DIVIDE SOUTH

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Correspondence purporting to have passed between Milton H. Smith, president of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, and the late Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern railway, relating to an alleged agreement to divide the south between the two roads, was introduced by counsel for the interstate commerce commission at today's investigation of the Louisville & Nashville's affairs.

In the correspondence the writers likened themselves to Cortes and Pizarro, who were conquerors of a new world, met to divide it, one agreeing to take North America, the other South America, neither to touch the isthmus, and unable to agree on Panama.

President Smith of the Louisville & Nashville said he remembered no such correspondence and characterized it as "frat." President Smith declined to answer any question concerning campaign contributions by the railroad to political parties or candidates. He refused, on advice of his counsel, who held that the commission had no authority to make such inquiries, under the senate resolution directing the investigation.

Joseph W. Folk, chief counsel for the commission, announced that the commission would appeal to the courts to compel Mr. Smith to tell all it sought to learn about the road's contributions.

Mr. Folk asked the witness if freight and passenger rates might not be affected by campaign contributions.

"Not the slightest," said Mr. Smith. Before his counsel could stop him, Mr. Smith told the commission he knew how much the L. & N. contributed to campaign funds last year.

FAITH IN PEACE SHAKEN

RUSSIAN PAPER COMMENTS ON PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPEECH OF MAY 1

PETROGRAD, May 4. (Via London).—The Novy Mir concludes its comment on President Wilson's speech of May 1 before the National Service school military encampment for young women as follows:

"The most peaceful of lovers of peace has finally convinced himself that his love of peace has only encouraged the German government in transgressing upon all the laws of God and man. Even his faith in peace has been shaken, but at this last moment he has given Germany a way out."

"He threatens Germany not with war, but only with the breaking of diplomatic relations. The speech, however, shows that he realizes the act would not stop with breaking of relations, but would lead to war. He would not be a statesman otherwise."

"The German chancellor declares that Germany has 40 new submarines—an indirect answer to the American note. The next few days will show what is the direct answer. Germany faces a choice of either risking a collision with America or swallowing the humiliation of submitting to America's demands."

ROOSEVELT AND McADOO

Former Gets Great Reception at Trinidad—No Demonstration for the Secretary

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Col. Roosevelt's reception at Trinidad during his recent West Indian trip quite eclipsed that arranged for Secretary McAdoo, who came along a little later, said the British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, who personally paid a visit to President Wilson today and expressed regret that through a misunderstanding among local officials the secretary of the treasury had not been received with ceremony appropriate to his position.

British officials learned to their amazement that the governor of Trinidad had outdone himself to make a demonstration for Col. Roosevelt, but apparently was little impressed with the coming of Secretary McAdoo, who was returning from the meeting of the Pan-American high commission at Buenos Ayres.

The ambassador's explanation closes the incident, if it was one.

FINELY HEALTHY CHILD

CONVINCING EVIDENCE

Simple Inexpensive Remedy Checks Early Tendency to Constipation.

About the first thing impressed on the young Mother is the necessity for regularity in her baby, which brings up the question of the most desirable laxative for children's use.

Mrs. Jesse Richardson, Philpot, Ky., says she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for the past year and that there is no medicine in the world like it. She writes, "My little son, William, Jr., just loved it because it is so pleasant to take, and everybody talks about his being such a fine healthy boy."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of simple laxative herbs, free from any salts or narcotic drugs, and is the standard remedy for constipation in thousands of homes throughout the land. STRIKE CLOSES PLANT

TROOPS ON DUTY IN PENNSYLVANIA—GIRL DUCKED IN HORSE TROUGH BY STRIKERS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 4.—E. M. Herr, president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., whose plants are closed because of a strike of 15,000 workers, who demanded an eight hour day, told a committee of strikers today that he would be unable to discuss a settlement with them until tomorrow. Federal and state officials are endeavoring to break the company and the men together.

While almost a thousand state troops were on duty in the Turtle Creek valley and conditions about the closed plants were quiet, unrest was manifested in other parts of Allegheny county. Seven hundred employees of the Pressed Steel Car company joined the 2000 already out, and the police were guarding the factory of the McKinnon Manufacturing company, on the north side, where girl strikers attacked those who refused to join their strike and ducked one of them in a horse trough.

M. E. CHURCH CONFERENCE

Income for Missionary Work Would be $10,000,000 if Each Member Contributed Five Cents

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., May 4.—The income of the Methodist Episcopal church available for missionary work in foreign countries would amount to more than $10,000,000 annually if each member would contribute weekly a sum equivalent to a single street car fare, according to a report submitted today to the general conference now in session here, by Dr. Earl S. Taylor, corresponding secretary of the board of foreign missions. Discussion of church activities in other lands was a special order of business today.

Although the budget of foreign missions last year expended $1,709,373, the amount per capita is so insignificant, the report continued, that no piece of money in the United States is sufficiently small to permit of its payment in weekly instalments.

The women of the denomination who conduct their missionary work through a quelling department contributed $931,000. The speaker asserted this amount would be doubled if every Methodist woman would join a missionary society and pay 10 cents a week in dues.

The need of larger gifts from church members is urgent, it was said, because of conditions resulting from the European war.

The advocates of public hearings before the committee on Episcopal matters incident to the determination of the number of bishops to be elected by the conference won a slight victory. For many years this question has come before the general conferences, those who favored open sessions claiming that existing methods of procedure were of the "star chamber" order.

Rev. Thomas Nicholson, chairman of the committee on Episcopacy, moved today that the conference authorize executive sessions of the committee. A warm debate was precipitated immediately. Speakers for one faction claimed many of the questions to come before the committee were of so delicate a nature that secrecy was imperative. Others argued that all important business ought to be considered in the open. The motion was then amended so as to provide that, although the committee sessions should be executive, committee members might confer with other members of their respective delegations concerning matters under consideration.

INFORMAL CONFERENCE

CITY COUNCIL AND CITY ENGINEER GO OVER BRIDGE PLANS WITH MR. WORCESTER

An informal conference having to do with plans for the Pawtucket bridge was held in the mayor's reception room at city hall this afternoon. Parties to the conference included the mayor and other members of the municipal council, the city engineer, city clerk and J. R. Worcester of the J. R. Worcester company. The J. R. Worcester company has been selected by the municipal council to supervise the construction of the bridge and after the informal conference at city hall, Mr. Worcester and City Engineer Stephen Kearney had a conference with William McKee, chief engineer for the Locks & Canals. The mayor announced, after the conference, that he would call a special meeting of the council Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of hastening the Pawtucket bridge matter.

WATERWAYS COMMITTEE

The following communications having to do with protection of waterways in the city of Lowell have been forwarded the mayor by the committee on waterways:

Lowell, Mass., May 3, 1916.
Hon. James E. O'Donnell, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Mr. Mayor:—We are in receipt of a letter from the agent of the Merrimack Mill Co. in the city of Lowell, asking that this committee in relation to the unsafe places along the Merrimack canal. We are pleased to report to you, the courteous, satisfactory and public-spirited attitude Mr. Wadleigh has manifested in this matter by volunteering to remove the situation.

We herewith enclose a copy of Mr. Wadleigh's letter.

Very truly yours,
Jackson Palmer,
Harry W. J. Howe,
Frank A. Warnock.

Merrimack Manufacturing Company,
Lowell, Mass., May 3, 1916.
Mr. Jackson Palmer,
Mr. Harry W. J. Howe,
Mr. Frank A. Warnock.

Gentlemen:—I have your letter of April 29 regarding approaches to foot bridge on Ave and Dutton streets and also fence along the canal, Dutton street side.

The approaches to the canal bridge we had in mind to fix immediately. It would have been attended to in the fall but rush of other work prevented our going ahead. As to the fence on Dutton street we have postponed action on this from year to year as we expected the Locks and Canals would renew the wall, raising it about one foot. It was our intention then to put in an iron fence which would correspond to the Anne street fence. However, as there is no immediate prospect of a new wall, we will arrange for a suitable wire fence to be about four and one-half feet high.

We are perfectly willing to co-operate with you in any way you may deem advisable to prevent the loss of life of children from drowning in our canal. If you do not think a four and one-half foot fence is the proper thing, we will arrange to build it differently.

Yours truly,
J. C. Wadleigh, Agent.

STREET LIGHTING CONTRACT

Inquiry has been made relative to the city's contract for gas street lighting and in reply to a question put to him today the mayor stated that there would be open discussion on the matter before the municipal council and he further stated that so far as he is concerned he would not soon have the matter threshed out at the council.

WAS RE-ELECTED

But Mr. Robertson Didn't Want Chairmanship of Cemetery Board

If John L. Robertson had had his own way about it he would have retired from the chairmanship of the cemetery commission at a meeting of the commission held at city hall yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, but his fellow members wouldn't let him. He insisted that he be not considered for the position of chairman, but a secret written ballot gave him four votes, George H. Taylor receiving one, and everybody knew that Mr. Robertson voted for Mr. Taylor.

The commission passed upon considerable business and voted to buy 50 Norway maples for the public cemeteries. An inspection of the cemeteries was voted for May 11. The record of the past meeting were read by Secretary Casgood. Monthly bills were read and approved.

Chairman Robertson said the city solicitor had informed him that the perpetual care fund of the cemetery interest annually amounts to about $4000. It was also stated that many wills probated show bequests for perpetual care.

Mr. Rigby moved that the commission, organized for the year, and that Mr. Robertson be re-elected chairman. Mr. Robertson asked that somebody be chosen for the place. He said else he given him great pleasure to serve as chairman but the demands on his time forbade him to accept it. Mr. Harris said he wanted to see Mr. Robertson take the place for another year, but Mr. Robertson still insisted that he be not considered for the place. Mr. Osgood said he hoped Mr. Robertson would reconsider as the board is "just getting out of the woods." He felt that much of the success had been due to the personality of Mr. Robertson. Mr. Taylor said he wanted to see Mr. Robertson stay as chairman one year more.

"I do not want to be considered for chairman, and that's final," said Mr. Robertson. A motion to ballot for chairman was then put and a secret written ballot was taken. Mr. Robertson receiving four votes and Mr. Taylor one.

"Gentlemen, I don't thank you," said Mr. Robertson, "for I felt I should not take the place this year."

"I think we may truthfully say that the chairman did not seek the office," said Mr. Harris.

Supt. Duckworth said he had written to the city service commission, asking for the selection of five men to work at the cemeteries. Not one man appeared to work and he did not know what he is to do if that is to continue.

Mr. Taylor favored a trip to Mt. Auburn and see how things are done there.

"I wish you could see the Lawrence public cemetery and compare it with what we have here," said Supt. Duckworth.

"We want to see something better than Lowell has—not worse," commented the chairman.

The chairman favored the use of the interest which has accrued from the sale of lots, etc., to beautify the cemetery. "We don't want to hear it," he said. "It does no good and we want to show something worth while there."

"You've got to buy some more land pretty soon," said Supt. Duckworth.

"Not the cemetery commission, but the city has got to buy it when it is needed," replied Chairman Robertson.

The subject of removal of bodies was broached by Mr. Harris. He felt that when a body is removed it should be done under legal authority.

Mr. Rigby felt it right to have such removals properly carried out and thought the board of health should know of all such removals. Adjourned at 6 o'clock.

POLISH BAZAAR OPEN

MOVEMENT TO HELP WAR SUFFERERS—NEW BUILDING FOR HIGH STREET SISTERS

The bazaar conducted under the auspices of the Holy Trinity Polish church for the purpose of raising money to erect a new home for the Polish sisters in this city was opened last night in Lincoln hall and the affair proved to be a great success. The bazaar will be open tonight, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night and a part of the proceeds will be sent to aid the suffering people of Poland.

In conversation with a Sun representative this morning relative to the condition of the Polish people in the war zone, Rev. Fr. Ogonowski said: "The plight of the women and children in Poland is pitiful and they are in dire need of assistance from their brothers and sisters living in the neutral countries. At the present time there are thousands of Polish people scattered over the old country eating plants, grass, herbs and anything that can prolong their existence, and it is a fact that almost all the little children under seven years of age are dead. The people are without proper clothing and shelter and thousands of them are sleeping in the woods."

"There is but little news to be obtained from Poland at the present time because nearly all the land is under German rule but we occasionally get word from Polish exiles in Russia. These letters have told the story of the condition of our people."

"At the start of the war the German troops immediately conquered nearly all of Poland and thousands of Polish people, men and women, were shot down without mercy. The fields which were rich with wheat were taken by the Germans and the wheat was ground into flour in Polish mills and then sent to the interior of Germany. Other farm products were taken away from the Polish people and they were left to starve."

"Poland has been without a voice among the nations of the world for years and the Polish people have had no liberty. The people have been oppressed more than any other race on earth, still they have not complained, for nearly all of them have hoped that ultimately they would be freed from their slavery. The war has put all their hopes to an end and it will take a long time to make the Polish people the sturdy race they were before the start of the war."

"The starving people of the old country look to the American people as saviors for the food and clothing sent to their aid, but much more aid is needed, and Poland looks to America and the other neutral countries for assistance."

The bazaar in Lincoln hall offers an opportunity, to help.

GERMAN REPLY

has observed with growing concern, distress and amazement." It pointed to Germany's hitherto expressed "human and enlightened attitude" in matters of international right and expressed the hope that submarine commanders engaged in torpedoing peaceful ships without warning were in such practices operating without the sanction of their government. The note closed with these words:

On May 23, 1915, Germany replied with a note which covered a wide range of argument. It alleged that the Lusitania had masked guns aboard; that she in effect was a British auxiliary cruiser; that she carried munitions of war; that her own company was aware of the damages she risked in the submarine war zone; that she was really responsible for the loss of American lives and referred to the fact that the British admiralty had offered large rewards to liner captains who rammed or destroyed submarines. The note met none of the contentions of the United States so far as the Lusitania and Paluba sinkings were concerned, although a supplementary note later did acknowledge that Germany was wrong in the attacks on the Cushing and the Guilford, expressed regret for these two sinkings and promised to pay damages. While the American reaction to the note was being framed, discussion in the cabinet resulted in the resignation of Secretary Bryan, who contended for a policy of warning Americans off belligerent ships.

Meanwhile several sensational incidents cropped up in connection with the negotiations, chief of which was the sending of a message to the Berlin foreign office by Dr. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador, later recalled at the request of President Wilson, which was represented as stating substantially that Mr. Bryan had intimated to the ambassador that the vigorous tone of the American notes should be regarded in Berlin as too warlike. Secretary Lansing took office as Mr. Bryan's successor, and his reply to the German note took issue with every contention Germany had set up in the Paluba and Lusitania cases; denied flatly the contention that the Lusitania was armed or was to be treated as other than a peaceful merchant ship, and reminded Germany that it was the duty of the United States "to speak with solemn emphasis to call the attention of the Imperial German government to the grave responsibility which the government of the United States conceived that it has incurred in this tragic occurrence, and to the indisputable principle upon which that responsibility rests."

The note averred that the declaration of a submarine war zone could not abbreviate the rights of Americans on lawful journeys and added: "The government of the United States, therefore, very earnestly and solemnly renews the representations of its note transmitted to the Imperial German government on May 15, and relies in these representations upon the principles of humanity, the universal recognized understandings of inter-

To that note Germany did not reply until July 8. This note discussed the Declaration of London, the British food blockade of Germany, the sailing of British mines and the freedom of the seas, and made a counter proposal that both sides agree upon a certain number of neutral passenger steamers for traffic between the United States and Europe, which the German government offered to guarantee against submarine attack provided they carried no contraband.

The nature of the reply was regarded officially as evidence that Germany was holding the submarine warfare negotiations as a club over the United States to force this government into some action to compel Great Britain to relax the food blockade. President Wilson steadfastly refused to permit the diplomatic negotiations of the United States with one belligerent to become entangled with the relations with another.

To that communication the United States replied on July 21 that the German note was "very unsatisfactory" because it failed to meet "the real differences between the two governments."

The United States, it declared, "was keenly disappointed" with Germany's attitude. Submarine attacks without warning, endangering American and other neutrals were characterized as "illegal and inhuman" and "manifestly indefensible."

The German retaliation against the British blockade, it maintained, must not interfere with the rights of neutrals which the note declared were "based upon principles, not expediency, and the principles are immutable." It declared that the United States would continue to contend for the freedom of the seas "from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost."

The American note concluded with these words of warning: "Friendship itself prompts it (the United States government) to say to the Imperial government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens, as deliberately unfriendly."

The American press and other neutrals pronounced the American note not only a demand that the rights of Americans be respected but a defense of humanity and neutral rights generally. The negotiations at this point seemed to have come to such an impasse that the exchange of notes between Washington and Berlin was stopped, and the controversy was brought into the realm of "informal conversations" between Secretary Lansing and Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador.

It was thought that much could be accomplished by personal contact which was lost in a cold exchange of documents.

Meanwhile, the Arabic was sunk on Aug. 19, coming close on the unsuccessful Lusitania negotiations and a continuation of submarine attacks in which Americans had suffered, it seemed that the United States and Germany had at least reached the point of a break. Then, on Sept. 1, came the first step in the threatening ultimatum. Count von Bernstorff presented this written assurance to Secretary Lansing:

"Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of non-combatants, provided liners do not try to escape or offer resistance."

The United States had agreed along that ships halted for visit and search by a war vessel took a risk if they attempted to flee, but it contended not for the safety of "liners" alone but for the immunity of all peaceful merchant vessels. The word "liners" was the complex point in Germany's assurance, and in complete agreement on what it actually meant never was finally reached.

More hopefulness was added to the situation when, on Oct. 5, the Arabic case was disposed of by Germany disavowing the sinking and giving renewed assurances that submarine commanders had been again instructed to avoid repetition of the acts which provoked American condemnation.

With that, the negotiations reverted to the Lusitania case. Germany already had agreed to pay indemnity for American lives lost but the negotiations were delayed by a seeming deadlock over the words in which Germany should acknowledge the illegality of the destruction of the liner. Germany, unwilling to use the word "illegal," substituted a declaration that "reprisals must not be directed at others than enemy subjects."

A formal communication including such a declaration and expressing regret for loss of American lives, assuming liability and offering reparation in the form of indemnity, was submitted to Secretary Lansing.

A favorable settlement of the long and threatening controversy seemed to be in sight when all the progress that had been made was reduced to nothing by Germany's declaration of a new submarine policy of sinking without warning all armed merchant ships. That precipitated a new situation so vitally interwoven with the whole structure of the Lusitania case that President Wilson declined to close the Lusitania settlement while the other issue was pending. Meanwhile German submarine warfare was continued.

Finally, the accumulation of evidence reached such proportions with the destruction of the Sussex that President Wilson despatched another note to Germany and "went before congress and made this declaration: 'I have deemed it my duty to say to the Imperial German government that if it is still its purpose to prosecute relentless and indiscriminate warfare, the government of the United States is at last forced to the conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue, and that, under the imperative German government, should now, immediately, declare and effect an abandonment of its present methods of warfare against passenger and freight-carrying vessels, this government can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations altogether.'"

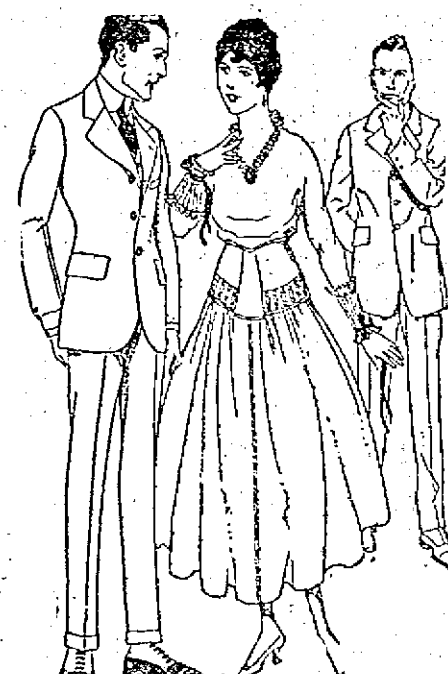

The wording of the note to Germany, which was despatched April 18, was almost identical with the foregoing passage.

During all the negotiations the Berlin foreign office has looked to Count von Bernstorff to prevent a break. His attitude has been represented, as propagandists from the viewpoint of the United States and opposed to the submarine warfare of von Tirpitz.

On several occasions he is said to have warned his emperor personally that a continuance of the warfare against which the United States protested would surely lead to a break.

THE PROBLEM: "How Can They Dress So Well On So Little Money?"

THE ANSWER you will find in this advertisement.

LOWELL PITCHERS EASY

Special to The Sun
SPRINGFIELD, May 5.—Santa Claus couldn't have been more generous than two Lowell pitchers were to the Ponies yesterday afternoon at League park. Out of a total of 16 hits and six errors, Flynn's men grabbed the big total of 15 runs. With this kind of hitting the Ponies didn't have to worry much about the outcome and Chief LaRoy, making his first league appearance of the season on the mound, breezed through the matinee without the least bit of trouble. LaRoy didn't have to pitch much and he took things easy while his mates slammed the ball all over the lot. The final score said Springfield was 10 runs better than Lowell and the tallies were 15 and 5.

The Ponies made their 15 hits good for 25 bases. They had seven doubles, one triple and eight singles and a majority of the drives figured in the scoring. To date this is the heaviest hitting performance in the Eastern league and the combined run total of the two clubs made it the heaviest scoring game of the season. Everett Booe provided a big bundle of the fireworks for the Ponies with a single, double and triple in five times at bat. Hickory helped himself to a pair of singles and a double, while Jack Flynn had a pair of doubles. Hammond with a double and single and Stephens with the same record were others in the hitting line.

It wasn't Hank Horsey's day, otherwise Harry Lord would have never selected him to start on the mound for Lowell. Three singles were put together in the first inning by the Ponies for a tally and they kept right on pounding Horsey's delivery in the second until Lord charitably benched the pitcher. King, a southpaw, who succeeded Horsey, was pummeled to good purpose in the second and by the time the three required outs had been recorded, Pony hits off the two pitchers amounted to three doubles and a triple which with a base on balls, sacrifice hit and two errors, gave Flynn's men five runs.

The Lowell pilot evidently considered it proper for King to take a good heating while he was at it and kept him in the box for the remainder of the game. A single, sacrifice and double gave the Ponies another run in the third; a single, double, a base on balls and an error furnished three more in the sixth; a single and double coupled with a base on balls, an infield out and a passed ball accounted for three in the seventh while two more in the eighth came on two errors and a single. Spires went into the field for Lord in this inning and the first thing he did was to pick up Parks' bunt and heave the ball about a mile over Munn's head, Booe scoring from first.

Poor fielding gave Lord's men a run in the first inning and a slip at short was the means of a second in the third. Lowell's three in the seventh were due to solid smashing and Parks' muff in right. Four singles and a double were put together in this frame.

There was plenty of flashy fielding all over the lot. Booe stood up against the left field fence and picked Briggs' drive out of the air; Hammond went into the air about 20 feet more or less and speared another Briggs' drive and Murphy and Riccarda, not to be outdone in pulling off feature stuff turned similar stunts on King and Stimpson, in the fourth inning.

The score:

	SPRINGFIELD	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Hickory	5	2	3	3	2	0	0
Booe	4	3	3	3	0	0	0
Parks	4	1	1	3	2	1	1

NEBES LEADS AND IS CLOSELY FOLLOWED BY YALE WITH TWO MORE NIGHTS TO GO

Albert Nebes of this city continued his speedy work in the six-day skating race at the Rollaway last night and added three-quarters of a lap to his already good lead over Billy Yale of New Haven. The interest in the race reached its climax last evening and the Rollaway almost shook from the loud applause.

Nebes lost nearly a lap by a fall early in the race but soon gained the space. Yale put up a plucky exhibition and made a third attempt to lessen Nebes' lead, but was unsuccessful. Two more nights remain, however, and it is possible that some important changes will take place. Last night's racing re-

The meet will start promptly at 9 o'clock, so that all competitors must be in their places at that time. The usual entry fee will be charged. Entries close Friday, May 26th, at 5:30 p. m. No entries or fees will be accepted at the field. All entries should be made on the official entry blank and sent to M. F. Furey, Y.M.C.A., 272 Merrimack street, Lowell, Mass. Entry blanks for the meet will be issued within the next few days.

1917 EXCELSIOR

The latest product of the Excelsior motorcycle factory has arrived in this city and is now on display at the Lowell Cycle shop, 98 Gorham street. This new model which is styled by the makers as "the new series 17 Excelsior Auto-Cycle," has many remarkable improvements and refinements which to be appreciated must be seen. Among many other radical changes in the line of improvements on this new model are the large valves and silent muffler. Some idea of the excellence of this model can be obtained from the eagerness with which motorcycle enthusiasts have placed orders for it. Fourteen orders had been taken even before the machine arrived; they were placed after reading the specifications in the catalogue. The 1917 model Excelsior can be seen anytime at the Lowell Cycle Shop in Gorham street and the proprietors invite everyone to come in whether an intending buyer or not.

NEW STRIKEOUT RECORD

PITCHER DAVIS PERFORMS REMARKABLE FEAT WHICH WILL PROBABLY STAND AS RECORD

NEW YORK, May 5.—The record of 21 strikeouts in a nine-inning game, credited to Pitcher Davis of the Kilbuck (Texas) high school team in the contest against the Belton H. S. nine, on April 22, appears to rank with any pitching feat now recorded in the annals of baseball. So far as is shown by the leading compilations on baseball, the feat stands in a class by itself. Whether it is a world's record is hard to determine because unusual pitching exhibitions by amateur, school and college teams are not kept with the same care that is devoted to those of the major and minor leagues.

So far as the records show it is the best strikeout performance for a nine-inning game to be found among the available data in existence today. A careful search disclosed that the National league record of strikeouts, under similar conditions, is 19, made by Charles Sweeney in the Providence Boston game of June 7, 1881. The American league record was made by the late George (Hube) Wardell, who fanned 16 in the contest between St. Louis and the Athletics on July 22, 1908. Pitcher Dailey struck out 19 in a Union association game between Cincinnati and Boston on July 7, 1884; Tom Ramsey turned 17 batters back to the bench in an American association contest between Louisville and Cleveland on June 2, 1887, and this was a remarkable performance as at that time the four strike rule was in existence. On Aug. 21, 1905, William Mitchell fanned 20 batters in a Texas league game involving San Antonio and Galveston. During the year 1912 Frank Davis of the Knoxville, Appalachian league club and Fred Applegate of the Blue Grass league also fanned 20 batters. A. A. Slagg, now coach of the University of Chicago, while a student at Yale, struck out 20 Princeton batters in the Yale Princeton game of May 25, 1888, and this is probably the best college record to date.

Smart Clothes

Men have been reading so much about the increased cost of clothes, and the scarcity of good dye-stuffs, that they are giving more attention to the selection of their clothes than they have been in the habit of doing.

We are glad to see this. When men begin to think, they are sure to look beneath the surface—to consider not alone what meets the eyes, but the hidden parts—and to question the reliability of maker and seller.

O'Brien's has always sold Good Clothes. We welcome this education which causes men to investigate. Already we have put O'Brien clothes on the back of many men who never wore them before.

NEW MASS. B. B. LEAGUE HUGH JENNINGS MAY LAND WEILMAN OF BROWNS FOR TIGERS

CLASS D ORGANIZATION BEING ORGANIZED WITH SIX TEAMS—JACK KIERNAN A PROMOTER

The new six club league in Massachusetts, which is chiefly due to the efforts of Jack Kiernan, former Manchester manager, will start the season May 25, Kiernan declares. The league will have Class D rating and be under the protection of organized ball, Kiernan states.

Jack will manage the Fitchburg club in which city he is very popular. A few details remain to be disposed of and with matters straightened out, he will get busy signing players.

The clubs to be included in the circuit are: Fitchburg, Leominster, North Adams, Pittsfield, Northampton and Greenfield.

At a meeting held a few days ago representatives of all cities were in attendance, and with the exception of the Greenfield men were ready to sign an agreement to go through the season.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

Yesterday was certainly an off-day for the Lowell players.

Ricoonda, third baseman, was the only Springfield man who failed to hit safely.

Spikes made his first appearance in the lineup since the team left Bridgeport.

Green or Lohman will face the speedy New London team today.

Ty Cobb's batting average took a slump yesterday. He did not land a safe out in six trips to the plate.

Pete Clemens is in his old place as lead-off man in the Portland lineup again this year.

"Dutch" Leonard worked in splendid form and held the New York team to two hits.

Christy Mathewson began his 17th season with the Giants yesterday and forced the Braves to go 10 innings to beat him. With the exception of the first inning, Matty worked good and showed considerable old-fashioned stuff. Kauff's miff of a fly was partly responsible for the defeat of the Big Six.

The Cleveland club has one of the speediest outfielders in the country in Grady. Speaker and Roth. Grady is hitting better than he hit in years, and fielding exceptionally. The addition of Speaker seems to have acted like a tonic on the Indians.

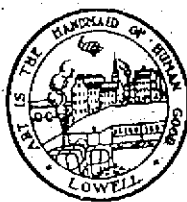

Judging from the start, it looks as if Bridgeport will have a banner attendance this year. Bridgeport had three times as many as New Haven on a cold opening day and Saturday's turnout was excellent. Cornen and Knorr, the new owners, need only a new shortstop and one more outfielder to make a first division club.

To ask waivers on a player is the best possible way to get him playing his best baseball. Burns of DETROIT, May 3.—Manager Hugh Jennings is hot after a good pitcher. He believes if he can land a good twirler or two the Tigers will surely cop the flag this year. With this in view he has made a liberal offer to Fielder Jones of the St. Louis Browns for Carl Weilman, the lanky southpaw. Hughie says that if he could get Weilman he would be happy for two reasons. One is that the Tigers would surely land the much sought cloth for this city, and the other one is that the Tigers' jinx would be removed. Last season Weilman practically put the Junglers out of the pennant fight, when he won eight out of nine starts. And he is apt to do the same thing this season, although recently the Tiger boys beat him easily in St. Louis by a score of 7 to 2.

Detrol serves as an example of this. Hughie Jennings requested the waivers and immediately the player started murdering the ball and has been soaking it at a terrific clip since. Burns won't go out of the league, however, as the Red Sox will not pass on the player.

Catcher Phil Carroll of the Worcester club worked out yesterday morning with his mates at League park very much to his own sorrow. He caught a foul tip between the thumb and fingers and ripped open a big gash. He will be out of the game for two weeks at least. Manager Hamilton rushed Freitag from Worcester to fill in for Carroll. Springfield Union.

Manager Wagner is still busy in strengthening his lineup. Three new men, farmed out by the Toronto club of the International league, have reported here for duty. They are Bugs Smith, a former star Pittsburgh portside pitcher, Lyons, a right-handed hurler, and Reed, an outfielder. The local team has released P. E. Smith, a pitcher, and Maroney an infielder. George Duggan of the Cedar Blues would like to see the manager of the North Stars at 598 Gorham street this afternoon.

The Wanderers Second challenge any 11 or 12-year-old team in the city. Write to Edmund Hallworth, 15 Watson street.

The Shawknits accept the challenge of the Glendales Second team for Saturday afternoon at Lincoln park at 2 o'clock. The game will be played for two quarter balls.

The Braves will play the Young Glens Saturday morning at Faulkner's field for a quarter ball. The Braves can beat any team of their size. Anybody who wants to back that up let J. V. Flanagan, 361 Lincoln street, know.

The Jewett A.C. want a game with any 14-year-old team in the city. The lineup is: Rourke C, Burns P, Burke 1b, Campbell 2b, McGowan 3b, Higgins ss, Irwin lf, Mara cf, Conn rf. Some challenges to Manager Rourke, 2 Puffer avenue, or Dick Edwards, 1 Richardson avenue.

The Red Sox of Centralville administered a severe defeat to the Stanley A.C. yesterday, the score being 15 to 1. There was nothing to it, but the Sox from the time the first man reached base until the end of the ninth inning. The superiority of the Sox was evident during the entire game, the batting and fielding leaving only a question of what the final score would be in the minds of those in attendance. Richard Menus, manager of the Red Sox, has gathered a wonderful 12-year-old team together, and it is expected that more victories will be forthcoming. The Red Sox would like to arrange games with any 12-year-old team in the city. Send all challenges to 54 West Sixth street.

CAWLEY ENTERED

Eddie Cawley of this city, star athlete at Colby college, is entered for the high jump in the Maine intercollegiate track meet at Bowdoin, May 13. He will also participate in the New England meet at Springfield, May 20.

MORTON AND GREGORY

JUDGE AT ODDS WITH UNITED STATES ATTORNEY GENERAL T. W. GREGORY

BOSTON, May 5.—United States Attorney General Thomas W. Gregory takes serious exceptions to statements of Judge James M. Morton, Jr., of the United States district court of Boston, referring to the department of justice as "overbearing and tyrannical," in a letter received yesterday by Congressman Gallivan.

The attorney general says that "the impropriety, if not indecency," of such statements makes him believe that Judge Morton did not make them, but he did make them and can prove every statement he made by the official correspondence on file in his office.

Judge Morton contends that some leeway should be allowed to federal judges to deal leniently with offenders brought before them and remonstrates against the iron-clad rule that every offender is to be dealt with without mercy.

In published reports of Judge Morton's address he was quoted as saying that the attorney general advised the full application of the law in the case of a 16-year-old Springfield boy, without previous criminal record, breaking into a freight car.

The judge said positively that he put such a hypothetical question to the attorney general, but that it was a post-office boy broke into, not a freight car, and that he was instructed that the federal law as passed by congress should apply and that the attorney general knew of no authority for him to do otherwise.

The judge looked up correspondence in his office signed by the attorney general and reiterated that what he said

HIS LIFE IN DANGER

CAPTAIN OF BARK APPEALS FOR HELP—THREE OF HIS CREW IN MUTINY

NEW YORK, May 5.—Capt. Gundersen of the four-masted bark Mashona sent an appeal for help to police headquarters on the arrival of the vessel at quarantine today from Buenos Aires. He reported that three of his crew of 25 were in mutiny and that his life was in danger. The Mashona, of 2032 tons register, sails under the flag of Uruguay.

Wide publicity was also given to an alleged statement of Judge Morton at the same time, to the effect that "the average lawyer and layman little realize the scope and significance of the situation until he comes into contact with it in court. Then he feels sharply his powerlessness before the overbearing and tyrannical methods of this remote bureau of justice," and concludes that "after all, great advantages lie in local self-government so far as it is possible."

SANCTIONS CAMPAIGN CONDUCTED IN HIS BEHALF FOR REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, May 5.—Formal announcement that Elihu Root has sanctioned the campaign being conducted in his behalf for the republican presidential nomination, was made here yesterday by former-Congressman John W. Dwight, in charge of the Root headquarters in this city. The statement was issued as a denial of reports that Mr. Root was not a candidate for nomination.

"The opening of these headquarters meets with the approval of Mr. Root," said Mr. Dwight. "These are national headquarters and not local. Their sole purpose is to bring about the nomination of Mr. Root."

BUSINESS IS RUSHING AT THE FACTORIES—BASEBALL CLUB ACTIVE

The annual meeting of the North Chelmsford Women's club was held this week at the home of the president, Mrs. Hiram C. Gage in Newfield street. There was a large number of members present and all took much interest in the reports submitted by the different officers. After the regular business session an election of officers took place with the following result: Mrs. Hiram C. Gage, president; Mrs. Edgar Dixon, vice president; Mrs. Will E. Blakeslee, secretary; Miss Alice F. Freeze, treasurer.

Big Baseball Game

Tomorrow afternoon the newly organized St. John's T. A. soccer baseball team will oppose the South Ends on McCabe's field. Manager John McTeague has secured a number of first class men for his team, three or four of the players coming from Boston college. At a concert held last Sunday night for the benefit of the baseball team sufficient money was raised to purchase uniforms, and these will be donated for the first time tomorrow. Among those taking part in the benefit concert were the following from Lowell: Miss Madeline Boland, Miss Agnes Meagher, Miss Mae Wrenn and Leo Lanoue.

The South Ends will present their strongest lineup against the North Chelmsford aggregation tomorrow and Manager Lyons will probably send Lawson, his star box artist in to do the twirling. Lawson was last year rated as one of the best amateur pitchers in Lowell and Manager Lyons is of the opinion that his man will go even better this year. The rest of the South Ends team will be selected from the following players: Freeman, Belleville, O'Dea, Gallagher, Breen, Lyons, McGreevey, Dowd and others.

Mills

The mills of the village are running prosperously and indications point to their continuing to do so during the summer months. The Silex mills are running full time days while some of the departments are being operated nights. The C. C. Moore mills are working day and night and the North Chelmsford Machine Co. has plenty of work on hand. The Lowell Textile Co. is very busy and its workers are steadily employed.

Inspecting Roads

A member of the state highway commission was in the village Wednesday afternoon inspecting the roads and as a result of his visit, a gang of men started to work yesterday repairing bad spots in the Princeton boulevard from North Chelmsford to the city line. Other streets in the village which are maintained by the town will be put in good condition as speedily as possible.

Boy Scouts

Members of the North Chelmsford troop of boy scouts will soon begin to make arrangements for their regular summer work and also for their summer camp. The North Chelmsford troop was one of the first to be formed in the state and at the present time it is considered as efficient as any troop in this section of the country.

GERMAN DIRIGIBLE WRECKED BY BRITISH LIGHT CRUISER SQUADRON

LONDON, May 5; 12:31 p. m.—A Zeppelin dirigible was destroyed yesterday by one of the British light cruiser squadrons off the Schleswig coast, says an official announcement issued by the government today.

This is the second Zeppelin to be destroyed in two days. The Zeppelin L-20 was blown ashore on the Norwegian coast on Wednesday after turning from a raid on the east coast of England and Scotland, Tuesday night. When the disabled balloon began to be carried away again by a strong wind the Norwegian military authorities at Stavanger blew up the air vessel.

WOMEN OF M. E. CHURCH

RAISED $3,432.50 DURING THE LAST FOUR YEARS FOR HOME MISSIONS

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., May 5.—The women of the Methodist Episcopal church have raised $3,432.50 during the last four years for home missions, according to figures submitted to the general conference of the church today. This is an increase of nearly $100,000 over that raised during the preceding years. The money is contributed through the Women's Home Missionary society.

The society, according to the report, owns, schools, hospitals, homes for girls and other institutions in the United States, Alaska and Porto Rico that are valued at $2,355,152. The philanthropic activities comprise social and religious work among negroes, immigrants, Indians, young women and mountaineers. In seven cities it conducts settlement houses.

A TWO AND A HALF STORY HOUSE AND ABOUT 5000 FEET OF LAND AT NO. 164 WENTWORTH AVE.

On the premises I shall offer for absolute sale, regardless of weather conditions, this very attractive little home. House consists of eight rooms, bath, pantry, set tubs, open plumbing, cemented cellar, furnace heat, has all hardwood floors on the first floor. It is very conveniently laid out. There are four rooms and pantry on the first floor, four airy and well lighted, a bath and sewing room on the next floor. There is a large piazza running the full length of the house. The lot, having a large frontage on Wentworth avenue, making an area of about 5000 square feet, sets well up from the street. Now then, here is an opportunity for some one to purchase a home in a first-class locality, surrounded by neighbors where every one owns his own home, within 100 yards of the electric cars.

A deposit of $300 is required as soon as struck off.

C. F. KEYES in Charge.

ABSOLUTE SALE BY TRUSTEES OF THE ROGERS LAND

TOMORROW, MAY 6, AT 3.30 O'CLOCK

IN SIX SEPARATE PARCELS

On the premises, regardless of any conditions of the weather, we shall offer for absolute sale the balance of unimproved lots of the Rogers land on High and Rogers streets.

LOT 1—Located on High street corner of Porter street extension, has a frontage of 55 and 80-100 on High street, 120 feet on Porter street, making an area of 7055 square feet. It is very level and dry and will certainly make a nice building site if you want to locate in Belvidere.

LOT 2—The second lot, located on the opposite corner of High and Porter streets, with a frontage of 51 and 20 100-120 on Porter street, making an area of 6144 square feet. It is high and dry and will be an excellent site for a two-family house. Now then, the above two lots have been made very valuable by the extension of Porter street, and it would be hard to find two better sites for a home in Belvidere.

LOT 3—Located on High street, just opposite the church, has a frontage of about 50 feet; depth, 120 feet, making an area of about 6000 feet.

LOT 4—Which adjoins this one, has a frontage of 50 feet and 120 feet depth, making an area about 6000 feet. These two lots set up well from the street. They are high and dry; and if you are thinking of locating in Belvidere, it will be to your advantage to look them over.

LOT 5—Has a frontage on High street of 48 feet, depth 130 feet, making an area 5760 square feet. There are two beautiful homes built on each side of this lot.

LOT 6—Which is located on Rogers street, very near the junction of Nesmith street, has a frontage of about 70 feet on Rogers street, with an area about 4000 feet. There are several attractive homes located near this lot.

Now, Mr. Homeowner, this is your last opportunity to purchase a lot of the Rogers land in High street, and the sale will be absolute on the day of the Rogers land in High street, and the sale will be absolute on the day of the Rogers land in High street, and the sale will be absolute on the day of the Rogers land in High street.

SHIP BURNED BY GERMANS

NORWEGIAN SCHOONER MARS, BOUND FOR ENGLAND, SEIZED BY GERMAN CRUISER

LONDON, May 5.—The Norwegian schooner Mars, bound for England with pit props was stopped and burned by a German cruiser, says a despatch from Copenhagen to the Exchange Telegraph Co. The crew was saved.

General Scandinavian opinion, the despatch adds, is to the effect that the submarine warfare against merchant shipping is on the wane.

NO. CHELMSFORD NEWS

BUSINESS IS RUSHING AT THE FACTORIES—BASEBALL CLUB ACTIVE

The annual meeting of the North Chelmsford Women's club was held this week at the home of the president, Mrs. Hiram C. Gage in Newfield street. There was a large number of members present and all took much interest in the reports submitted by the different officers. After the regular business session an election of officers took place with the following result: Mrs. Hiram C. Gage, president; Mrs. Edgar Dixon, vice president; Mrs. Will E. Blakeslee, secretary; Miss Alice F. Freeze, treasurer.

Big Baseball Game

Tomorrow afternoon the newly organized St. John's T. A. soccer baseball team will oppose the South Ends on McCabe's field. Manager John McTeague has secured a number of first class men for his team, three or four of the players coming from Boston college. At a concert held last Sunday night for the benefit of the baseball team sufficient money was raised to purchase uniforms, and these will be donated for the first time tomorrow. Among those taking part in the benefit concert were the following from Lowell: Miss Madeline Boland, Miss Agnes Meagher, Miss Mae Wrenn and Leo Lanoue.

The South Ends will present their strongest lineup against the North Chelmsford aggregation tomorrow and Manager Lyons will probably send Lawson, his star box artist in to do the twirling. Lawson was last year rated as one of the best amateur pitchers in Lowell and Manager Lyons is of the opinion that his man will go even better this year. The rest of the South Ends team will be selected from the following players: Freeman, Belleville, O'Dea, Gallagher, Breen, Lyons, McGreevey, Dowd and others.

Mills

The mills of the village are running prosperously and indications point to their continuing to do so during the summer months. The Silex mills are running full time days while some of the departments are being operated nights. The C. C. Moore mills are working day and night and the North Chelmsford Machine Co. has plenty of work on hand. The Lowell Textile Co. is very busy and its workers are steadily employed.

Inspecting Roads

A member of the state highway commission was in the village Wednesday afternoon inspecting the roads and as a result of his visit, a gang of men started to work yesterday repairing bad spots in the Princeton boulevard from North Chelmsford to the city line. Other streets in the village which are maintained by the town will be put in good condition as speedily as possible.

Boy Scouts

Members of the North Chelmsford troop of boy scouts will soon begin to make arrangements for their regular summer work and also for their summer camp. The North Chelmsford troop was one of the first to be formed in the state and at the present time it is considered as efficient as any troop in this section of the country.

YOUNG BAKER KILLED

OVEN DOOR HIT ELECTRIC WIRE FORMING CIRCUIT FROM HIS BODY

PETERBOROUGH, N. H., May 5.—Karl R. Hodgkins, proprietor of a local bakery, was killed in an unusual manner today. An oven door which he opened was swung against an electric wire, cutting through the insulation and forming a circuit from which the current passed to his body. He was 25 years of age and had purchased his establishment only two weeks ago.

Germany's Reply to Ultimatum

BERLIN, May 5. (Wireless via Sayville, N. Y.)—Following is the text of the note of the German government in reply to the American note respecting submarine warfare, delivered on Thursday by Gottlieb von Jagow, the foreign secretary, to Ambassador Gerard:

"The undersigned, on behalf of the Imperial German government, has the honor to present to His Excellency the ambassador of the United States, Mr. James W. Gerard, the following reply to the note of April 20, regarding the conduct of German submarine warfare."

"The German government handed over to the proper naval authorities for early investigation the evidence concerning the Sussex case communicated by the government of the United States. Judging by the results that the investigation has hitherto yielded, the German government is alive to the possibility that the ship mentioned in the note of April 10, as having been torpedoed by a German submarine is actually identical with the Sussex."

"The German government begs to reserve further communication on the matter until certain points are ascertained, which are of decisive importance for establishing the facts of the case. Should it turn out that the commander was wrong in assuming the vessel to be a man of war the German government will not fail to draw the consequence resulting therefrom."

"In connection with the case of the Sussex the government of the United States made a series of statements, the gist of which is the assertion that the incident to be considered is but one instance of a deliberate method of indiscriminate destruction of vessels of all sorts, nationalities and destinations, by German submarines."

"The German government must emphatically repudiate this assertion. The German government, however, thinks it of little avail to enter into details in the present stage of affairs, more particularly as the government of the United States omitted to substantiate the assertion by reference to concrete facts."

"The German government will only state that it has imposed far-reaching restraints upon the use of its submarine weapon, solely in consideration of neutrals' interests, in spite of the fact that these restrictions are necessarily of advantage to Germany's enemies. No such consideration has ever been shown neutrals by Great Britain and her allies."

"The German submarine forces have had, in fact, orders to conduct the submarine warfare in accordance with the general principles of visit and search and the destruction of merchant vessels recognized by international law, the sole exception being the conduct of warfare against enemy trade carried on enemy freight ships encountered in the war zone surrounding Great Britain. With regard to these no assurances have ever been given to the government of the United States. No such assurances are contained in the declaration of February 8, 1915."

"The German government cannot admit any doubt that these orders were given or are executed in good faith. Errors actually occurred. They can in no kind of warfare be avoided altogether. Allowances must be made in the conduct of naval warfare against an enemy, resulting to all kinds of risks, whether permissible or illicit."

"But apart from the possibility of errors, naval warfare, just like warfare on land, implies unavoidable dangers for neutral persons and goods entering the fighting zone. Even in cases where the naval action is confined to ordinary forms of cruiser warfare, neutral persons and goods are inevitably come to grief. The German government has repeatedly and explicitly pointed out the dangers from mines that have led to the loss of numerous ships."

"The German government has made several proposals to the government of the United States in order to reduce to a minimum for American travelers and goods the inherent dangers of international warfare. Unfortunately the government of the United States decided not to accept the proposals. Had it accepted the government of the United States would have been instrumental in preventing the greater part of the accidents that American citizens have met with in the meantime."

"The German government still stands by its offer to conclude an agreement along these lines."

"As the German government repeatedly declared, it cannot dispense with the use of the submarine weapon in the conduct of warfare against enemy trade. The German government, however, has now decided to make a further concession adapting methods of submarine warfare to the interests of neutrals."

"In reaching this decision the German government is actuated by considerations which are above the level of the disputed question."

"The German government attaches no less importance to the sacred principles of humanity than the government of the United States. It again fully takes into account that both governments have for years co-operated in the maintenance of international law in conformity with these principles, the ultimate object of which has always been to confine warfare on sea and land to armed forces of belligerents and safeguard as far as possible non-combatants against the horrors of war. But although these considerations are of great weight, they alone would not under present circumstances have determined the attitude of the German government. For in answer to the appeal by the government of the United States on behalf of the sacred principles of humanity and international law the German government must repeat once more with all emphasis, that it was not the German, but the British government which ignored accepted rules of international law and extended the terrible war to the lives and property of non-combatants."

"In self-defense against the illegal conduct of British warfare, while fighting a bitter struggle for national existence, Germany had to resort to the hard but effective weapon of submarine warfare."

"The undersigned avails himself of this opportunity to renew to the American ambassador assurances of highest consideration."

submarine warfare are not extended with the same warmth of feeling to many millions of women and children, who, according to the vowed intention of the British government shall be starved and who, by sufferings, shall force the victorious armies of the central powers into ignominious capitulation. The German government, in agreement with the German people, fails to understand this discrimination, all the more as it has repeatedly and explicitly declared itself ready to use the submarine weapon in strict conformity with the rules of international law as recognized before the outbreak of warfare to these rules."

"Several attempts made by the government of the United States to prevail upon the British government to act accordingly, failed because of flat refusal on the part of the British government. Moreover, Great Britain again and again has violated international law, surpassing all bounds in outraging neutral rights. The latest measure adopted by Great Britain, declaring German bunker coal contraband and establishing conditions under which English bunker coal alone is supplied to neutrals, is nothing but an unheard-of attempt by way of exaction to force neutral tonnage into the service of British trade war."

"The German people knows that the government of the United States has the power to confine the war to armed forces of the belligerent countries. In the interest of humanity and maintenance of international law, the government of the United States would have been certain of attaining this end had it been determined to insist, against Great Britain, on the incontestable right to freedom of the seas. But, as matters stand, the German people is under the impression that the government of the United States while demanding that Germany, struggling for existence, shall restrain the use of an effective weapon, and while making compliance with these demands a condition for maintenance of relations; by Germany, confines itself to protests against illegal methods adopted by Germany's enemies. Moreover, the German people knows that the considerable extent of its enemies are loaded with all kinds of war material from the United States."

"It will, therefore, be understood that the appeal made by the government of the United States to sentiments of humanity and principles of international law cannot, under the circumstances, meet the same hearty response from the German people which, such as an appeal for peace, is certain to find here. If the German government nevertheless is resolved to go to the utmost limit of concessions, it has been guided not alone by the friendship connecting the two great nations for over one hundred years but also by the thought of the great doom which threatens the entire civilized world should the cruel and sanguinary war be extended and prolonged."

"The German government, conscious of Germany's strength, twice within the last few months announced before the world its readiness to make peace on a basis safeguarding Germany's vital interests, thus indicating that it is not Germany's fault if peace is still withheld from the nations of Europe. The German government will not be justified in declaring that responsibility could not be borne before the forum of mankind and in history if after twenty-one months of the war's duration the submarine question under discussion between the German government and the government of the United States were to take a turn seriously threatening maintenance of peace between the two nations."

"The German government, guided by this idea, notifies the government of the United States that German naval forces have received the following order:

"In accordance with the general principles of visit and search and the destruction of merchant vessels recognized by international law, such vessels, both within and without the area declared a naval war zone, shall not be sunk without warning and without saving human lives unless the ships attempt to escape or offer resistance."

"But neutrals cannot expect that Germany, forced to fight for existence, shall for the sake of neutral interests, restrict the use of an effective weapon if the enemy is permitted to continue to apply at will methods of warfare violating rules of international law. Such a demand would be incompatible with the character of neutrality and the German government is convinced that the government of the United States does not think of making such a demand knowing that the government of the United States repeatedly declares that it is determined to restore the principle of freedom of the seas from whatever quarter it has been violated."

"Accordingly, the German government is confident that in consequence of the new orders issued to the naval forces the government of the United States will also consider all impediments to co-operation toward restoration of the freedom of the seas during the war, as suggested in the note of July 23, 1915, and it does not doubt that the government of the United States will now demand and insist that the British government shall forthwith observe the rules of international law universally recognized before the war, as are laid down in the notes presented by the government of the United States to the British government, Dec. 25, 1914, and Nov. 5, 1915."

"Should steps taken by the government of the United States not attain the object it desires, to have the laws of humanity followed by all belligerent nations, the German government would then be facing a new situation in which it must reserve to itself complete liberty of decision."

"The undersigned avails himself of this opportunity to renew to the American ambassador assurances of highest consideration."

WILL SLIGHTLY MODIFY SUBMARINE WARFAREBlames England's Policy of Starvation—Talks Peace and Leaves Way Open to Avoid Break—
General Tenor Disappointing

WASHINGTON, May 5.—At the state department, after the cabinet meeting, it was stated that no "hasty" action would be taken on the German note, and that in view of its length and the necessity of digesting it carefully it was "improbable" that any decision would be reached before next week.

Mr. Lansing would not discuss the note except to say that "mistakes" in submarine warfare were not admissible and to reiterate that the United States was willing to discuss the conduct of submarine warfare, with Germany after the latter had abandoned the present practices.

Later Secretary Lansing said it was possible that the United States might ask Germany for an official copy of the previous orders to submarine commanders, which never have been communicated to the state department so that they might be compared with the new orders described in the note.

CABINET CONSIDERS NOTE

WASHINGTON, May 5.—President Wilson and the cabinet went carefully over the German note as transmitted in news despatches from Berlin. A first feeling that it was unsatisfactory was somewhat lessened by the text of the new orders to submarine commanders, although it was foreseen that the reference to immunity for merchant ships recognized by international law might admit of some dispute of interpretation. So much depends upon words and their shades of meaning involved in translation from German to English that no decision can be attempted until the official text is in the president's hands.

Official Text on Cables

Ambassador Gerard cabled today that he had started it on the cables last night. It ought to be in Washington tonight or early tomorrow.

Two views were current in official circles. One was that Germany had declared her intention of abandoning her "present methods" of submarine warfare as demanded by the president and that the American govern-

THE OLD PAWTUCKET BRIDGE
FOR THAT PURPOSE

An interesting meeting of representatives of the Pawtucketville Improvement association, Pawtucketville
Social club and Centralville Social club was held in the quarters of the latter organization last evening. The purpose of the meeting being to discuss the project of erecting a bridge
across Beaver brook at Beaver street, and also that of grading Conduit avenue. The Pawtucketville Improvement
association was represented by Thomas P. Matte, while the delegates from the Pawtucketville Social club were Arthur Genest, Roderick Descheneaux and Ovidia Morin. The delegates from the Centralville Social club were John
H. Beaulieu and Pierre Brousseau.
In the course of the meeting it was brought out that the old steel girder bridge, which is soon to be replaced
by a new structure, could be used in building a new bridge over Beaver
brook, and the following committee
were appointed to interview Commis-

LOWELL WILL BE REPRESENTED
AT THE HEARING AT WASHING-TON ON MAY 23

Delegates from Lowell, Lawrence,
Haverhill and Newburyport met at the office of the harbor and land commission in Boston yesterday, for the purpose of considering plans for the appeal hearing before the board of army engineers at Washington, May 23.
The tentative plan of appeal involves a request that the findings filed by Col. W. E. Craighill be returned to him for further consideration of the point raised by Col. Abbott of the engineer corps as to what proportion of the river plan may properly be considered to be the federal government's rightful interest in the project.
Chairman William S. McNary of the harbor and land commission, will attend the hearing in Washington, as well as representatives from each of

WHAT THE COOK SAYS

Here are some axioms of Cook's
which I am sure will be appreciated
by many housekeepers. Brooms hanging instead of standing will be kept
soft and pliant. A dish of hot water set in the oven will keep cakes from burning. Keep flour cool and dry
and securely covered. Clean your glassware with a quart of water
mixed with a tablespoon of ammonia. To keep cereals in good condition always put them in glass jars.
Prick nutmegs with a pin and if
good, oil will run out. Dry, pulverize
and keep orange and lemon peel in corked bottles to use for flavoring.
Quicksilver and white of eggs destroys cockroaches and bugs. Keep an account of all supplies with price and date of purchase. Count all money carefully when you receive change.

A fine pineapple salad is made by Cook in this way: Drain a can of sliced pineapple and arrange each slice on a bed of lettuce. Over this put a tablespoon of boiled dressing,
in which plain cream or whipped
cream has been added to give a mild
flavor. Now sprinkle grated cream
cheese over this, add a dash of paprika
and one has a very delicious salad.

To make the boiled dressing take a tablespoon of butter melted slowly,
the same of flour, two of sugar, one
half teaspoon of salt and the same
of paprika. Mix into a smooth paste,
then add one half a cup water and the same of vinegar, stirring all the time it cooks to prevent lumps.
When thick remove from the fire, add the yolk of two eggs and a quarter teaspoon of prepared mustard, beating all the time. Then set
on the fire again about two minutes
to heat the eggs through. This may be kept in a jar in a cool place to
last indefinitely.

Cod a la Bechamel, made by Cook,
is very delicious. Take two cups of cold cod, carefully flaked, season with half a teaspoon of salt and quarter of a teaspoon of pepper. Make a sauce as follows:
Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan and stir in an ounce and a half of flour. Mix well and stir in two cups of clear stock, stir and cook

until it boils. Then add a dessert
spoon of mushroom catsup, two tablespoons of cream and salt and pepper to taste.
Let simmer a few moments then
add two ounces more of butter and
the cod and heat thoroughly. Turn
the fish into a baking dish. Make a border around the edge with buttered points of bread, sprinkle powdered bread crumbs over the fish
and brown the bread points and crumbs nicely in the oven.

Cook here tells you how to plank
a steak. The only utensil needed is a hardwood plank. Before using heat the plank very hot, before the fire or in the oven, lay the steak on

and fasten into place. Brush over
with olive oil or melted butter, dust
with salt and pepper and lay the plank in the broiling chamber of a gas stove for at least fifteen minutes.
Baste frequently and reverse the
plank from time to time.
While the steak is broiling press
fresh boiled potatoes through a ricer,
season and mix cream to make it
creamy. Put it into a pastry bag
and fashion it through in tuberose
fashion on the edge of the board.
Between the potato roses put little mounds of cauliflower, spinach,
onions and whatever other vegetables
you wish. Return to the bottom of the oven and allow all to brown
delicately.

Stone jars with tight fitting covers
make excellent bread boxes, says
Cook. Baked beans will be better if they are parboiled before they are put into the pot for baking. When frying be sure that the fat is hot enough to answer the test before the article is put in. Pieces of stale bread may be saved for Brown Betty pudding. Queen pudding or bread muffins. Meat and fish should be taken from the ice sometime before frying or they will cool the fat.

Don't throw the test of chicken away but clean them carefully and put them in the stock pot. Keep the dishes containing food closely covered
and the refrigerator will be kept free from odors. Tea many articles should not be put in hot fat at one time, for the temperature will be lowered and the article absorb the

fat. Warm cake and pie pans and rub the inside with paraffin wax.
This is superior to the old method of
greasing pans with butter.

Cook gives the following directions
for pastry making: Use pastry flour
when possible. It makes a much more tender crust than does bread
flour and will require less shortening.
Lard makes a very tender crust but butter gives a better flavor. Shortening that is worked into the dough
makes the pastry short and tender,
but that which is spread over the pastry when rolling out makes it
flaky. Shortening should be thoroughly chilled before using. In very warm weather it is better to cut
or rub shortening in with a knife or
fork rather than to use the hands.
As the heat from the fingers often softens the shortening and makes the pastry sticky. When rolling out pastry use only enough flour to keep the dough from sticking to board and
pin. Pastry should be kept as cool
as possible during mixing. Use ice
water when it can be obtained.
Handle pastry as little as possible
and bake in a hot oven.

CLARA BARTON

Memorial to the Founder
Cross

Special to 'The Sun'

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5.—Active steps will be taken by the Clara Barton National Memorial association to secure the funds necessary to erect in the city of Washington a memorial to commemorate the great work done by Miss Barton in the Civil war and as founder of the American Red Cross. The association has in mind the erection of a splendid memorial which shall be a distinct recognition of Miss Barton's indomitable courage and her self-sacrifice in the cause of humanity. It is the wish of the association that the funds be raised by popular subscription, so all may have an opportunity to contribute towards a lasting tribute to the noble woman whose humanitarian efforts were not confined to any one country, any one cause or any one class of people. Clara Barton ministered to all who needed her personal help or the assistance of the great society she represented, and in erecting a permanent memorial to her bravery, her tenderness and her humanity, it is regarded as especially fitting that the entire country join in the movement.

This week Mrs. John A. Logan, widow of the famous general of the Civil war, as president of the Clara Barton Memorial association, will send out thousands of circulars calling attention to the proposed memorial and asking co-operation and funds. No definite form has been selected, but the suggestion of a Greek temple, dedicated to Miss Barton and containing suitable tablets commemorating her deeds and the establishment of the American Red Cross through her efforts, has met with much favor.

The appeal to be issued within a few days recounts how, in 1851, when the Civil war began, Clara Barton, a clerk in one of the departments in Washington, dropped her pen and commenced without preparation, the work of nursing the wounded. She followed the army to the battlefield where she enlisted loyal workers to assist in caring for the sick and wounded. "She was of invaluable service to the troops, the government and the country," says the appeal. After the battles of Cedar mountain and Groveland, where we lost 1000, came the disaster of Manassas and the Second Bull Run. Miss Barton gathered everything she could use for the relief of the wounded, of which there were 4000. She went to the battlefield, and through three long days and nights without sleep ministered to the suffering men. When the battle of Antietam was imminent Gen. Rucker sent for Miss Barton and told her she must go on the march, so as to be on the ground after the battle. The siege of Fredericksburg, Petersburg, the eight months' siege of Fort Wagner, Sumter and Gregg, the campaign and siege of Charleston found her close to the troops. After the close of the war she spent four years searching for missing men on the battlefields, the prisons and prison and field burying grounds. This work was undertaken by her at the personal request of President Lincoln. Devoting herself to this gruesome labor, she restored to the rolls 40,000 out of the 50,000 missing.

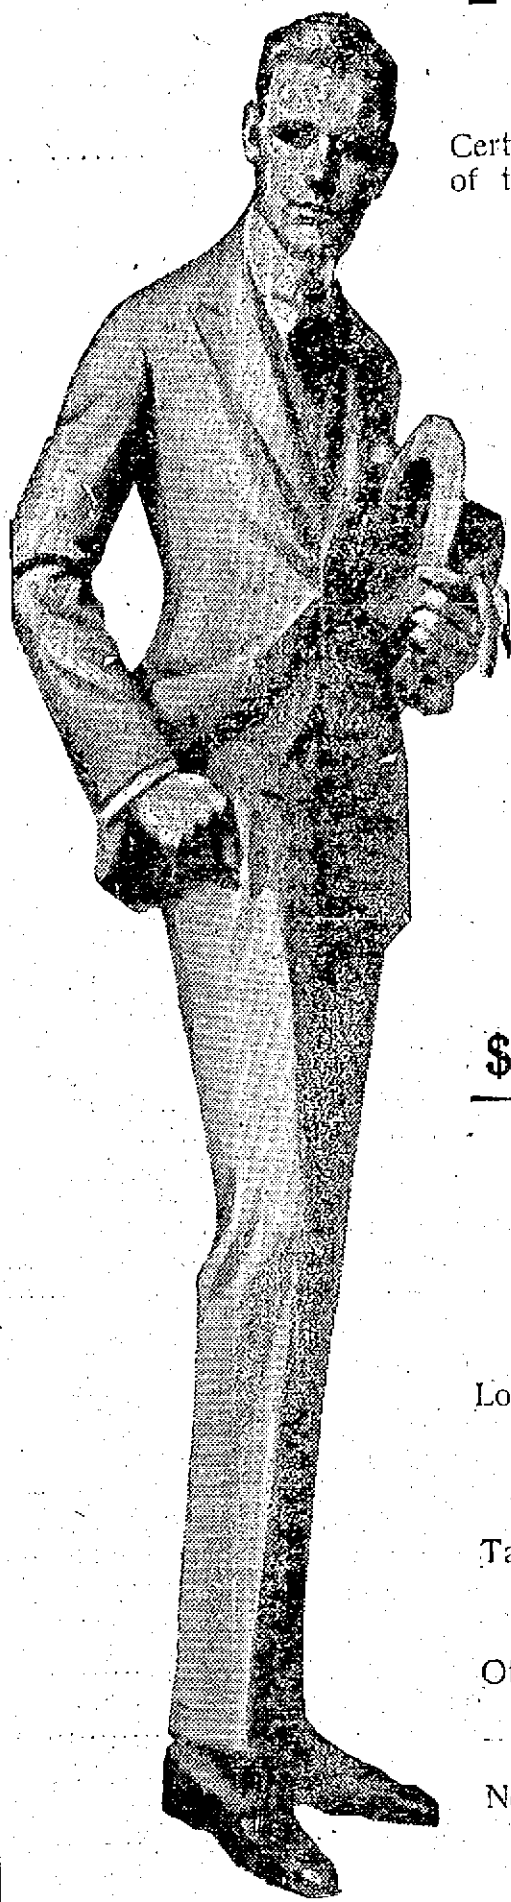

After the Civil war she went to Switzerland and became interested in the splendid work of the Red Cross, and was urged to join in the work. She did this, and was active during the Franco-Prussian war.

Witnessing the wonderful work done by the Red Cross in Europe, Miss Barton determined to urge the United States to join with the other countries which had adopted the Red Cross. It proved a long and tedious task, but with indomitable courage and persistence Miss Barton worked on, until General Garfield became president. Then she found ready sympathy for the cause. President Garfield was impressed with Miss Barton's conception of the Red Cross for America. She had worked in blood and fire before his eyes, he himself had stood with her in the rain of bullet and shell in the Civil war, and he worked zealously for its incorporation here. Miss Barton was the founder of the Red Cross in America and also the originator of the American amendment which was accepted by the Geneva conference, and which was the first to provide that the Red Cross might be utilized to minister to sufferers from pestilence, famine, fires, flood or other calamities in time of peace, in addition to its work in time of war. The president of the International Red Cross at the convention of Geneva in 1882 characterized the establishment of the American Red Cross as follows: "Its whole history is associated with the name of one known to you all—that of Clara Barton. Without the energy and perseverance of this remarkable woman, we should not for a long time have had the pleasure of seeing the Red Cross received into the United States. And thus through Miss Barton's efforts, not only was that wonderful humane work carried on during the Civil war, both in our own and foreign lands, but the great movement of neutrality for Red Cross workers and international relief on war was brought about by her personal labor. The appeal will be sent to the Grand Army posts, Sons of Veterans, Relief Corps, Daughters of American Revolution, Loyal Legion and other patriotic societies, as well as to citizens. It is not intended to ask congress to make an appropriation, but to raise the necessary funds by voluntary contributions throughout the country. The appeal closes as follows:

"Will not the descendants of the soldiers to whom she ministered on the battlefield, in camps and hospitals, come forward with such donations as they may be able to give to the memorial? Will not the survivors of the reconstruction, the hundreds of whom would have perished but for her appearance, as president of the Red Cross among them; will not the descendants and survivors of those appalling calamities, whom she, as president of the Red Cross, saved from famine and death, rally to the support of this movement, legally incorporated, chartered and officered for the sole purpose of erecting a memorial to her in Washington, the memory of Clara Barton?"

The president of the association is Mrs. Logan, John Joy Edson of Washington, the national treasurer, and the board of trustees and the vice presidents are men and women of recognized prominence in patriotic and humanitarian work.

MARKET ENLARGED

Vigant's Market in Upper Merrimack Street Now Has Double Floor Space

Vigant's market, located at the corner of Merrimack and Suffolk sts., which was opened about a year ago, has been enlarged by taking over the adjoining store on the Suffolk street side of the market. This annexation means that the size of this establishment has been doubled. In the newly added portion of the market will be located the fish and meat departments as well as the refrigerators. Mr. Vigant, proprietor of the business, realized that his store was too limited in which to satisfactorily do business, and he feels that this valuable addition will be greatly appreciated by his customers. The opening of the large market will be observed by offering special bargains to customers today and tomorrow.

SPOOKS' NEW COLLAR

Once upon a time Spooks went to the kitchen for her breakfast of fish. Now Spooks was very fond of fish and for the last few weeks she had had all she wanted, in fact so much that Cook had said that the cat was growing so fast and was so fat she wasn't nearly as pretty as she used to be.

This morning Spooks ate more than ever so when she was through, instead of going out to play, she curled up in a corner and went fast asleep. "Come Spooks and play," called Nina but Spooks only opened one eye and winked and turned over to go to sleep again. This was too much for Nina so she grabbed the kitten and took it out in her arms. Spooks stretched and yawned and snap went her pretty collar that Nina's uncle had given her when she was little.

Poor Spooks, she had eaten so much and had grown so lazy she had outgrown her collar. Nina was going down town with her mother that day and she asked if she could buy Spooks a new collar and her mother had said they would look for a real pretty one that afternoon.

Nina got all dressed in her new spring dress and hat. She wanted to take her new umbrella but her mother said as the sun was shining she thought it would look funny to be carrying an umbrella.

Nina liked to go shopping with her mother and she never teased for all the nice things she saw or pouted when she didn't get ice cream and sodas. When her mother was through with her shopping she said: "Now we will go and get Spooks' new collar and then have some ice cream."

"All right," said Nina and they went into a store. Nina saw a lovely collar with blue stones on it and her mother said she could have that one if they could get it large enough.

When Nina put the collar on Spooks it seemed very large but Cook said if the cat ate as much as she had been doing, she would soon grow to the collar, so they kept it, and do you know, it is small for Spooks' now.

LOWELL REMONSTRANT

ASSESSOR O'SULLIVAN HEARD IN OPPOSITION TO INCOME TAX BILL

Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan, member of the board of assessors for the city of Lowell, was one of the many remonstrants who spoke before the house ways and means committee in Boston yesterday against the income tax bill. He told the committee that every assessor in Massachusetts is opposed to the bill, and that he is of the positive opinion that the enactment of the bill would mean a loss instead of a gain to the state and various cities and towns.

Mr. O'Sullivan contended that the rate of 6 per cent. is too low and so it will not produce the revenue it is expected to produce. Even if the rate is lower, he said, no law will induce every owner of taxable intangible property to disclose all their property of this character.

He said he never heard of any man coming forward and voluntarily showing up all of this character of property in his name, regardless of where he may live, and particularly in Lowell.

That he is not opposed to an income tax, was the emphatic assertion of Mr. O'Sullivan, but he said that if we are going to have an income tax which will affect taxable intangibles, we must have the law in such shape that it will contain an absolute compulsory provision which cannot be escaped by the tax-dodger. Mr. O'Sullivan said that there is no doubt that the tax laws are ineffectual, as they cause too many injustices and hardships, but the bill in question will not remedy any of the existing deplorable conditions.

He said that if the bill, however, is to be enacted it certainly should contain a compulsory provision which can be thoroughly understood by every one.

Favored the Bill

Attorney Arthur L. Spring, representing the Massachusetts state board of trade and speaking in favor of the bill, contended that the state requires additional revenue. Assessors should correct the evils of the bill rather than throw down the entire proposition. Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan of Boston stated that the bill is favored by the Boston assessors and by Mayor Curley. Henry F. Abrahams, secretary of the Cigar makers' union, 27, of Boston; George F. Willett of New Bedford, a member of the State Tax association; Attorney William F. L. Gilman of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and City Solicitor Ernest H. Vaughn of Worcester also spoke in favor of the bill.

The opposition was opened by Representative George W. Verrill of Andover, who contended that the bill would permit of about 100 exemptions. Representative William O. Souther, Jr., a dissenting member of the taxation committee also, spoke in opposition. He stated that to enforce the provisions would cost the state $100,000. Others who opposed the bill were John Hanigan, an assessor of New Bedford, and Attorney W. P. Thore of Boston.

AMESBURY CONTRACTOR CAUGHT UNDER 15-TON PRESS AFTER WARNING MEN

AMESBURY, May 5.—Daniel C. Cashman, president of the Cashman Bros. company, contractors, yesterday afternoon suffered the loss of his left leg, when it was torn from the knee socket by the fall of a 15-ton piece of machinery at the munition factory of Gray & Davis.

Cashman, who is 56 years old and a resident of Newburyport, is at the Anna Jacques hospital in a critical condition. An operation for the amputation of the remaining part of the left leg will probably be performed to-day.

The accident was due to a break in a link of the immense chain by which the heavy machinery was being placed in the factory.

Mr. Cashman was at the Gray & Davis company plant supervising the installation of many huge and heavy pieces of machinery. When a

DODGERS HAVE DESIGNS ON BUNTING HAVE EXCELLENT CHANCE OF COPPING TOOItalian and Austrian Warships and Aircraft
Engaged in AdriaticBERLIN, May 5. (By wireless to Saville).—A battle in the Adriatic between Italian and Austrian warships and aircraft is reported in a statement received here today from the Austro-Hungarian admiralty.The statement also says Austro-Hungarian aircraft have raided the Italian city of Ravenna.The statement follows:
"On the afternoon of May 3 and Austro-Hungarian naval air squadron bombed with good effect the harbors and a sulphur factory at Ravenna. Flames were observed at the sulphur factory and a railroad station. The aeroplanes were shelled heavily by two batteries of anti-aircraft guns, but returned unharmed."At the same time a reconnoitering squadron of torpedo boats met four of the enemy's destroyers southwest of the mouth of the Po. A combat at long range ensued but it was without effect as the superior speed of the enemy's warships did not permit approach to them. Several aeroplanes joined the combat and fired with machine guns at the enemy's ships."ZEPPELIN WHICH RAIDED SALO-NIKI DESTROYED—ONLY ONE OF 30 MEN ESCAPEDLONDON, May 5, 1:30 p. m.—A Zepp-elिन raided Saloniki during the early hours of this morning, according to a Reuter despatch from that city. The airship was subjected to a heavy fire and is reported to have been destroyed.A later Reuter despatch from Saloniki states that the report of the destruction of the Zeppelin has been confirmed. Only one of the crew of 30 on the airship escaped.GERMANS ATTACK FRENCH POS-ITIONS WEST OF THE MEUSE
AND ARE REPELLEDPARIS, May 5, noon.—West of the Meuse the Germans yesterday evening strongly attacked the French positions north of Hill 301, says the official statement issued this afternoon by the French war office, but they were repulsed along the whole front attacked, except in one or two points in the advanced trenches.An attempted attack on the trenches at Cappy, south of the Somme, the statement adds, completely failed.East of the Meuse and in the Woevre there was an intermittent bombardment.Otherwise the front was comparatively calm.The text of the statement follows:
"South of the Somme a coup de main attempted by the enemy on our trenches in the region of Cappy" was completely checked."West of the Meuse after bombardment of extreme violence the Germans at the close of the day yesterday launched a strong attack upon our positions north of Hill 301. They were repulsed along the whole of the front attacked but gained a footing at some points in our advanced trench."East of the Meuse and in the Woevre there was intermittent artillery activity.""The night was relatively calm on the rest of the front."FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION
The Forty Hours' devotions opened atBROOKLYN, May 4.—Wilbert Robinson's Superbas, having got off to a good start, are going right out to cop the old flag and bring it home, to decorate Squire Ebbets' ball park in this city. Mr. Ebbets has been picking the Superbas to perform this feat for some seasons past, but until last year the team has never come near to fulfilling its owner's bright prophecies. This year, however, with a seasoned team and a pitching staff second to none in the league it looks as if the Dodgers might come through and barring accidents, there is no reason why they should not. Robinson is to be commended for building up the Brooklyn team to championship caliber. He has shown excellent judgment in picking his men for positions on the team, and in very few cases have his selections fallen down. His pitching staff composed mainly of youngsters, is the envy of all the rival managers, and there is not one member of it who would not be grabbed up if Robinson were compelled to let him go. The playing of the Dodgers, top, has revived interest in the great national game in Brooklyn these past two years, and even if the Dodgers do not come out on top the fans will slink by the team. Picture shows the Brooklyn manager and a few of his stars. Top, left to right, Dau-
solemn high mass, which was cele-brated at 10 o'clock by Rev. P. L. Cray-ton, assisted by Rev. W. George Mullin as deacon and Rev. D. J. Kehoe, pastor, acted as master of ceremonies.
The congregation was very large and the service was very impressive.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

CASE OF CONLEY VS. BOSTON ELE-VATED ON TRIAL—COURT AD-JOURNEDThe case of Martin Conley of Cambridge vs. Boston Elevated Co. was continued at the civil session of superior court before Judge Bell this morning.
The case is an action of tort in the sum of $3000. The plaintiff claims that on Sept. 30, 1914, his wife, Kate Conley, was severely injured owing to the negligence of a servant of the company in the operation of a turnstile through which the woman was passing while entering the Central Square station in Cambridge, said station being in the care of the defendant company. The wife of the plaintiff, it is claimed, has died since the accident, but there is no allegation that death was due to the accident. Several witnesses were heard during the morning and at noon arguments were made. Court adjourned shortly before 1 o'clock until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

MERCHANTS HAVE DECIDED TO GRANT IT DURING HOT WEATHER
MONTHSThe heads of several mercantile establishments of the city held a meeting this morning at which the question of closing Thursday afternoons during the summer months was fully considered.
After some discussion it was voted to close Thursday afternoons during June, July, August and September, and notices to this effect will be posted in the various stores within the next few days.

gram was given and the receipts were very substantial.The members of the Worthen Street Baptist Sunday school held a banquet in the church vestry last evening. The affair was a red-letter occasion, inasmuch as the expenses of the evening were paid by the reds. The school was recently formed into two groups, the reds and the blues and a combination attendance and membership campaign was started with the understanding that the losers would entertain the winners at luncheon. The blues won and they were royally entertained by the reds.An enthusiastic meeting of ladies and gentlemen interested in St. Peter's orphanage was held at the residence of Mrs. Henry L. Rourke in Highland street last evening, when plans and arrangements were discussed for the forthcoming military whist and dance in aid of the orphanage in Lincoln hall next Tuesday evening. It was reported that the tickets were being disposed of quite rapidly and it was the consensus of opinion that the worthy object of the underlaking would appeal to the charitably inclined throughout the city.A well attended meeting of the British-American Social club was held last evening in Post 120, G. A. R.
hall. President Neil McNeill Wattors occupied the chair and considerable routine business was transacted. The committee in charge of the recent beef supper reported that a good sum had been realized which will be added to the relief fund. George Whaley was elected to fill the office of vice president for the remainder of the year. It was voted to hold the second annual outing of the club at Revere beach on June 24. The next meeting will be the last in the present hall, as larger quarters have been secured.A song recital in costume was given last evening in the vestry of the First Trinitarian Congregational church under the auspices of the Women's Federation, the affair being in charge of Percy W. Edmunds. The accompanist of the evening was Miss Elodie Chapdelaine of the New England Conservatory of Music, and each number was well rendered. Those who took part were Percy W. Edmunds, Miss Elodie Chapdelaine, Alfred Sanson, Miss Scowell, Mrs. F. L. Roberts, Master Roland Worth, Miss Elmore Clifford, Alexander Williams, Miss Alice Belanger, James

achieve that happiness for ourselves and for our fellowmen would be our desire. "Almost the worst fate that can befall us, the most grappling handicap that can be laid upon us when we are young, is to have much given to us and little demanded of us, until we come to look for happiness in the guise of what we can get rather than in what we can do. We think our understanding of a man's joy and satisfaction in his power of doing things, or mastering a particular kind of work, will enable us to understand the feeling that grows in a good workman, that there is a power urging him through his work to do that work better and better. That feeling in our urgency, the vision of work that is possible, which will not let man be happy until he moves toward it, but day by day as he moves, thrills him with the joy of doing something, of getting somewhere. The work of God, in other words, is not something apart from the vital interests of men. The work of God is the work of the world well done by men; and no kind of work is so humble that God's will is not seeking expression through it. I believe that the clamor of the spirit is everywhere that no honest toll need be wholly soiled and selfish. The building up of a great business that shall serve generation after generation, the invention of a method of manufacture, the organization of an industry for the welfare of

HOW TO GET STRONG

A Simple Remedy

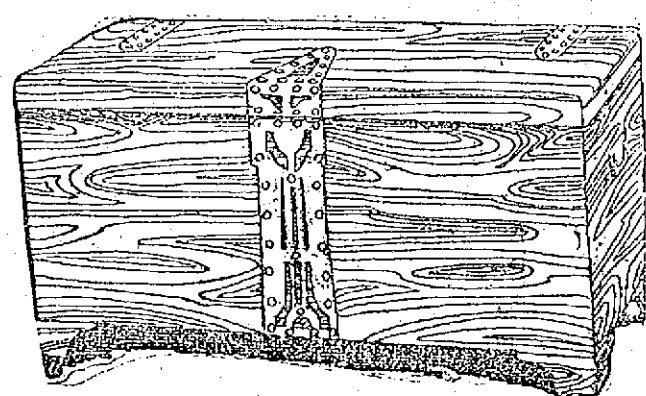

Whatever the cause, we want to say to every person who needs strength, you need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, as it is the most efficient strength creator we have in our store. Here is proof from Dorchester, Mass.: "I don't know what we would do without Vinol in our family. I was weak, nervous and run-down as the result of an operation, and Vinol restored my strength. Then Grandmother had a nervous breakdown, and Vinol built her up and restored her health and strength after everything else had failed. We have used Vinol for 13 years in our family, and would not be without it in the house." Myrtle L. Healy, Dorchester, Mass. We believe in Vinol because we know it is a great strength creator, due to the extractive medicinal elements of fresh cod livers, without oil, combined with peptonate of iron and beef peptone, all dissolved in a pure medicinal wine, so we always return the purchase money if Vinol fails to benefit those who buy it. THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

"I am going to try and make the porch look real nice this coming summer," said Marjorie one day, "and I am getting all the suggestions I can now, so as to do the job with the smallest amount of mistakes and at the least cost." "That is the proper way to go at it," responded Marie. "Willow furniture for porches has a warm place in my heart for it has a practical and comfortable value beyond all other kinds. It is smart looking too, and its smooth reeds are pleasant to the touch. A single piece made on the lines of Easter Indian goods lends the true oriental flavor that nothing else supplies."

"Willow furniture combines well with old blue porch pottery, and with Japanese chinizes of blue and white, than which there is nothing more dainty for afternoon teas or a lounge in the open. The pretty green and white china harmonizes well with it, too, as do also the old fashioned braided rugs which can now be purchased in almost any size and weave. They lend an old time atmosphere to the veranda, which is appreciated by the housewife with a hankering for an artistic home. "Among other charming styles of porch furniture is a set of grass or reed stained in either dull green or a pretty bronze brown. It is designed with a square back to the chairs and the body of the pieces is woven partly solid and partly openwork design. They lack any profuse ornamentation, which, however, is an admirable idea for veranda use. Included in the set are several large tables, a large square one for a family meal, a circular tea table and a card table. There are also jardiniere stands and chairs, not to mention a delightful swinging seat modeled after a Gloucester hammock."

MICHIGAN COPPER MINES

The complete report from Michigan copper mines received by the United States geological survey show the production to be the largest in the history of the industry. The total refined copper produced amounted to 238,956,410 pounds according to E. S. Butler, as compared with 155,000,748 pounds in 1914, and with 231,112,235 pounds in 1915, the record production previous to 1915. At an average price of 17.5 cents per pound the copper output of Michigan had a value of about $41,600,000 for 1915. The copper mines produced 555,333 ounces of silver in 1915, valued at $297,068. There was mined and milled in the Lake Superior district 12,334,639 tons of ore producing concentrates containing 255,253,375 pounds of copper, or a recovery of slightly above 1 per cent of copper from the ore. A portion of the concentrates produced was not smelted in 1915.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

George G. Parsons, a respected and well-to-do citizen of Fresno, Cal., was in town this week, renewing old acquaintances.

The younger generation will probably ask why such an announcement appears in this column, rather than among the personals.

The answer is, that George Parsons is a real old timer; a baseball player in the latter 70's and early 80's, and the first man to pitch a curve ball in a ball game in Lowell. Now that's some distinction, and hence Mr. Parsons is recorded a place among the real old timers of Lowell.

Mr. Parsons in his early days pitched for a strong semi-pro team in this city, known as the "Whitewashers." They didn't take their name as a result of their respective occupations when off the diamond, for it was while in the game that they did the job of whitewashing, and hence their name. On the team with Mr. Parsons was the original Barney McLaughlin. There have been several Barneys in baseball, in Lowell, in the past 30 or 40 years, but this one was the original and greatest Barney, who afterward played second base for the Philadelphia Nationals and then came back to the Lowell New England league team. Other players on that team were Dan Saunders, Billy Conway, Ben Callery, now in Chicago, John Green and "Pinky" Freeman. "Pinky's" Christian name also was John and hence to distinguish them, he was given the nickname which stuck to him throughout his life. In later years Trust Commissioner William F. Thornton played with the "Whitewashers," before he became the star infielder of the old Mathews. George Parsons became famous in amateur baseball circles as the first amateur to attempt the curve ball with success. And after he went to Fresno, Cal., in 1883, he started the natives going out an assortment of benders that none could fathom. Mr. Parsons in his baby days lived with his parents in North Billerica, but came to this city when a boy, his father for many years conducting the "Shades" hotel in Market street, at the corner of Carpet Lane. He attended the Green school, and shortly after his arrival in Lowell, a week ago, while walking along the street, he met his old school teacher, Miss Ruth B. Bailey, whom he avers hasn't grown a day older in 30 years. So tickled was Mr. Parsons at meeting his old time school marm that he insisted that she accompany him to a studio where they had a "group" picture taken, which Mr. Parsons says across the continent to his family in Fresno. After leaving school, Mr. Parsons went to work at the old planing mill of A. L. Brooks & Co., in Dutton street and was foreman of that establishment when in 1882 he resolved to try his luck in the far west and emigrated to Fresno. After engaging in business in Fresno for a time, he went to Madiera, Cal., some 22 miles from Fresno, where he held the position of postmaster for 12 years. Returning to Fresno he engaged in the real estate business and is at present located there. He states that he is reminded of the old days frequently by the fact that one of the schools which his boy attended is known as the "Lowell" school.

Of course, naturally, the first question put to him by the writer upon learning that his home is in Fresno was: "Do you know 'Fresno Dan' Russell?"

Mr. Parsons, smiling, replied that he knew Dan, and knew his counsel very well. "Suppose you were making a small bet on the identity of the real claimant, would you lay your money on 'Fresno' or on 'Dakota?'" asked the writer.

"How dare you ask such a question of a patriotic citizen of Fresno," replied Mr. Parsons, with a huge grin. Speaking of the salubrious, or I believe, they refer to it as the "glorious" climate of California, Mr. Parsons said: "The weather people must have seen me coming, for they framed up a most penetrating winter season. I thought it would never stop snowing. Out in my country we had two inches of snow on January 1, and it was gone in half an hour, and that's all we saw of the snow this winter, while I was at home."

In regard to the heat of summer, Mr. Parsons said: "You know that when it's 92 in the shade here in New England, the men who work in the streets or in the fields, generally are obliged to quit work on account of the excessive heat. Out in California they go ahead with their day's work in the open, uncomplainingly, and without disastrous results, with the thermometer 110 in the shade. If you

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to A. W. Dows & Co., or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Fenix capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

look at the thermometer in California it seems very hot, but you will not feel the heat as you will in New England. We never hear of sunstroke out there, and what cases of heat prostration occur invariably are superinduced by some other cause."

Mr. Parsons, while speaking with the writer, paid the beautiful tribute of a school day chum, to the late Bishop John B. Delany with whom he played when a boy and he will return to California carrying with him as a highly prized souvenir of his visit to the east, a copy of the life and writings of the lamented prelate.

They Beat Us Out

While the past few days have been the first of the year on which one could safely go without an overcoat, quarter of a century ago at this time Lakeview was in full blast, and on May 15, the boys of Miss Burns' class of the Edison school held a most enjoyable outing at the lake, with their popular teacher as the hostess of the occasion, while on Saturday, May 16, quarter of a century ago, the attractions there consisted of free dancing, a band concert by the old Lowell city band and fireworks in the evening.

"Dave" Quimby Coming to Town

As all coming events cast their shadows before, the shadow preceding the coming third annual assembly and initiation of the Lowell Fat Men's club, which is to take place on Monday evening next in Elks' hall, Middle street, will be Mr. David Quimby, formerly of this city, president of the United States Fat Men's club, who will arrive here early in the afternoon and who will renew old acquaintances at the American house.

Mr. Quimby, when down to weight, tips the beam at 350 pounds and hence is some shadow. He is now a prosperous candy manufacturer in Boston but he started to make his pile in Lowell and his first investment was in pigs, and thereby hangs a tale.

Long ago Mr. Quimby and his brother decided to leave their native hills of Vermont and seek fame and fortune in a big city. They selected Lowell as the big city, probably because Lowell was as far as they could go on the amount of funds in their possession. When they struck town, Frank Shaw was running the old Washington Tavern, prior to taking over the American house. Dave struck a job doing chores around the Washington house, and as well did he perform his work that Mr. Shaw advanced him, and when later he bought out the American house, Dave went along as Frank's barkeep. In those days, which were somewhat beyond quarter of a century ago, the farmers came to town with their produce and sometimes with live stock, and as they do today, only in larger numbers in those days, and one of their favorite meeting places was the American house, at which "Dave" Quimby's today was famous. One day long ago a farmer blew into the hotel and sought the bar, and began conversing with Dave on his prospects. He informed the man behind the bar that he had in his wagon six little pigs, which he would sell very cheap, to get rid of them, and he painted a glowing picture of the vast amount of money to be acquired at successful pig-raising.

"Dave" became interested. At that time he had saved up a few dollars and was looking around for some kind of profitable investment, and as it was the first time in his life that he ever had more money than would get him by from pay day to pay day, he was quite "leary" about taking any chances with his little roll. But the farmer had interested him to such an extent that he accepted the latter's invitation to step around the corner and meet the piggos face to face. One glance was enough. Dave was completely charmed at the cute appearance of the wee little porkers, and he struck a bargain at once. The farmer wanted to unload them then and there in the hotel bar-room, but Dave made him wait until he had an opportunity to pick out a temporary abiding-place for his charges, which he succeeded in doing by frequent applications of today. In a short time he had made arrangements with a stable keeper in Warren street where Pound-keeper Peabody now holds down a fine city job, and there installed the pigs.

Perhaps you think the outcome of this story is that "Dave" was badly stung, on his bargain, Nay, he became very much attached to his pigs, and he carried the swill from the hotel over to the stable every day and personally fed them, while he varied the diet with an occasional banquet of corn, and other good things. But day after day out he fed his pigs, and paid for their lodgings beside, and they grew space and waxed fat. Finally after they had assumed fine proportions and appetites that would make them eligible for any Fat Men's club in the land, Dave decided that they were no longer pets, and he believed that the time had come to realize a dividend upon his investment. Accordingly he made it known that he had six porkers for sale, and in a short time disposed of them at a fancy price, and then there decided that as his first investment had been a success, he was destined to become a business man. Shortly afterward he went to Boston, and entered business and now after quarter of a century thus engaged he can find time to attend sessions of the Fat Men's clubs wherever they may be held. Mr. Quimby has a beautiful home in Somerville, and among the appointments at his home are finely equipped training quarters for, strange as it may seem, although 350 pounds in weight, Mr. Quimby takes physical exercise daily, and claims that it keeps him "down to weight." He is unusually active for his size, and one can find a good time like any other fat man. Mr. Quimby will preside at the exercises here Monday evening but will come to the American house in the afternoon where he will be pleased to meet any old friends, fat or lean.

MAY 7 FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF THE SINKING OF THE LUSITANIA

NORTH POMONA GRANGE

Meeting Held Today at Odd Fellows Hall on Bridge Street—Instructive Papers Read

The monthly meeting of the members of Middlesex North Pomona grange was held today at Odd Fellows hall, Bridge street, with about 200 grangers present. The meeting was presided over by Worthy Master Warren E. Sherburne of Tyngsboro.

A business session was held in the forenoon and considerable business was transacted. It was voted to hold a field meeting day on July 21, and the farm of the lecturer, George W. Trull, in North Tewksbury was selected as the place for the meeting. A committee was appointed to look after arrangements for this event, which promises to be a notable one in the history of the organization. Aug. 17 was set as the date for the annual farm visiting.

According to present arrangements, those who wish to participate in the visiting trip will assemble at Merrimack square at some specified time and there automobiles will be boarded. Several farms in the various towns surrounding Lowell will be inspected, and the members of the visiting party are requested to take notes and report at the following meeting of the grange. Last year the farm visiting trip was very successful for there were about 15 automobiles in line, each one carrying between four and five passengers.

At the close of the business session this forenoon a very interesting paper

on "The Grange and Its Influence" was read by Mrs. Alice Colburn of the Dracut grange. This was followed by the reading of another important paper on "The Grange and Its Opportunities," by Mrs. Little Spaulding of Chelmsford grange. Mr. Day of Billerica grange, who was formerly connected with a Boston banking house, read a paper on "The Grange and Its Purposes," and he also discussed in a very able way the methods of the Boston clearing house. At 12:30 o'clock the meeting adjourned for luncheon and those present repaired to the spacious dining room, where a very appetizing and bountiful dinner was served by the members of Carlisle grange, the dinner committee being headed by Mrs. Nettie Wilson.

The grangers reconvened at 2 o'clock and in the course of the afternoon listened to an interesting address by a prominent speaker, Mr. Hamilton of the state board of education, who took for his subject, "Team Play Between the School and Home." At the close of the address, which proved to be both interesting and instructive, Miss Mildred McKnight of this city gave several readings, which were very pleasing, while Mrs. Carrie Chase, the pianist of the grange, entertained with piano selections.

CONDUCTOR IS GUILTY

RAY STATE CARIAN FINED $25 FOR EJECTING A PASSENGER FROM HIS CAR AT MELROSE

BOSTON, May 5.—Edgar E. Burr, a conductor on the Ray State street railway, was fined $25 by Judge Bruce in the Malden court yesterday, for "disputing" an almost self-evident fact and forcibly ejecting a passenger from his car.

Burr had been accused of assaulting Dr. Bertram S. Killian, an Everett veterinarian. The physician, with five friends, was returning from a dance given by the Stoneham fire department about two weeks ago, according to the testimony. He boarded a Wakefield car by mistake instead of one for Malden square.

When Franklin square, Melrose Highlands, was reached, Dr. Killian attempted to board a car for Malden. It was then that Burr ejected him. When the physician returned and attempted to board the car, the two clashed and blows were exchanged. Finally, a policeman interfered and the physician was allowed to board the car and continue his trip.

NEW CANDLE PIN MARK

LYNN, May 5.—A new record of 1603, beating by three pins the score which has stood 10 days, was made tonight in the three-men candle pin division of the national duck and candle tournament by Collins, Derwin and Cole of the Lynn Elks team. A three-string total of 365 by Collins was the principal factor.

The Elks five-men candle team rolled 1332 and Collins and Arnett in the doubles event put up $17, the high score of the day. The high individual was 322 by Arnett.

Revere Elks with Paul Pochler rolled against the duck pins and the five-men team scored 1537, placing them in second position. In the individual class Kerrigan rolled 332, while Pochler's score was 323. Kerrigan, Miller and Pochler rolled 931, which places them inside the money.

BEN LINDSEY CRITICALLY ILL

DENVER, Col., May 6.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey of the Denver juvenile court, who has made a national reputation through his adjudication of juvenile crimes, lies critically ill at his residence here. About a week ago Judge Lindsey was operated on for the removal of a tumor about the size of an orange from his back. Since then his condition has gradually become weaker.

TRIAL BY JURY GIVEN

DRAMATIC CANTATA PRESENTED IN ASSOCIATE HALL BY ST. PATRICK'S SANCTUARY CHOIR

"Trial by Jury," a well known dramatic cantata, was presented very successfully at Associate hall last evening under the auspices of St. Patrick's Sanctuary choir. Quite a large audience attended and enjoyed the entertainment very highly if one can judge by the applause that greeted the various climaxes of the production.

The leading soloists were James S. King, who assumed the role of plaintiff and Thomas H. Delmore, who played the part of the defendant. John J. Roland, Eugene J. Dean, Daniel A. Powers and John F. Stapleton also did very creditable work. Charles N. Sladen of Boston was musical director and Brother Nilus assisted in the work. W. T. McCarthy as accompanist aided very largely in the musical success attained. The presentation showed the work of careful training and the possession of much musical talent on the part of the cast.

The cast of characters was as follows: Plaintiff—James S. King; defendant—Thomas H. Delmore; judge—Daniel A. Powers; counsel for the plaintiff, John J. Roland; foreman of jury, Eugene J. Dean; usher of court, John F. Stapleton.

Juryman—James S. King; Joseph Dinnin; John A. O'Brien, Joseph

ZEPPELIN BLOWN UP

COPENHAGEN, via London, May 5.—The military authorities at Stavanger, Norway, blew up the Zeppelin L-29 when it began to roll dangerously in a strong wind. Soldiers fired on the airship from a distance of 60 yards. The Zeppelin exploded with a great detonation and was burned.

"The sentence of another prisoner, John McGarry, was commuted from death to eight years.

"Two others, Francis Fahy and Richard Davys, were sentenced to ten years."

Joseph Plunkett, court-martialed and shot by order of the British government in Dublin yesterday, was one of the seven signers of the proclamation of the Irish provisional government. When Patrick H. Pearse, provisional president and Thomas J. Clark and Thomas MacDonagh met a similar fate it was announced in cable dispatches that the remaining four signers of the proclamation—Plunkett and James Connolly were imprisoned and that S. MacDiarmid and E. Ceannt had not been accounted for. MacDiarmid had not been a cripple and in feeble health, and Ceannt and James Connolly, three of the signers, are apparently still alive.

William Pearse, among those who were shot yesterday, was a brother of Patrick H. Pearse. He was a sculptor and was once a tutor in the Irish boys' school of which his brother was headmaster.

Edward Daly and Michael O'Hanrahan, also among the rebels killed yesterday, have not played prominent roles in the revolutionary movement so far as cable dispatches indicated.

DISARMAMENT OF IRELAND

LONDON, May 5.—The Irish nationalist members of the house of commons will ask the government to secure the complete disarmament of Ireland. The Nationalist volunteers are willing to hand in their arms if the measure is made general. That the situation in Ireland is still serious is shown by letters from the Bishop of Dublin published in this morning's papers, in which he writes:

"Martial law should not be too quickly withdrawn from Dublin. The danger which has been much greater than the government will admit, is by no means past. Many armed rebels still are at large in Dublin and the danger of another uprising can only be averted by the most strict measures. This is not the time for amnesties or pardons. It is a time for swift, stern punishment."

SIR ROGER'S TRIAL

LONDON, May 5.—Sir Roger Casement's trial will take place in London within a fortnight before three or five judges and a jury. Baron Reading, the lord chief justice of England, probably will preside. The attorney-general will conduct the prosecution.

Sir Roger has asked Sir Edward Carson to defend him, but it is unlikely that Carson will accept.

KING PRAISES IRISH TROOPS

LONDON, May 5.—King George has sent the following despatch to Lieut. Gen. Sir John Maxwell, military commander of the forces in Ireland:

"Now that the recent lamentable outbreak has finally been quelled, I wish to express to my gallant troops in Ireland, to the Royal Irish Constabulary and to the Dublin metropolitan police my deep sense of their whole-hearted devotion to duty and the spirit of self-sacrifice with which they acted throughout."

QUET IN DUBLIN

DUBLIN, May 5.—Only one shot has been heard in Dublin since late last night. The military authorities continue to destroy large quantities of arms and ammunition.

LAW AND ORDER IN DUBLIN
BERLIN, May 5, via London.—Law and order were better maintained today in Dublin than probably at any period in the history of the Irish capital. Before the recent disturbances the police were considered as an object for abuse by sections of the populace and even now under martial law their orders are obeyed with reluctance. A word from a soldier, however, commands instant respect, supported as it is, by rifle and bayonet.

Saloons are allowed to open only between 2 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon and after 7:30 o'clock in the evening no one is allowed to pass without a challenge.

The lord mayor and other city officials are working day and night in organizing the food supply and re-establishing the municipal services. Their difficulties have been increased by the lack of small currency and the closing of the banks.

ment might have to wait to see whether the abandonment will be effected.

The other was that the United States having already attempted to have Great Britain give up its interference with neutral commerce and having told Germany that it cannot discuss with her negotiations with Great Britain has no course but to break diplomatic relations with Germany.

While the general tone of the German note created an unfavorable impression, officials took the position that the language was immaterial if the guarantees were real.

New Orders Chief Point

Germany's declaration that she has issued new orders to submarine commanders not to attack without warning "merchant vessels recognized by the international law" was considered the chief point. The German view of merchant vessels as defined in its declaration of Feb. 8 of its purpose to sink armed ships without warning and the American view as defined in the armed ship memorandum made public recently differ in several points.

Some officials believed that for this reason the controversy had now come to the point where Germany's future action would determine the course of the United States.

Refuses to Admit Sussex Attack

The refusal of the German government to openly admit the attack on the Sussex was considered only incidental to the main issue.

Until President Wilson himself decides whether the German note is acceptable there will be no announcement of the attitude of the government.

CABINET MEMBERS RETICENT

WASHINGTON, May 5.—When the cabinet meeting broke up Secretary Lansing met all inquiries with this reply:

"I cannot discuss it at all at this time."

All the other members of the cabinet made similar statements. It was made plain that President Wilson would decide his course after studying the official text.

While final decision on the attitude of the American government waits on the official text, some cabinet members indicated that the German assurances probably would be accepted and that diplomatic relations would not be broken unless the order to submarine commanders was violated and American lives endangered.

The cabinet was in session two hours and a half—the longest meeting held for several months.

Members of the cabinet were uncommunicative, all saying that no further steps would be taken until the official text was placed before President Wilson.

The private view of officials seemingly was that the new orders to submarine commanders apparently met the demands of the United States, unless an interpretation were placed on them to lead to attack on merchant vessels armed for defensive purposes.

The general tenor of the German note, however, was considered unsatisfactory. There was some disposition among the president's advisers to believe no drastic steps will be taken unless the new orders to submarine commanders are violated or modified.

BERNSTORFF GOES TO CAPITAL

NEW YORK, May 5.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador left for Washington today on a 10 o'clock train after having received at his hotel here the text of the German note. The ambassador denied himself to interviewers.

DEMORALIZED TONE OF MARKET

NEW YORK, May 5.—Wall street's grave view of the German note was reflected in the demoralized tone of the stock market at the opening today, active issues, particularly those comprising the war group, breaking three to six points, with a few exceptions. The tenor of the German reply was generally known before the market opened, the news tickers and other agencies having published many of its essential features.

Commission houses received countless queries by telephone and telegraph from out of town points.

Brokers had numerous selling orders and the course of the market at the opening devoted little support.

The more specific declines included Crucible Steel, 6 points; Lackawanna Steel, 4; Studebaker, 4; Anaconda, 2 1/2; Industrial Alcohol, 2 1/2; U. S. Smelting, 6 1/2, and numerous 1 to 2 points declines elsewhere.

U. S. Steel opened with 4000 shares at 80 1/2 to 81, against yesterday's close of 82 1/2, and Marine pig's initial sale comprised a block of 3500 shares at $2 to $3, a maximum decline of 6 points.

Balls were relatively steady, declines in that division ranging from fractions to 1 1/4. Supporting orders brought rallies of 1 to 4 points in the first 15 minutes, but the market's undertone continued feverishly active.

Further recoveries were made before 11 o'clock by which time excitement had died down and trading was almost normal. In fact, leading stocks like the U. S. Steel among the industrials and Union Pacific among the recluses, were then only mere fractions lower than yesterday's close, while leading stocks were actually above that quotation.

Later excerpts of the German note were regarded as far more conciliatory in tone than the early passages. Some readers of the document were inclined to believe that Germany's attitude would be far towards meeting the demands of the government at Washington.

An unfavorable interpretation of the German note caused active liquidation in early session of the cotton market today. The opening today showed a loss of approximately one dollar a bale in the case of July contracts. That delivery sold down to 12.37, comparing with 12.62, the high point of yesterday, while the general list showed net losses of from 12 to 21 points. Offerings were well absorbed at the lower level and rallies of several points followed, but sentiment was much unsettled.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Germany's diplomatic correspondence with the United States on the submarine issue has extended over nearly a year and more than one has brought the two countries to a pass where the long expected break seemed unavoidable. All along President Wilson has spoken primarily for the inviolable rights of Americans and generally for the rights of neutrals. Germany has been restrained by a powerful public sentiment aroused against curtailing the effectiveness of her best weapon against her enemies, and President Wilson has been embarrassed first by dissension in the cabinet and later by congress and by pro-German propaganda conducted throughout the United States.

Submarine warfare did not actually enter the realm of diplomacy until after the destruction of the Lusitania. The accumulation of cases affecting Americans was taken up in the first note to Germany, which was dispatched May 16, 1915. It characterized the attacks on the Falaba, Cushing, Guildlight and Lusitania as "a series of events which the United States

FOR MEMORIAL DAY GIFT TO MR. DENNETT

CAPT. WORTHEN POINTS OUT THAT THE NUMBER OF VETERANS IS RAPIDLY DIMINISHING

Capt. George E. Worthen of Post 42, G.A.R., will be chief of staff of Memorial day parade, and a feature of the day's exercises will be a union collation in the vestry of the First Universalist church after the parade. This feature was suggested, or perhaps more properly speaking, requested, by Lucius A. Derby, past commander of the Sons of Veterans, and it will include the three G.A.R. posts, the two relief corps, Ladies of the G.A.R., and Daughters of the G.A.R.

Thirty-seven veterans have died in Lowell since last Memorial day, May 30, 1915, and the total number of veterans in Lowell today, according to Captain Worthen's records, and they are generally very reliable, is 214, and the total number of widows of veterans is 286. The total number of veterans' widows Jan. 1, 1916, was 288. Ten have died since then and eight others have been widows since that date, so that the number at the present time is 286.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the Memorial day parade this year, and the day is not very far away. Captain Worthen has sent invitations to the four local militia companies, the Franco-American volunteers, and other uniformed companies to do escort duty.

The program for the day will begin with the comrades assembling at the post headquarters, and they will then proceed in automobiles to the cemeteries for the decoration of graves and the customary exercises. The automobiles will be supplied by Lucius A. Derby.

The parade will leave the South common at 4 o'clock, sharp, in the afternoon and will go over the usual route. The parade will be reviewed by the mayor and other members of the city council at city hall and after the parade will come the union collation at the First Universalist church, instead of supper and entertainments at the various post halls as has been the custom in former years.

IN POLICE COURT

This morning's session of the police court was one of the shortest that has been held in a long time. With the exception of several cases which were continued and simple drunks, there were but three cases.

John Olek, charged with drunkenness, was sentenced to four months in jail, Zephir G. England was fined $6 and one woman, who has been on parole from the state farm, will be returned to that institution.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many kind friends, who by word and deed helped to lessen our pain and sorrow caused by the death of our beloved mother, Ann Maguire. We are also grateful to those who sent floral tributes.

Mrs. Margaret Boyan, Edward, Joseph and Herbert L. Maguire.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS OF THE HIGH SCHOOL PRESENT TOKEN OF THEIR ESTEEM

Mr. William Dennett, the new principal of the Morey grammar school who resigned his position as teacher of chemistry at the local high school today, was presented a beautiful gold mounted fountain pen by the members of last year's football squad of which he was faculty manager. Mr. Dennett will assume his new duties at the Morey school on Monday.

The presentation took place today after the close of study hours in Room 6. William Desmond, left end of the football squad, who made the presentation, spoke in glowing terms of Mr. Dennett's work for the promotion of athletics at the school and expressed the regrets of the members of the football squad at his departure. Mr. Dennett, although taking completely by surprise, made a fitting response, saying that he would always remember his connection with the school and the football squad of 1915. Fifteen members of the football squad and Coach Conway were present at the presentation.

Rev. Thomas Chalmers, Pastor of Manchester Church, Announces His Candidacy

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 5.—Rev. Thomas Chalmers, pastor for the past 17 years of the First Congregational church, the largest of that denomination in New England, today announced formally his candidacy for the republican nomination for congressman from the first New Hampshire district.

Simultaneously, Dr. Chalmers stated that his resignation as pastor of the Hanover Street church is in the hands of the officers of the church to be acted upon at their discretion.

ATTACKED WILSON; DISCHARGED

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Herbert Putnam, librarian of the congressional library, today dismissed from office Ernest Brunken, assistant register of the copyright division, for remarks alleged to have been disrespectful to President Wilson's submarine policy.

MACHINISTS QUIT WORK

A small strike occurred at the plant of the Hamilton Manufacturing company shortly after 1 o'clock today when some employees of the machine shop refused to go to work unless the company granted them the 10 per cent increase in wages as given other employees of the mills last week.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A surprise box for the children when kept inside during the spring rains will keep them amused for hours at a time. Make it full of the most delightful surprises imaginable, a box which is a treasure trove of wonderful things to the kiddies. It will not be a bother or expense, for children love the quietest little scraps of things and will play quite happily with anything that is novel.

Any sort of box will do for the purpose but have one that you can lock until the propitious moment comes. Everything in it should be as striking and surprising as possible. Peppery toys, picture postcards, foreign stamps, odd bits to make clothes for dolls, a new story book are all good. There is no reason for spending money upon the things. Remember the surprise box must be kept for very special occasions; when it is a rainy day or the child is not feeling well.

Mothers should be careful what they feed their children at all times, but especially in the summer season. It is easy to obtain an authorized diet list suited to the needs of the child and it is far safer to stick to such a list than to allow the child a nibble of this or that just because he happens to fancy it.

A child should be given a regular allowance of money for his own use. Through this he will learn the enjoyment of immediate indulgence in trifling whims or he may learn to expend his resources with discrimination. The child's claim to such allowance can be justified in his mind just as his right to food and clothing is justified. He gets these things, not as a reward of merit, but through his status as a dependent member of the home.

The common house fly is no longer and object of tolerant interest, but has become an object of hatred and disgust. He is known to be the principal factor in the distribution of the germs of typhoid and other diseases of childhood.

Especially is he regarded as the enemy of the baby, as there is reason to believe he carries about the germs of summer diarrhoea and leaves them behind him with every fifth, when he lights on the nipple of the feeding bottle, or crawls over the saucer of cereal, or falls in the milk. Thus he is a real danger, not only to the baby, but to the whole family, and every effort should be made to do away with him.

Baby's nipple should be washed very

FORESTERS' CONVENTION

LOWELL FORESTERS TO ATTEND CONVENTION IN LYNN MAY 18 AND 19—THE DELEGATES

Delegates from the seven local courts of Foresters of America will attend the annual convention of the organization to be held in Old Fellows hall, Lynn, May 16 and 17. Men from all over the state will be in session representing a membership of more than 30,000 Foresters.

The delegates to attend from this city are:

Court Merrimack: Edward J. McInerney, John W. Shacker, R. J. Rosson, Charles L. Moran and James A'Hearn. Alternates: John F. Sullivan, John F. Barrett, John J. Duffy, Thomas F. Kelley and John T. Hendricks.

Court Middlesex: James J. Dunn and John H. Condon. Alternates: Patrick F. Kennedy and Thomas F. Quinn.

Court City of Lowell: P. McGilly and Henry J. McEvoy. Alternates: Daniel McGreevey and Charles H. Rich.

Court General Shields: James H. Cox and Michael McMillen. Alternates: Hugh Finnerty and Patrick Rourke.

Court Samuel De Champlain: Joseph Sabourin and Oscar Vallender. Alternates: John O. Doucette and Alphonse Vallender.

Court Scandia: Emil C. Pearson. Alternates: John A. Nelson.

Court General of the Mass. Foresters: John A. Nelson. Alternates: Francis J. Murphy and Patrick Owens. Alternates: H. M. O'Donnell and Charles E. Anderson.

William H. Stafford, Dennis J. Murphy and James J. Gallagher of this city will also attend.

William H. Stafford of this city, grand secretary of the Mass. Foresters, is the only Lowell man in line for office. As he has no opponent, his election is assured. This is Mr. Stafford's ninth year in the office and the fact that he has never been opposed for reelection is evidence of his courtesy and efficiency.

The Lynn courts have been making elaborate preparations to entertain the delegates and two days of excellent amusement will be furnished. Lynn stands high in Forestry with several strong courts and the convention will undoubtedly be one of the most successful in the history of the order.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A woman has been appointed deputy assistant district attorney in New York city.

Miss Emma E. Brown, aged 51 years, is rounding out her fifty-first year in the government service.

Members of the American Women's League of Self Defense in New York wear trousers during their military drills.

The delegates to the democratic national convention from Iowa will be headed by Mrs. W. A. Harris, widow of Senator Harris.

Less than 10 per cent. of the women employed in the department stores of Boston are entirely dependent upon their wages.

Women in Germany have been compelled to dispense with elastic garters owing to the shortage of rubber in that country.

TO HELP THE POLES

ALL CHILDREN UNDER SEVEN YEARS OF AGE ARE DEAD IN POLAND

J. Fenton McManmon, president of this year's graduating class of the Lowell high school has received the following self explanatory letter from Horace K. Turner, general secretary of the society formed for the purpose of aiding the starving children of Poland:

J. Fenton McManmon,

President Lowell High School Class.

Dear Sir:—All children in Poland under seven years old are dead, except a few of the well-to-do in cities, starved to death or killed by hardships. Millions of little children in other war countries live in holes in the ground like wild beasts, slowly starving to death.

"Will the boys, the girls, educated in our schools and colleges permit these millions of children to die also? Will school and college graduating classes sit at luxurious banquets and give costly memorials of pictures and casts to perpetuate the fair name of their class of 1916 when the cost of these would save the lives of little children who otherwise must starve in agony?"

Do not believe it and I ask the help of your class in this terrible time in one or all of the following ways:

1—Will the class give its class memorial fund to relieve the suffering? 2—Will your class give at least part of the money to be used for its class festivities to help feed and keep alive these starving children? 3—Will you class charge a small admission to the commencement exercises or collect a special contribution at these exercises? It will be a rich benediction on the closing days of the class of 1916.

Very truly yours,

Horace K. Turner.

Among the noted men affiliated with the movement to obtain aid in this country for the children of the war countries are Charles W. Elliot, David Starr Jordan, Richard C. MacLaurin, John H. Finely, John G. Hibben, Alfred Noyes, George E. Vincent, Benjamin J. Wheeler, Charles L. Ames, Francis M. Blair and many others, all heads of the principal colleges and schools of this country.

The members of the local graduating class had heard of the movement before receiving the above letter and have already voted to contribute the money that would otherwise be used for a class gift to the aid of the starving children of Poland.

At a meeting held by the graduating class yesterday afternoon the following officers were elected to take charge of the dancing party to be held in the assembly hall of the school on May 15: J. F. McManmon, George L. Connolly, E. Murphy, R. Walker, Alice Dacey, Dorothy Mahoney and George Bachman.

LOWELL WOMAN LEARNS TO WALK AGAIN WAS CRIPPLED FROM RHEUMATISM

Suffered From Deforming Arthritis—Joints Grated Like Sand—Nurse Says Recovery Almost Beyond Belief.

"It is almost beyond belief," was the comment of a nurse who recently visited Miss MacMasters at her home, 312 Humphrey St., Lowell, Mass. She continued:

"I have read a great deal about Var-ne-sis, but paid very little attention to the letters until I investigated, thinking Var-ne-sis was the same as all other preparations. I have stood firm against advertised medicines, but my investigation has opened my eyes to the harm one may do by condemning every remedy without knowing something about it. Miss MacMasters was told not to take Var-ne-sis; had she heeded this advice she thinks she would be in her wheel chair today."

Miss MacMasters when seen was busy getting dinner ready. She told how she learned to walk again by having some one hold her until she grasped the edge of a table, and gradually worked from one end to the other. She stated that she recently went shopping and walked up and down stairs without difficulty.

She said: "For seven years I have not known a day that I did not have pain. All my joints were afflicted, when I moved my head I could hear and feel grating like there was gravel or sand in my neck. My knees would snap and grate like my neck, they were drawn up so I was unable to straighten them; the grating of my knees could be heard downstairs. If I wanted to sit down I would have to literally fall in a chair. Trunk straps were fastened around my body to get up stairs. On the top step I was laid on a rug and dragged to the bed.

"The fingers of the right hand were drawn into the palm and the hand drawn to the body. I could not get my hand to my head, as joints were stiff, and I had to be fed and dressed like a child. I was in continual pain and no part of body seemed to escape the disease. Different physicians treated me for a time, but finally said I could not be cured. One physician gave me injections of a vaccine, but I only grew worse. The last doctor said I must get rid of the disease, as it was the worst form of rheumatism arthritis deformans. I was in bed for sixteen months.

"Reading about Var-ne-sis and how it helped others with rheumatism of the joints," I decided to try it. I am glad I did for in a short time I could use my wheel chair, then my crutches and finally my canes. The pain and stiffness became less noticeable. The clumsy bunches of the fingers and the knees disappeared, my hands straightened, so that now I can feed and dress myself. I can walk downstairs step after step, sew a little and do some housework.

"I have given W. A. Varney my wheel chair, crutches and canes to add to his large collection, for I can get about now without any assistance. I am glad you called, for I am always pleased to tell anyone how I recovered from this terrible disease. Perhaps my experience will help some other poor sufferer."

It is the duty of every rheumatic to investigate the truth of this statement. If not true it is the duty of the authorities to investigate. Hundreds of preparations claim a great deal, but none produces facts and evidence like Var-ne-sis.

WHAT HORTENSE TOLD ME

Many colors add to their wearers' apparent size and so one should be careful as to what colors to wear. Black has the power of making one look her slimmest, and the stout find it a good friend. Yet the effect is so depressing that one forgives those who ignore it's thinning quality. Subdued shades of blue, heliotrope, and olive green have also this happy and much coveted effect of lessening the appearance of bulk, but wedge-wood blue, pale gray and almost all tones of red have the opposite power.

White can be worn by all, though only the blonde should choose clear or dead white. The wise brunette should choose creamy or green, if worn near the neck and shoulders, are helpful in lessening any appearance of stoutness. Oddly enough these colors suit a certain type of blonde who is apt to become stout after very early girlhood is past.

A good shampoo to make the hair nice and fluffy is made from one egg, one tablespoon of tincture of green soap, one teaspoon of cologne, and water enough to fill a cup. Rub the mixture through the head. It is better to use a shampoo brush, brushing the scalp vigorously when applying it. If you have no shampoo brush a tooth brush kept for the purpose is all right. Rinse all the soap out of the hair before drying. If you have a dark mark about your neck from wearing furs too constantly this winter, it is well to use regular applications of lemon juice and glycerine after washing. The glycerine helps to keep the skin soft.

To make bay rum for home use, use a quarter of a pound of carbonate of magnesia saturated with oil of bay. The magnesia is pulverized and placed in a filter. After pouring through it water until sufficient quantity is obtained, alcohol is added. Naturally the amount of water and alcohol used will depend upon the amount of bay rum you wish to make, and it's strength.

A very little peroxide of hydrogen in the last rinsing water, when you shampoo your hair, will make the hair slightly lighter. How much you will require depends on the original color of the hair. One can try a little at a time until the desired shade is secured. A good curling fluid is as follows: Distilled water, one pint; bruised quince seed, one tablespoon. Boil gently until reduced to one-half, strain through cheese cloth, and then add alcohol and cologne, one and a half ounces each. The hair should be thoroughly brushed once a day, but not violently. Brush clear through the hair of the scalp. This will remove dust and dandruff, distribute the natural oil and make the hair glossy and fluffy. Do not plaster the hair down flat on the scalp when brushing, but lift it up from the scalp with each stroke of the brush. This is accomplished by using one side of the brush and giving a little upward turn to the wrist, lifting only a little strand of hair with each stroke of the brush.

Wrinkles are ugly, loathsome and inexcusable and are the penalty women pay for neglect. Some women have them because they were educated to believe that cosmetics and virtue are as companionable as oil and water. Other women are victims of the skin, that it is a mother's duty to look after her family and relatives and neighbors and dependents—everybody except her poor self.

She must polish the silver and the mahogany, but never a shine up must she give her own face. Everything must be preserved, from strawberries to the family heirlooms, but it is quite proper that a woman's wonderful beauty should vanish through neglect.

Here is a wonderful wrinkle specific which women with wrinkles would do well to use. Rose water, one half pint; simple tincture of benzoin, one quarter ounce; attar of roses, three drops. Put the rose water in a basin and add the benzoin a drop at a time. Add the attar of roses and bottle. Apply with cotton at night.

Freckles can be prevented by veiling the face in cold cream before you play tennis or motor in the bright sun. Blackheads, surface eruptions, and chapped dry skin may be prevented by a daily cleansing and massage of the skin with cold cream. When the spring winds have whipped your face until it is red and rough, use this cream: Almond oil, three ounces; white wax, five drams; spermaceti, five drams; lanolin, one ounce; oil of bitter almonds, one ounce; elder flower water, three ounces; witch hazel, one ounce.

When badly sun burnt do not wash the face soon after but wipe it gently with vaseline or cold cream and dust it lightly with cornstarch. If you do wash it, use water as hot as can be borne. Dip soft clothes in the water and lay them over the face, renewing as they grow cold.

A facial massage is splendid if performed rightly, but if not it is positively injurious. With the tips of the fingers massage the forehead from the center to the temples with a rotary motion, then slide down to the chin and work upward close to the side of the nose to the eyes. Slide down again, each time a little further back, and repeat the motion until the entire face has been covered. Next work under the eyes with the middle finger from the nose outward to the corner of the eyes.

Here are two creams containing ingredients that are unusual and beneficial to any skin: A good cucumber cream—Almond oil, three ounces; spermaceti, one ounce; white wax, one ounce; cucumber juice, two ounces. Elder flower cream is also good: Almond oil, three ounces; white wax, five drams; spermaceti, five drams; lanolin, one ounce; oil of bitter almonds, one dram; elder flower water, three ounces; witch hazel, one ounce.

Alk of almonds is a thin cream that is very whitening and softening in its effect. Blanched butter, almonds, four ounces; orange flower water, twenty ounces; toilet water, one half ounce; oil of bergamot, fifty drops; oil of cannelle, ten drops; oil of almonds, twenty drops; alcohol, sixty-five per cent.

The following cream is fattening and is especially for thin arms and neck: Oil of sweet almonds, forty grams; white wax, twenty grams; tincture of benzoin, ten grams; rose water, ten grams; pulverized tannin, one half dram.

ARE FIGHTING CANCER

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENTS ARE SPREADING THE GOSPEL OF HOPE

Among the many agencies now active in the campaign against cancer, several of the state departments of health are making notable efforts to spread the gospel of hope which is found in the early recognition of the danger signals of the disease and its prompt and competent treatment. The health authorities of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, West Virginia and Idaho have been especially active in disseminating trustworthy information and advice about the prevention and cure of cancer.

The New York state health department, under the leadership of Commissioner Benjamin M. Biggs, is the latest to enlist its forces in the war against cancer. The entire March number of "Health News," the department's monthly bulletin, is devoted to consideration of the nature, prevalence and treatment of malignant disease, with the object of creating among the people "a healthy vigilance which leads to the taking of expert advice on the first appearance of danger signals."

"There is nothing that any one of us can do to prevent the occurrence of cancer except in avoiding certain specified causes of local irritation," says "Health News" in an editorial which opens the discussion. "On the other hand, there is incontrovertible testimony as to the probability of its cure in a large percentage of cases if taken in time. That cure consists in the complete surgical removal of the growth at the earliest possible moment. Early diagnosis, early removal—there is not now nor has there ever been any other successful method of curing the disease."

The leading article in this special issue of the health department's magazine is by Dr. Francis Carter Wood, director of cancer research at Columbia university. Additional papers are contributed by other notable figures in the scientific world, including Frederick L. Hoffman, I.L.D., statistician of the Prudential Insurance company and chairman of the statistical advisory board of the American society for the control of cancer, and Dr. Harvey R. Gaylord, director of the New York State Institute for the study of malignant disease.

Writing "What People should know about Cancer," Dr. Wood endeavors to dispel some of the mistaken popular notions which have grown up regarding this disease. He disposes of the stories regarding "cancer villages," "cancer houses" or

"cancer belts," briefly showing that the occurrence of a number of cases in a house usually is due to the fact that the occupants are old people; that "cancer villages" usually are small towns from which most of the young people have emigrated, and that in like manner "cancer belts" are found to be sections of the country where the population is distinctly aged.

The idea that cancer is hereditary is likewise made light of by Dr. Wood, and he declares that there is no reason whatever to worry because one member of a family has suffered from the disease. "It does not at all follow that any other member of a family will have it," says Dr. Wood, and quotes from the laws governing statistics to show that if there are two or more cases in a family it is due purely to chance.

The quackery which is practised by

unscrupulous people in the treatment of cancer is severely censured both by Dr. Biggs and by Dr. Wood. It is made perfectly plain that cancer is comparatively easy to cure if it can be taken in time. The bulletin declares that if the simple truth is thoroughly established that cancer begins in comparatively innocent form and in most instances in a recognizable form, it can be successfully combated. Dr. Hoffman in his paper emphasizes "the supreme importance of the earliest possible diagnosis and the incalculable value of the earliest possible medical and surgical treatment."

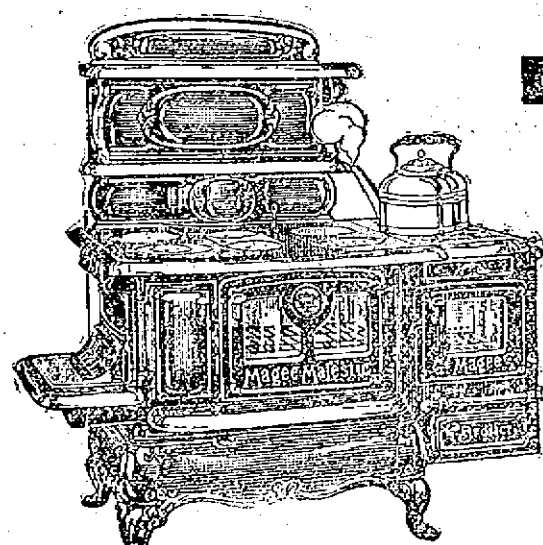

Dr. Wood puts stress on the declaration that if the disease can be diagnosed in its early stage the cancer can be removed with very great possibilities as to permanent cure. "The community of health takes this opportunity," says Dr. Biggs, "to warn the people of the state against the expenditure of money, often ill-afforded,—the raising of false hopes, and, above all, the waste of precious time through the use of alleged cancer cures and consultation with their unscrupulous purveyors."

In anticipation of a popular demand for information regarding cancer the Massachusetts State department of health is prepared to send a pamphlet entitled "What you should know about cancer" to any citizen who may request it.

Veal Bill Substituted in Senate— Ways and Means Committee Favors Income Tax Bill

BOSTON, May 5.—The state senate yesterday substituted for an adverse report of the committee on public health a bill relative to the sale of young calves for food. Senator Hays, who moved substitution, said the purpose of the bill was to have the state and federal laws harmonize. Senator Hays declared that at present the state law permits the sale for food of the carcasses of any calf weighing 40 pounds, and as Holstein and Guernsey calves frequently weigh 75 pounds at birth, they may be sold when utterly unfit for food. The federal law, he said, prohibits the sale of calves which are unwholesome for food, and rigidly defines unwholesomeness. He quoted Health Commissioner McLaughlin as favoring the bill.

Visiting the American camps in Mexico has been quite a favorite diversion of Mexican army officers—that is, of such of them as do not display openly the hostility to the presence of American soldiers in Mexico that is felt by many Mexicans. Among the Mexicans who visited the camp at Colonia Dublan was Lieutenant Colonel Trefigio Davila of Casas Grandes, seen seated at the left in the picture. The other seated gentleman is Lieutenant Colonel D. Rosay G. Cabell of the Tenth United States cavalry; standing is Lieutenant N. W. Campanole of the Sixth United States infantry.

Senator Clark of Brockton opposed the bill on the ground that the federal law leaves the determination of wholesomeness to the judgment of inspectors. Senator Fay of Medford characterized the bill as the old "hog veal" measure, and simply another attempt to permit the sale of improper food products.

By a rising vote of 15 to 11, and a rollcall vote of 17 to 12, the bill was substituted.

Weekly Payment Bill
Senator Clifford of the Cape opposed the bill to provide for weekly payment of wages to employees of hotels on the ground that employees of small hotels would prefer to have their employer save their money for them.

The bill was favored by Senator Sheehan of Holyoke. Senator Cavanagh made the point that there is no definition in Massachusetts statutes of the word "hotel." The bill was ordered to a third reading by a rising vote of 17 to 6.

Senator Clark of Brockton urged substitution of the bill to bring Massachusetts food and drug laws in conformity with the federal laws for the report reference to the next general court of the committee on public health. Substitution prevailed by a voice vote.

The Arlington street subway station bill was postponed until Monday on motion of Senator Bates of Boston.

The several milk bills were postponed until Monday.

Trading Stamps and Coupons
The committee on rules of the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday voted, with no dissenters, to admit the petition of Senator Jas.

F. Cavanagh of Everett for "an amendment of the law relative to the distribution of trading stamps, checks and coupons, and for legislation with reference to misleading representation and advertisements."

This resolve has been admitted by the senate and has been the subject of several hearings by the house committee on rules.

The committee yesterday voted to admit resolutions addressed to the national congress in favor of a federal divorce and remarriage law.

"Ought to Pass"
The ways and means committee of the Massachusetts house of representatives voted "ought to pass" on the income tax bill reported by the committee on taxation. This action was taken yesterday afternoon after the ways and means committee had concluded its hearing on the bill.

Both sides were heard yesterday. Arthur L. Spring, representing the Massachusetts state board of trade, said he would not contend the bill will uncover every dollar's worth of taxable intangibles, but he felt sure that it certainly would uncover hundreds of thousands of such property.

BOSTON PARTY HONORED

MAYOR CURLEY AND OTHERS SEE LEAGUE ISLAND NAVY YARD—SPEAKER AT RALLY

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—Few persons have been accorded the honors that were bestowed yesterday upon Mayor Curley of Boston, Capt. Harry Hamilton, Capt. James D. Coady, Lieut. William H. McKenna, Second Lieut. Charles G. Campbell and Adit. George H. Washburn, all of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston.

The party motored from the Hotel Adelphi, headquarters for the campaign to raise $500,000 for a citizens' army of Philadelphia, whose guests the Boston representatives were, to League Island.

At the gate the visitors were met by Commandant Russell, Civil Engineer Stanford, Paymaster Inspector Ryan, Lieutenant-Commander Evans, Paymaster Inspector Heap, Commander Moses, Commander Friel, Commander Snow, Lieutenant-Commander Manlinx, and the following marine corps officers: Captain Feland, Captain Halford and Lieut. Keyser.

At the office of the commandant a full marine guard of two companies was drawn up to salute the visitors. Such ceremonies are seldom accorded any save the highest military officials or government heads. The first ship visited was the Michigan, where the party saw the great 12-inch guns installed.

At every turn the guards, who for weeks have been ordered to keep out visitors, stepped aside and stood at attention while the guests passed. Every nook and corner of the yard was thrown open for inspection, and

every detail of the work done there was explained. The visitors had an opportunity to study the underwater structure of a destroyer, the Brayton being in drydock.

One of the most interesting sights was a panorama of the yard, seen from the bridge of the transport Henderson, which will be launched on June 17, Navy day. From the top deck, the plant looked like a map. The great warships appeared as toys, with tiny destroyers lying beside them.

"My," exclaimed Mayor Curley, "this is the greatest sight I have ever looked upon. You could put five Charlestown yards in any part of this one and then have some room to spare."

By the time the party had descended the steep ladders to the ground again, the Oklahoma was tied to her wharf. The party started down the street. Before this, Capt. Roger Wells, commander of the great ship, did not know he was to be visited.

More than 10,000 of the Philadelphia citizen soldiers marched in the big parade preceding the preparedness rally held at the Metropolitan Opera House this evening, where Mayor Curley and Gov. McCall were speakers.

BILLERICA

The adjourned semi-annual meeting of the Billerica republican club will be held on Monday evening for the election of officers and committee to serve during the ensuing six months. After the business meeting, several speakers will address the club on the political issues of the approaching campaign.

Plans for a Memorial day observance were made at the meeting of the John Patten circle, No. 20, Ladies of the G.A.R., held yesterday afternoon in the Gardner Parker hall. Paul Department President Marion (Ruth) Bradbury of Mattapan was present. The circle will serve supper to the veterans and others in the town hall on Memorial day. The next sewing circle will be with Mrs. Mary Holt Wednesday afternoon and it is expected that all members will attend.

The annual statement of the Faulkner Manufacturing Co. has been filed as follows: President and treasurer, George M. Preston; directors, James F. Preston and Whitmore Preston. Annual meeting, Jan. 26. End of fiscal year, Dec. 31. Report shows: Assets—Real estate, $15,050; merchandise, $631; cash and debts receivable, $47,654; profit and loss, $232,616; securities, $15,436; total, $334,431. Liabilities—Capital stock, $160,000; accounts payable, $254,431; total, $334,431.

FEEDING THE BIRDS

Gentlemen: The commissioners on fisheries and game have had under their attention, by the deputy in your district, the willingness of the birds throughout the district to feed the birds during the winter. Probably more birds are lost annually through severe winters than from any other cause—the quail especially always having a hard time of it. This department stands ready and willing to forward grain and grit to those applying for the same, and to do anything else in its power to meet emergencies.

The great difficulty lies in the fact that you never can tell just when the birds are going to need help, and what ever is done must be done quickly. We should prepare during this summer for next winter by planting grains (such as buckwheat, millet, rye, corn and sunflowers) to be left unharvested and in the fall by building artificial covers, such as brush piles or lean-toes by piling brush against stone walls, at a good angle, with opening of sufficient size to enable the birds to quickly dash out when attacked by enemies.

Through the columns of your paper we wish to convey to all those who have assisted in the work our deep appreciation of their efforts.

Yours very truly,

William C. Adams, Chairman.

"Marrying Money" is a hilarious comedy—the best ever seen in Lowell, and one which has played to bigger houses than any other play produced here this season. It tells the story of Theodore Vanderpool and Mildred Niles, both young people—who are poor. Each is

MEAN BAD BLOOD.

People who have impure or impoverished blood should be careful to take only a vegetable remedy such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is and has been for over forty years.

The first day you start to take this reliable medicine, impure germs and accumulations begin to separate in the blood and are then expelled through the Liver, Bowels and Kidneys.

In place of the impurities, the arteries and veins gradually get fresh vitalized blood and the action of this good blood on the skin means that pimples, boils, carbuncles, eczema, rust, acne and all skin blemishes will disappear. Then you must remember that when the blood is right, the liver, stomach, bowels and kidneys become healthy, active and vigorous and you will have no more trouble with indigestion, backache, headache and constipation.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to-day at any medicine dealer; it is a powerful blood purifier, without alcohol. Buy it in liquid or tablet form, or send 10c for large trial package.

Depend upon this grand remedy to give you the kind of blood that makes the skin clear, the mind alert; the vision keener and puts ambition and energy into the entire body. You won't be disappointed. For free advice or free booklet on blood, write Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NO CHARGE FOR THIS BOOK.

If you will send three dimes (or stamps), to pay for wrapping and mailing and enclose this notice, Doctor Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send you a revised copy of his Common Sense Medical Adviser, in cloth binding, 1008 pages, with color plates. Just what you need in case of sickness or accident. Treats of Physiology, Anatomy, Sex problems, Marriage relations, Hygiene, Exercise, Disease and its prevention.

seeking a wealthy match and believing that the other is "rolling in wealth" they elope. However, after living the life of a married couple, they find each other out and then the trouble begins. The author has woven together a series of the most wonderful situations and around the most brilliant group of characters ever seen in any play that has been produced in many years.

As Theodore Vanderpool, Herbert Hayes is very good, while Ann O'Day adds another charming triumph to her list as Mildred Niles. Edward Nanary, Joseph Graham, Richard Barry, Ernie Erwin, May Gerald, Rachel Crown, Frank Wright, Forrest Gordon, Paul Courteau and other members of the company play their various characters in a splendid manner while the scenic production offered by Director Frank Wright is the finest that Lowell has seen in many many years.

You cannot afford to miss this splendid attraction and also the opportunity to bid "goodbye" to all the favorites, who for the past 35 weeks have amused and thrilled Lowell audiences by their splendid work in the latest New York and Boston comedy and dramatic successes. Be on hand to give them all a great send-off and be sure that you get your tickets early.

There will be many who will say "I couldn't get seats, and they will be sorry, too for 'Marrying Money' is the greatest comedy in seasons and the production is superb."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Students of efficiency could do nothing better than to watch the California Orange Packers who are at the B. F. Keith theatre this week and who demonstrate conclusively the value of positive motions. The girls who put up the luscious fruit in crates work with wonderful speed, but if they merely showed speed without carefully prearranged motions they could never accomplish the feat of packing a crate of 126 oranges in one minute and 20 seconds. Miss Louise Lowe and Miss Helen Dale are the two prize winners, who have won five times the prize at the San Bernardino contest, held every fall. The donors of the prize specially stipulated that no two should be allowed to compete more than five times, and so the prize girls are now in vaudeville, assisting in educating people of the east relative to various phases of the orange growing and marketing industry. But orange packing is not the only feature of this act. Leo La Crosse and Orville Rogers who are the champion orange box makers of Southern California, show how rapidly they can throw together boxes. Each crate consists of nine pieces of thin lumber, and 34 require the same number of pieces put together. La Crosse, in a contest with Miss Lowe sometimes makes three boxes while she is filling one. Both men and women are equally efficient. The feature on the bill is supplied by Frank Mullane, the sweet voiced Irish singer, whose modern ballads have become quite the rage. Mullane is a charming personality. He is graceful, kindly of manner, bright and invariably his patter is well liked. But, after all, it is his song which is the chord and they are cheered again and again.

The Saxo sextet, six young men who are masters of the saxophone and their dancing is especially good. Maxson and Fale are singers and talkers, and Ollie Young and April, who open the bill are bubble blowers and jugglers. Good seats for remaining performances may be obtained in advance at the box office. "Phone 28.

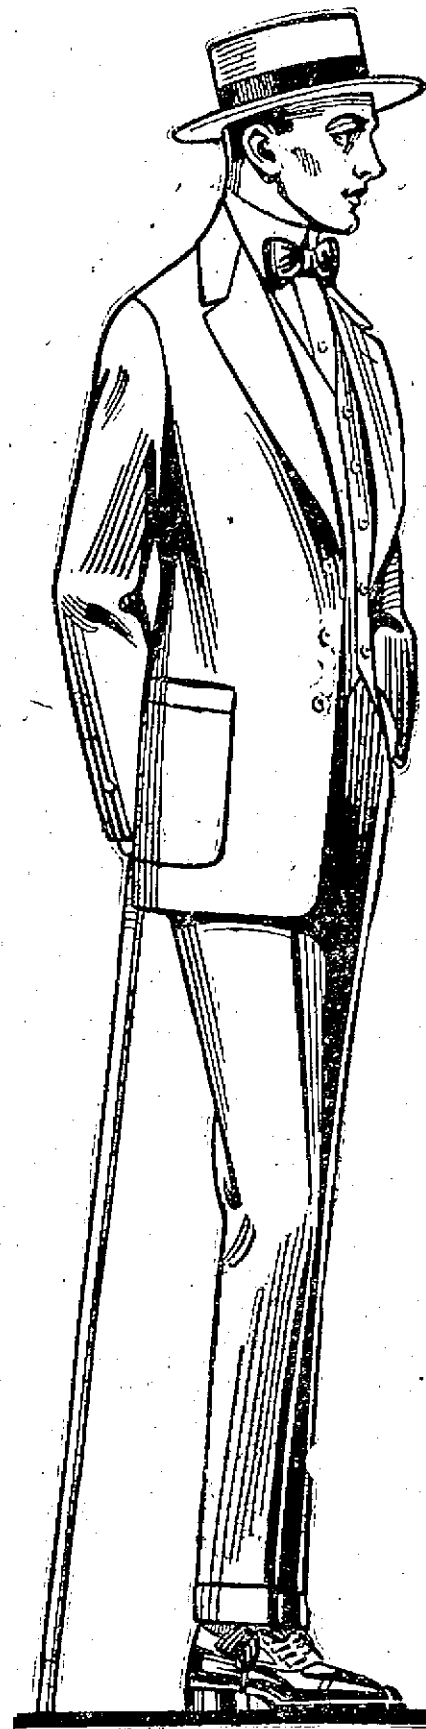

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"The Moment Before" the gripping play in which Pauline Frederick appeared before the audiences at the Merrimack Square theatre yesterday afternoon and evening, and in which she will continue to appear at this theatre today and tomorrow is most unusual in its theme and treatment. The plot of the story centers about a prophecy which was made that this gypsy girl will die at midday and forms the foundation of this interesting story of wild human emotions unchecked. The audience is worked up to a pitch of excitement and speculation as to whether or not this dire prophecy will find its fulfillment. In the role of the gypsy girl Miss Frederick excels all her former screen appearances. Molly King will also be seen today and tomorrow in the leading role in the other five act feature, "A Woman's Power," a stirring play of a woman's influence. The first cartoon comedy and Buster Holmes pictures will also be shown during the rest of the week at the Merrimack Square theatre.

which the second episode will be seen today and tomorrow. Howard Estabrook and Jean Sothern are doing fine work in their respective roles, while a capable cast of other picture players fill their positions with poise and craftsmanship. Myra, the heroine is a victim of circumstances, and Dr. Alston, the psychic detective, played by Estabrook is proving a worthy foil of Myra's (Jean Sothern) tormentors. Each episode differs from the general run of serials, in that it is shown in three-reel instalments, instead of the usual two. Other film features will complete the end-of-the-week performance. IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS Worry never brought any good to anybody. But, you say, "I don't worry because I hate to." Or, "I worry because I can't help it." Or, "I worry because I have so much to worry about."

We all have our troubles and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognizes this fact without being able to meet it.

The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular medical man alive. But he cannot do it because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured by the patient himself. That is why you should write today for the book "Diseases of the Nervous System" and read the chapter on "Neurasthenia." So many people have read it and written back, "This hits my case exactly. I am giving the treatment a trial and being benefited," that Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. has had a lot of these books printed and will send you a copy free on request.

the popular co-stars will be seen in "Life's Blind Alley," a five-act Mutual Masterpicture at the Jewel theatre today and tomorrow. It's a charming story, with those two favorites splendidly cast. The final episode of "The Girl and the Game" and many other dramas and comedies will complete the performance for the end of the week. "My Old Dutch" Sunday.

tion picture world, will be seen today and tomorrow at the Owl theatre in another of those bright and sparkling comedies which have gained her such great renown. This time it will be the picture of the famous stage success, "Over Nighth," the play which was considered the "hit" of the past season.

The story of this photoplay deals with two young couples, just married, who have made up their minds to spend their honeymoons in the Catskills, up state in New York. And by a strange coincidence they decide to take the same boat up the Hudson.

Everything looks bright and promising for the honeymooners until Fate takes a hand. In the confusion one bride finds herself on the pier with the wrong husband; the other bride finds herself on the boat with the wrong husband. The action of the comedy then proceeds to the Catskills where the two ill-assorted couples meet and after many misunderstandings finally arrange themselves in the proper order. In addition to this sparkling comedy many other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow.

George Keating, Edward A. Cunningham and James Donnelly have been appointed to the grievance committee by the Trades & Labor council.

It was reported last night that the teamsters employed by Patrick Cogger are still out on strike. Local 72, Teamsters' union which the teamsters have joined since coming out on strike will endeavor to arrange a conference with Mr. Cogger.

Electrical workers' union will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight and millmen's union will hold a session at Carpenters' hall, Russell building. Business of importance will come before both meetings and several applications for membership will be acted upon.

A meeting of weavers was held last night in Bond & Shoe Workers' hall, Russell building, with Organizer Thomas F. McMahon as the principal speaker.

San Francisco musicians' union has decided to impose a fine of $50 on any member of the union proved guilty of purchasing non-union cigars and tobacco.

Of a total of 104,000 factory employees in New York city one eighth earn less than $5, one-third less than $7, two-thirds received $10 or less and only one-sixth made $15 or more.

It is estimated in Manchester, Eng., that the weekly wage bill of the 450,000 operators engaged in the cotton trade has been reduced by the effects of the war from $2,500,000 to $1,500,000.

Superintendent Maxwell of New York admits that the vacations of school teachers are too long. Once in five years he would call upon a teacher.

Trades & Labor News

Preliminary plans for the Labor Day celebration next September were discussed at a meeting of the trades & labor council held at 32 Middle street last night and it was voted to hold a parade similar to those of the past. Frank Warnock, president of the Trades and Labor council was chosen general manager of the day's program. Each organization affiliated with the central council will appoint its own labor day committee to co-operate with Mr. Warnock. The following credentials were received:

Tailors—John B. Sheehan, Charles A. Keefe, Nils Peterson, Sven Pearson, John Knutson, Paul Bogasius and Herbert Pratt. Lathers—Charles E. Chase, Fred Lambert, Arthur Bergeron, George Wyman, Edward Pratt, Paul Lord and David Rordeleau. Local 135, Brotherhood of Railroad Carpenters—W. E. Donegan and W. E. Oakes. A number of communications from the American Federation of Labor were favorably acted upon and the reports of several committees were accepted as progressive. President Warnock made a lengthy report of the Boston conference of the state branch of the American Federation relative to the formation of a labor political party, a proposition on which a referendum vote is to be taken. The quarterly report of the board of trustees, which has been issued, shows the central council to be in a flourishing condition, numerically and financially. A report from the carpenters' district council was read, stating that the carpenters of Lowell are now receiving wages of 50 cents an hour, an increase of five cents.

Saco-Lowell Exhibit

The Saco-Lowell shops of this city had an exhibit at the Textile show held in Boston last week. They showed a spinning frame, one side equipped with Hinds ball bearing rolls, the other side with English self-weighted rolls, with travelling cleaner; also a filling-wind spooler with three different types of filling-wind tension; including a 4 roller card; 9x11-2 slubber; spinning frame for waste spinning; and a spooler and twister demonstrating the manufacture of three-ply carpet yarn out of waste.

Welfare Work

Welfare work as the general movement for better working conditions in the industrial plants of the country is called, is still in its infancy, yet its progress has been greater than most people realize, especially in this city. Lowell manufacturers in many cases have been prompt to take advantage of the ideas in this direction which have been developed. Better opportunities for rest and recreation, for the care of the injured and the aged, and for hygienic lunch conditions are the terms which welfare work for the most part has taken, although it extends to many other things and has ramifications throughout many districts of the mill city. The U. S. Cartridge company is one of the local industries that now maintains emergency hospitals, which are placed in charge of a doctor and several trained nurses. The Lyons Carpet Co. has a well equipped rest room for its employees, and there is also a room where a meal may be cooked and served. In the rest room there is a piano and also a small library which contains a number of good books. The Silesia mills in North Chelmsford has a similar equipped rest room for its employees.

In most of the mills the employees are taught to guard against infection. Male employees frequently get splinters and splinters in their hands, and if the splinters are not removed as quickly as possible the fingers become infected and layoffs are frequently the result. Nearly all the local mills have departments in which minor injuries are taken care of and every mill has a first aid cabinet as is required by law.

At the U. S. Cartridge Co., a system has been adopted whereby an absolute record is made of the various

Wife Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Des Moines, Iowa. "Four years ago I was very sick and my life was nearly spent. The doctors stated that I would never get well without an operation and that without it I would not live one year. My husband objected to any operation and got me some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and commenced to get better and am now well, am stout and able to do my own housework. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who is sick and run down as a wonderful strength and health restorer. My husband says I would have been in my grave ere this if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. BLANCHETTE JEFFERSON, 703 Lyon St., Des Moines, Iowa.

Before submitting to a surgical operation it is wise to try to build up the female system and cure its derangements with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it has saved many women from surgical operations. Ample evidence of this fact is given in the numerous testimonials we are continually publishing in this paper.

SIX CENT FARES

Bauer Wants Present Commission to Hear All Six Cent Fare Case

BOSTON, May 5.—The proposal to abolish the public service commission during the trial of the Bay State street railway six-cent fare case was criticised as unwise and inopportune today by Ralph S. Bauer of Lynn, former president of the associated boards of trade of Essex county.

Mr. Bauer is one of the chief opponents of the six-cent fare petition. In an open letter directed to Representative Joseph E. Warner of Taunton, house chairman of the ways and means committee of the legislature, Mr. Bauer says that as the time for a verdict in the six-cent fare case will expire on Sept. 1, the proposed new commission would not have sufficient time to fairly consider the evidence, and that both the Bay State and its opponents would be put to a needless expense in trying the case over again.

Governor McCall has intimated that, with the passage of the bill now before the legislature, the present public service commission would be allowed to remain in existence until about Dec. 1. But on this point, Mr. Bauer declared that "no human tribunal can render fair judgment when their state of mind is pulsating with their own death throes."

Ways and Means Committee

The following communication, addressed to the chairman of the house committee on ways and means by Mr. Bauer, is self-explanatory:

Mr. Joseph E. Warner, Chairman, House Ways and Means Committee: My Dear Sir—There is before your committee a proposition to abolish the present public service commission and we wish to make the following statement through you on this matter:

The present public service commission is now properly and legally hearing parties at interest on the proposition of the Bay State Street Railway Company to increase its unit of fare from five cents to six cents, shorten several of its present riding zones, abolish many of its free transfer privileges, and do away with entirely the half rate workmen's tickets.

The railway company has spent $160,000 in preparing its case and has finished its part of the direct evidence before this commission. The opposition to their proposal has for months been preparing its side of the controversy at a very considerable expense, and before this commission in an effort to protect the people of eighty cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts against any increase in street car fares. This whole case is the most important and far-reaching problem ever put before any commission in this state.

It really affects the daily life of nearly 1,500,000 people of this commonwealth, and a claimed capital of nearly $500,000,000 invested in street car properties. Our present public service commission has been legally made a tribunal to try this very important case before, and it is our belief that this is not an opportune time—when the case has been over half presented—to abolish the tribunal which has so far heard the case, and substitute in its place another tribunal, who from the legal time limit would be unable to fairly consider the evidence put in by either side. A fair decision cannot be reached without at least properly hearing and weighing all of the evidence.

Neither of the parties should be subjected to needless further expense by legislative action on a matter that is

We assume no responsibility as to a decision by the present commission that will be fair to all parties at interest, but we regard it impossible to try the case over again before a new tribunal within the allotted time.

We deem it most important that all the interests involved be permitted to finish this case before the present public service commission, and, we further believe, that their judgment on this very important and far-reaching case should not be put in jeopardy by the consciousness that they as a body are to be exterminated.

No human tribunal can render fair judgment when their state of mind is pulsating with their own death throes, and there can be no fair reason for any legislature to create conditions of this nature, when a case is on trial, which has so vital a bearing on the daily life of eighty communities of this commonwealth.

County Associated Boards of Trade, Ralph S. Bauer, Chairman, Legislative Committee.

Doyle's Orch., Associate hall, tonight.

CHORAL SOCIETY'S CONCERT

All musical tastes are bound to be satisfied by the Choral society concert in Keith's theatre on May 9, for the society never gave a program, which contained so much variety as does this program for May 9. Besides the cantatas, "The Highwayman" and "Gallia," the society will sing the Ker-messe from Faust and an arrangement of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Mr. Werrenrath will sing the song cycle, "The City of Joy" and a group of songs, and Mrs. Sundelius will sing the "Ave Maria" from Max Bruch's "Cross of Fire" with orchestral accompaniment and a group of songs, among which will be a Swedish Folk song in her native tongue by way of compliment to her Swedish friends in this city.

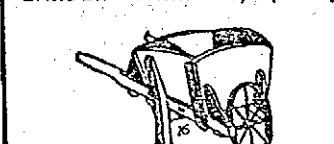

The Boston Festival orchestra, comprising more men than have ever appeared at these concerts, will play the Nut Cracker Suite of Tchaikowsky, and there will also be a group of solos by Carl Webster, the eminent cellist of Boston.

It is seldom that such a variety of music is presented at a single concert, which fact together with the popularity of the two soloists will certainly insure a crowded house.

THE IRISH REVOLT

It is but natural that there should be conflicting views of the recent Irish revolt and the nature of the offense committed by the men who figured therein. That those men were misled is too evident from the circumstances of the case; but while we may and do condemn the combination of conspirators who ordered such a revolt without the slightest chance of success, yet we cannot condemn the rebels in the unrestricted manner in which critics assail them. They were but tools in the hands of reckless plotters and believing that all Ireland would be compassed by a general uprising they did what they believed to be their duty to their country. They rebelled against foreign rule in Ireland and they did so as Irish patriots. But some call them traitors, as for example the Courier-Citizen in the following:

"It is further not to be questioned that what these men did fully merited the extreme penalty. To turn traitor and start a revolution at home when the country is fighting for its very life against foreign foes is the same of high treason, and the penalty is everywhere death."

These men rose to cast off British rule in Ireland as did the American colonists in 1776. They were just as patriotic and just as brave as the men under Washington. They denied that they owed allegiance to England and assuming that to be true, they could not be traitors although avowedly rebels. This is an old point of dispute between imperial rulers and their unwilling subjects.

England will punish them as rebels, of course, and with more severity because there is abundant proof that the uprising was the work of paid agents of Germany, who posed as manipulating the whole Irish race from New York and Boston.

It is on the heads of these men the blame rests for inciting a rebellion which could not possibly end otherwise than in complete disaster to the unfortunates involved and extreme peril to the cause they meant to advance.

The men who rose in revolt at the risk of their lives were honest, patriotic and sincere, but sadly misled. The conspirators behind were doubtless handling German money to promote a revolt in Ireland as a means of hampering England in addition to her other troubles. In that they succeeded to some extent, but at a terrible cost to Ireland and her people. The great masses of the people gave their adherence to the constitutional movement represented by Mr. Redmond and the Irish party who believe in this method because it is the most effective, not because they fear or abhor physical force. From long experience the Irish people have found the constitutional method more potent than would be a large army in securing national reforms. To this fact The Sun has frequently alluded and as proof that the statement is undeniable, we have but to mention such measures as Catholic emancipation, the disestablishment of the English church in Ireland, the extension of the franchise, land reforms culminating in the complete expropriation of the landlords at a cost of $1,650,000,000 advanced by the government. In addition to these measures were the vast amounts expended under the congested districts board, and for the commodious laborers' cottages, over 60,000 of which dot Ireland all over; then the national university and the revival of the Gaelic language so long sought by the Irish people; and finally the crowning triumph—home rule, which will give Ireland fully as much liberty as Canada, after the lapse of certain suspensory reservations to run for six years.

With such a record of parliamentary achievements, it is no wonder that with the exception of a small minority the whole Irish people have the most implicit confidence in Mr. Redmond, who secured the most substantial reforms won since the days of Grattan in 1782.

There is grave danger that this revolt may convince England that should Ireland be allowed to open her own parliament after the war, this movement for complete separation may break out again; but on this point no parliamentary leader would dare give any pledge or promise more definite than that of Parnell when he said that "no man can set a limit to the onward march of a nation."

Mr. Redmond has appealed for leniency for the rebel prisoners and it is hoped that no more of them will be shot.

The case of Sir Roger Casement is now engaging attention and some papers in this country dub him the Benedict Arnold of the war. That is unjust. He held no office in the British army or under the government when the war broke out and therefore was not a traitor but rather an over-sanguine patriot. He sought the aid of Germany for the Irish rebellion and the liberation of his country from the British yoke just as the American patriots of the Continental army sought the aid of France when Lafayette came to our assistance. His proposition was gladly encouraged and probably financed by Germany. That is why the British government set a reward of $25,000 on his head. It was alleged that he showed signs of insanity and if the hopeless ness of his undertaking would indicate insanity, then indeed is there ample proof. But whatever may be his fate Sir Roger must get the credit of patriotic motives as an Irishman.

It is to be hoped that the result of the revolt in Ireland will convince the Irish people in this country that the constitutional method is best for Ireland and that under present conditions an abortive revolt can result only in fruitless sacrifice to be followed in all probability by measures of repression that may overthrow the liberties already won. United action is necessary to success and the leaders who are on the ground in Ireland are the men most capable of deciding upon the policies by which the liberties and the destinies of the nation can be most effectively safeguarded.

THE DANCE MATRON

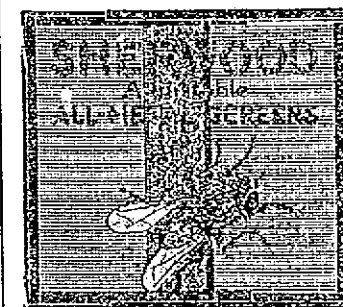

Not without a sense of amusement can we look back to the "animal dance" period in this city when dancers were arrested for performing an alleged "indecent" dance in a public hall and when two agile police officers gave a famous demonstration that went the rounds of the funny columns of New England. Now, it seems like a chapter of ancient history, though it happened yesterday. The animal dances have gone their way, though their influence still remains, but no longer do we hear the complaints that were then so general. Whether the people have grown more moral all at once or whether the feeling against the dances was mistaken and hysterical will remain for the future historian to establish.

The change in the dances and in public sentiment regarding them is now being reflected in official action in nearby cities. An amendment to the city ordinances of Manchester, N. H., has just been launched which has for its object the doing away with the position of dance matron. When the dance agitation was at its height, a dance matron was elected in that city and since then she has been present at dances, private and public, in her official capacity. It is now argued that her services are not required, and it is said that a police officer will be detailed from the police department to attend such functions, and that the dance matron is slated to go.

Within certain limits and with well defined duties, dance matrons would be an advantage in all cities, but their duties need not necessarily be restricted to dance halls. We recently spoke of the lack of wholesome amusement in textile cities and of the dangerous nature of many types of entertainments patronized by the young women after working hours. Unless Manchester is entirely different from the average industrial city of New England, work might be found for the dance matron that would react favorably on the community and serve as a protection for those who because of youth and inexperience stand in need of advice and protection. It is a work that cannot be measured by the number of arrests brought about or convictions secured, but it is all-important nevertheless.

SECRET SESSIONS UNPOPULAR

The feeling of Lowell towards secret sessions of the municipal council or, more accurately, towards secret sessions by a majority of the council, was demonstrated during a previous administration. For some time the most important affairs of the city had been arranged and planned in secret, and the only action of which the citizens could judge was the farcical public conformation of policies adopted in secret.

The abandoned Lowell policy is recalled by recent action in Lynn where star chamber sessions of the municipal council have called forth strong public condemnation. Matters came to a climax a few days ago when secret action was taken relative to the granting of licenses, the result drawing down prompt condemnation from press and public. So strong and unmistakable was the feeling of the people of Lynn that the council unanimously adopted an ordinance which, if adhered to, will make secret sessions impossible for the future. At the same time a street speaking ordinance commonly called the "zag law" was abolished, on the motion of the finance commissioner, who said relative to the new regulation: "Not only will it stop the criticism directed against this council for the discussion of public business in private, but it will facilitate business."

The feeling of Lynn is the feeling of all cities where officials are elected by the public, paid by the public and expected to do the city's business in the interest of the public. Every question affecting local politics and in which finance is involved is a public question, and there is no logical reason why it should be decided in secret. Especially is this the case where city governments are non-partisan, and where aldermen or commissioners are elected by all the voters. Whether in the school board or in the municipal council, there is no place in Lowell or Lynn for the star chamber session, and the sooner officials realize it and act upon it the better for all concerned.

Incidentally, the Lynn public is to be congratulated for so impressing their views on their commissioners that a dangerous policy was dropped. Most abuses could be remedied in five minutes if the public kept an intelligent watch on city hall and on the treasury.

INSPECTING HOSPITALS

Dr. Simpson of the state board of health believes that it is merely a waste of time for members of a commission to go about looking at other hospitals as the architect will finally be the one to shape the plans. His views are sensible and really the same applies to schools, though members of hospital commissions and school boards may be inclined to disagree with him. When it comes to tours of inspection state boards are not nearly so zealous as local boards, for some unaccountable reason.

SEEN AND HEARD

When a crime is committed the police try to keep it out of the paper on the theory, presumably, that the criminal might hear about it.

The Child Critics

Parents are living daily before the most critical audience in the world—their child. The small critic, the loss of temper—all such things are seen by the small critic, and they all color, in later years, his feeling for his parents.—From the Delineator.

Editor's Big Day

The editor of a Kansas paper says that he picked up a Winchester rifle recently and started up the street to deliver the weapon to its owner. The delinquent subscribers got it into their heads that he was on the war path, and every one he met insisted on paying all they owed. One man wiped out a debt of ten years standing. On returning to the office, he found a load of hay, 15 bushels of corn, 10 bushels of potatoes, a load of wood and a barrel of turpentine.

Explaining His Gloom

The best man noticed that one of the wedding guests, a gloomy looking young man, did not seem to be enjoying himself. He was wandering about as though he had lost his best friend. The best man took it upon himself to cheer him up.

"Er—have you kissed the bride?" he asked him by the way of introduction.

"Not lately," replied the gloomy one with a far-away expression.

Setting Himself Right

Friend (admiring the Prodigy):—"Seventh grade, is she? Plays the piano, an' talks French like a native, I'll bet." Fond but "touchy" parent:—"I've no doubt that's meant to be very funny, Bill Smith; but as it 'appens you're only exposin' your ignorance; they ain't natives in France—they're as white as wot we are."

Didn't Drop It

A servant girl who had been admonished by her mistress to be very careful in "washing up" the best clean things, was overheard shortly afterward indulging in the following soliloquy while in the act of wiping the sugar basin: "If I was to drop this 'ere basin and was to catch it, I suppose I shouldn't catch it; but if I was to drop it and wasn't to catch it, I reckon I should just catch it."

Material Was There

Katie was starting out to spend the afternoon with her cousin, Nellie. Though the two little girls were fond of one another a few hours' play would frequently end in a vigorous dispute. "Now, Katie," said her mother, as she said good-bye to her little daughter, "remember it takes two to make a quarrel." "Well," said Katie, "there's me and her."

Slightly in Error

A clergyman was called in by a young couple whose home had just been blessed with a daughter. The happy parents decided to have the christening at home. The minister took the child in his arms, and in his fatherly way addressed a few words of advice to the young people.

"See that you train this child up in the way that he would go," he began. "Give him the benefit of a good example, and see that he is surrounded by the very best influences. If you do this, who knows but he may become a Washington or a Lincoln. What is his name?"

"Beatrice," solemnly responded the mother.

Money a Big Help

A contractor having heard that his men did not commence work at the proper time thought he would drop down about 6.30 one morning. Going up the yard he caught sight of a joiner standing smoking, and his kit not even opened. Simply asking his name, which he found to be John Smith, he called him into the office, and handing him four days' pay, ordered him to leave at once. On seeing the man clear of the premises, he went to the foreman and explained that he had "made an example" of John Smith by paying him off for not starting at the proper hour.

"Great Scott, sir," ejaculated the foreman; "that chap was only looking for a job!"

Remarkable Anecdote

A London banker—not a temperance man—is quoted by the Review of Reviews as saying: "The drink question has been just about the worst handled of any of the domestic problems which have confronted England since the outbreak of the war. The savings, direct and indirect, from the putting through of Lloyd-George's total prohibition scheme last spring would have gone a mighty long way towards paying the cost of the war. We have the remarkable anomaly of a people sacrificing rivers of blood for their country, and yet unwilling to give up the use of a beverage which not only wastes money but lowers their industrial and military efficiency as well. . . . It will probably take another year or so of war to bring the country to its senses."

Did You Ever Think?

Did you ever think as a hearse passed by that it would not be long until you or I would be taking a ride in that black plumed hack? And never remember the coming back?

Did you ever think as you strive for gold that a dead man's hand can't a dollar hold?

No matter how much you earn or save you must leave it all when you go to the grave.

High School Graduates

The exercises of graduation of the Lowell high school, Supt. Molloy stated today, will be held at Keith's theatre on the evening of June 27. The speaker will be President George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota. Mr. Vincent officiated in the same capacity in this city eleven years ago. At that time he was a professor in the Chicago university and he has spoken several times before the Middlesex Women's club.

There will be a graduating class this year of over 300, the largest in the history of the Lowell high school. The class last year numbered 265. The annual high school field day will be held Monday, May 29, at Spalding park and the elimination drill will take place on the Friday previous. The competitive drill for officers' places on the Girls' battalion will be held Friday, June 2.

Alfred J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, spoke to employers of the United States Cartridge Co. last evening. He met them in the large room devoted to the making of payrolls and other clerical work in the Lawrence street plant, and he spoke on education in a general way.

Bids on City Bonds

Bids on 4 per cent city bonds, $60,000 for school additions and improvements, $35,000 for water mains and equipment, $1,000 for macadam and paving, and $5000 for sidewalks were received and opened by the city treasurer and commissioner of finance today. All of the bids came from Boston. E. H. Rollins & Co. was the highest bidder, and Commissioner Duncan said that the premiums will amount to over $1500. The bids were as follows:

E. H. Rollins & Son, 100.839; R. L. Day & Co., 100.846; Harris Forbes & Co., 100.851; Adams & Co., 100.867; Blodgett & Co., 100.863; Arthur Perry & Co., 100.852; Curtis & Sanger, 100.851; Cropley, McGarage & Co., 100.8174; Esterline, 100.811. E. H. Rollins & Son's bill of 100.859, the bid accepted by the city, means that the city will receive $589 on every $1000 bond and the total amount of the premiums, sometimes referred to as "velvet," will be $1633.76.

slow manner in which your company is proceeding with the work of reconstructing the Chelmsford street bridge, so-called, in this city, due, it is claimed, to the fact that one eight-hour shift of workmen is employed on the job.

As Chelmsford street is one of Lowell's busiest and most important thoroughfares, public convenience and necessity demand that no time be lost in restoring the street to its normal condition, and on account of the proximity of the bridge to the depot, it would seem the delay in completing the work would have a detrimental effect upon the business and convenience of the railroad, as well as upon that of the public.

I would respectfully suggest that your company take steps to have this work completed as quickly as possible, and no objection would be offered by the city, if the work were to be continued outside of the regular daily working hours.

Respectfully,
James E. O'Donnell,
Mayor of Lowell.

Building Permits Issued

There has been a great demand for building permits at the office of Commissioner Donnelly for the last few weeks, but the great majority of them were for additions and alterations. The American Hilo & Leather company has taken out a permit for the erection of a large brick and concrete garage in Perry street at the southwest corner of Alton street. The building will be 42-5 by 27-5 and will be large enough to hold four large trucks or eight ordinary machines. The estimated cost is $2300.

Charles E. Cashin will erect a one-family dwelling at 1521 Middlesex street. The building will be 28 by 30 feet with vestibule 5 by 7, and 2 1-2 stories in height. The estimated cost is $1800.

The attendance was large and the program included an address by Dist. Dep. Grand Master William H. Robinson of Lawrence, who was present with his suite; readings by Miss A. J. Todd and Miss J. Verna Nell; songs by Miss Etta Thompson and Warren Reid, pianos by George Faulkner, and violin selections by Edwin McAloon. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Arthur P. Atwood, chairman; John S. Johnston, and Robert Sell for Centralville lodge, and Mrs. Grace E. Nell, Mrs. A. Westgate and Miss Edith Page for the Rebekahs.

PAINTING THE FENCES

THE WATERWAYS COMMITTEE SENDS ANOTHER COMMUNICATION TO THE MAYOR

The waterways committee has notified Mayor O'Donnell that it has sent a communication to Patrick Fay, notifying him that the fence along the side of Wall street next the Concord river should be strengthened, repaired and painted. A strand or two of barbed wire should be affixed thereto on supports extending over the river at a sharp angle with the fence.

The communication also says: It would be a benefit to the general appearance and health of this neighborhood if the police and the board of health would act in conjunction to prevent the persons living in this place from using the river bank as a deposit or refuse and from littering the adjoining streets and ways.

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots—How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

THE SICKABED LADY

Temporary teeth should not be allowed to be removed by decay. If cavities form they should be filled under proper precautions and the teeth should be saved, says Nurse, until the last moment unless they are causing infection. Faulty development can often be corrected and deformities that interfere with proper mastication and place a strain on certain teeth, can thus be avoided.

In early life the jaws should be carefully examined by both dentist and doctor in order to determine whether or not the proper development is taking place. If upper and lower teeth fail to fit well together, extra strain is placed upon certain teeth and the sockets are liable to injury and infection.

Nurse has told me of a simple remedy for whooping cough which she wishes me to hand over to mothers whose children are suffering from this painful disease. Get a five cent package of chestnut leaves at the drug store, put in a basin with a quart of cold water, let it steep down to a pint, strain, keep hot on the back of the stove. Make fresh as wanted. For the dose put into a cup whatever the child will take with a little milk and sugar, making sure the tea is hot. Keep cold drinks away for a few days if possible.

Here is a method of preparing hot compresses for the ill when moist heat is required, which it would be well for all housewives to know: Take a double cooker, partially fill the lower part with water and place over the fire. Wring out pieces of wet flannel as dry as possible and place in the upper part of the cooker. Put the upper part in the lower and, when the water boils, the flannels are ready to apply. No wringing is necessary.

For a sore throat, says nurse, put some ice in a cloth and crush until it is as fine as snow. Then squeeze on it the juice of an orange or lemon and sprinkle over a little sugar. It is very refreshing and soothing.

Here is a good remedy for jaundice: Get a few cents worth of bitter apple at the druggist's, steep a little on the back of the stove, strain and bottle. Take a tablespoon or more on going to bed.

A good indigestion remedy is one pinch of powdered senna in a glass of cold water. Cover and stand five hours, then strain and drink.

Tartar, one of the greatest enemies of the teeth, may be kept away by daily brushing the teeth with a few drops of nyrth in half a glass of water, using a moderately stiff toothbrush. The teeth should be brushed after each meal, but where not convenient, do it anyway night and morning.

It is not an easy thing to think of things interesting for convalescing children to do to keep them from getting restless. Some children, however, would enjoy making a scrapbook, thinks nurse. Plenty of pictures can always be found in discarded magazines, and a blankbook with a tube of paste will complete the outfit. Most children love to cut, even if they are not old enough to paste. A small girl might like to try her hand at paper flowers or paper dolls and their outfit, also in paper. The tissue and crepe papers that come in bright colors cannot fail to attract the child, and she will at once wish to begin to fashion after her own ideas.

Some children like stuffing rag animals that have been cut and stitched ready for filling and get lots of fun in seeing the animals grow. Patterns for all kinds of animals can be bought and they can be fashioned from almost any bits of cloth at hand. Pretty designs can be made with a box of mixed sea shells. A child will often find pleasure in these when it refuses to be interested in an expensive set of building blocks.

There is a very close connection between the stomach and throat, says nurse. A throat trouble may become very serious and if not attended to may develop into tuberculosis of the throat. Food is the all important remedy in such cases, as indeed in every ill that humanity is heir to. One should positively avoid fresh bread, pastry, pickles, pork, all fried foods, rich gravies or dressings. No mustard, catsup or any food containing spices, for they irritate the throat and often cause a cough.

Avoid too much acid or too many sweets. Tea or coffee, if used at all, should be taken very weak. Eat whole wheat bread, prunes, figs, dates, apple sauce. Chew your food thoroughly, take a moderate amount of exercise, dress so as to not get chilled and by paying strict attention to the diet, the general health will be improved and most throat troubles will disappear.

A beef essence and a beef tea are contributed today by nurse, as fine nourishing foods for invalids. In almost all cases, home made beef tea is made by cutting half a pound of lean beef into very small pieces. Do not have a grain of fat on it. Put it into a bottle with a large opening. Put in half a cup of cold water and cork tight. Set this in a basin of cold water and place on the fire where it will come to the boiling point but not boil. Keep it at this temperature for two hours, then strain and season with salt.

For the beef essence remove the fat from a slice of steak from the top of the round. Cut it three-quarters of an inch thick and broil over a clear fire three or four minutes, turning often. Heat the broiler to prevent the steak from adhering, as any suggestion of grease must be avoided. Remove to a warm plate, cut into small squares, garnish on both sides and, with a lemon squeezer extract the juices. Season with salt.

THE NESMITH PROPERTY

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE WILL SELL ITS INTEREST IN THE ESTATE

Efforts to clear up the tangle in connection with the John Nesmith estate in this city are progressing, and it is the hope of the trustees of the property in question as well as the state of New Hampshire, that the matter will soon be settled by the courts.

As published in yesterday's issue of The Sun, the state of New Hampshire, through Gov. R. H. Spaulding, appeared as plaintiff in a bill of equity filed in the supreme court yesterday, which seeks to obtain a cash settlement for property in this city bequeathed to New Hampshire by the will of the late John Nesmith. Mr. Nesmith gave the property, valued at that time at $60,000, to the state to be used for the benefit of the indigent blind of New Hampshire. The state, according to the bill, has been unable to administer the property, and at the present time is seeking aid made by the trustees of the estate.

The trustees are George S. Motley, Frank E. Dunbar and Joseph A. Nesmith of this city. They have made a number of attempts to clear up the tangle, but the attempts have been in vain. One of the features of the will is that the property must not be leased for a period longer than five years, and this has proved to be a stumbling block. It has prevented the renting of the property to advantage.

A short time ago the brick building at the corner of Merrimack and George streets was purchased by George S. Motley from Countess Montjoye and Baroness von Nagel, this being half equity in the building.

Mr. Frank E. Dunbar, one of the trustees, has made the following statement relative to the entanglement:

"It is a fact that the state of New Hampshire is prepared to accept the sum of $50,000 for its interest in the Nesmith estate, and with this understanding, proceedings have been begun in the supreme court of Massachusetts to obtain legal sanction to the sale. We expect that there will be no difficulty in bringing this about. All of the parties concerned are agreeable.

"The sale includes all of the property in Merrimack street between the Union National bank and John street, and extending back into John street some distance. Recently, Mr. Motley bought a half interest in the estate from the heirs of John P. Nesmith, and this was the first definite move in the work of clearing up the title. The rest of the property, being controlled by the state of New Hampshire, by reason of the bequest made to take effect upon the death of the John Nesmith, heirs, it became impossible to administer the property, being controlled by the state of New Hampshire or for the John Nesmith heirs, three of whom are living."

WAS RE-ELECTED

But Mr. Robertson Didn't Want Chairmanship of Cemetery Board

If John L. Robertson had had his way about it he would have been re-elected from the chairmanship of the cemetery commission at a meeting of the commission held at city hall yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, but his fellow members wouldn't let him. He insisted that he be not considered for the position of chairman, but a secret written ballot gave him four votes, George H. Taylor receiving one, and everybody knew that Mr. Robertson had been chosen for the place. He said it had given him great pleasure to serve as chairman and to accept it. Mr. Harris said he wanted to see Mr. Robertson take the place for another year, but Mr. Robertson still insisted that he be not considered for the place. Mr. Osgood said he hoped Mr. Robertson would reconsider as the board is "just getting out of the woods." He felt that much of the success had been due to the personality of Mr. Robertson. Mr. Taylor said he wanted to see Mr. Robertson stay as chairman one year more. "I do not want to be considered for chairman, and that's final," said Mr. Robertson. A motion to ballot for Mr. Robertson was then put and a secret written ballot was taken. Mr. Robertson received four votes and Mr. Taylor one.

POLISH BAZAAR OPEN

The bazaar conducted under the auspices of the Holy Trinity Polish church for the purpose of raising money to erect a new home for the Polish sisters in this city was opened last night in Lincoln hall and the affair proved to be a great success. The bazaar will be open tonight, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night and a part of the proceeds will be sent to aid the suffering people of Poland.

In conversation with a Sun representative this morning relative to the condition of the Polish people in the war zone, Rev. Fr. Ogonowski said: "The plight of the women and children in Poland is pitiful and they are in dire need of assistance from their brothers and sisters living in the neutral countries. At the present time there are thousands of Polish people scattered over the old country eating plants, grass, herbs and anything that can prolong their existence, and it is a fact that almost all the little children under seven years of age are dead. The people are without proper clothing and shelter and thousands of them are sleeping in the woods."

There is but little news to be obtained from Poland as the present time because nearly all the land is under German rule but we occasionally get letters from Polish exiles in Russia. These letters have told the story of the condition of our people. "At the start of the war the German troops immediately conquered nearly all of Poland and thousands of Polish people, men and women were shot down without mercy. The fields which were rich with wheat were taken by the Germans and the wheat was ground into flour in Polish mills and then sent to the interior of Germany. Other farm products were taken away from the Polish people and they were left to starve.

"Poland has been without a voice among the nations of the world for years and the Polish people have had no liberty. The people have been oppressed more than any other race on earth, still they have not complained, for nearly all of them have hoped that ultimately they would be freed from their slavery. The war has put all their hopes to an end and it will take a long time to make the Polish people the sturdy race they were before the start of the war."

The starving people of the old country look to the American people as saviors for the food and clothing sent to their aid, but much more aid is needed, and Poland looks to America and the other neutral countries for assistance."

The bazaar in Lincoln hall offers an opportunity to help.

has observed with growing concern, distress and amazement." It pointed to Germany's hitherto expressed "human and enlightened attitude" in matters of international right and expressed the hope that submarine commanders engaged in torpedoing peaceful ships without warning were in such practices operating without the sanction of their government. The note closed with these words:

On May 23, 1915, Germany replied with a note which covered a wide range of argument. It alleged that the Lusitania had masked gunboats that she in effect was a British auxiliary cruiser; that she carried munitions of war; that her owning company was aware of the damages she risked in the submarine war zone was in reality responsible for the loss of American lives; and that the fact that the British auxiliary had offered large rewards to liner captains who rammed or destroyed submarines. The note met none of the contentions of the United States so far as the Lusitania and Falaba sinkings were concerned, although a supplementary note later did acknowledge that Germany was wrong in the attacks on the Cushing and the Gulfight, expressed regret for these two cases and promised to pay damages. While the American reply to the note was being framed, discussion in the cabinet resulted in the resignation of Secretary Bryan, who contended for a policy of warning Americans off "deliberate ships."

Meanwhile several sensational incidents cropped up in connection with the negotiations, chief of which was the sending of a message to the Berlin foreign office by Dr. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador, later recalled at the request of President Wilson, which was represented as stating substantially that Mr. Bryan had intimated to the ambassador that the vigorous tone of the American notes should be regarded in Berlin as too war-like. Secretary Lansing took office as Mr. Bryan's successor, and his reply to the German note took issue with every contention Germany had set up in the Lusitania and Falaba cases; denied flatly the contention that the Lusitania was armed or was to be treated as other than a peaceful merchant ship, and reminded Germany that it was the duty of the United States "to speak with solemn emphasis to call the attention of the imperial German government to the grave responsibility which the government of the United States conceived that it has incurred in this tragic occurrence, and to the indisputable principle upon which that responsibility rests."

The note averred that the declaration of a submarine war zone could not abbreviate the rights of Americans on lawful journeys and added: "The government of the United States, therefore, very earnestly and solemnly renews the representations of its note transmitted to the imperial German government on May 15, and relies in these representations upon the principles of humanity, the universal recognized understandings of inter-

To that note Germany did not reply until July 8. This note discussed the declaration of London, the British food blockade of Germany, the sowing of British mines and the freedom of the seas, and made a counter proposal that both countries agree upon a certain number of neutral passenger steamers for traffic between the United States and Europe, which the German government agreed to accept. The German note also guaranteed against submarine attack provided they carried no contraband.

The nature of the reply was regarded officially as evidence that Germany was holding the submarine warfare negotiations as a club over the United States to force this government into some action to compel Great Britain to relax the food blockade. President Wilson steadfastly refused to permit the diplomatic negotiations of the United States with one belligerent to become entangled with the relations with another.

To that communication the United States replied on July 21 that the German note was "very unsatisfactory" because it failed to meet "the real differences between the two governments."

The United States declared, "was keenly disappointed" with Germany's attitude. Submarine attacks without warning, endangering American and other neutrals, were characterized as "illegal and inhuman."

The German retaliation against the British blockade, it maintained, must not interfere with the rights of neutrals which the note declared were "based upon principles, not expediency, and the principles are immutable."

It declared that the United States would continue to contend for the freedom of the seas "from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost." The American note concluded with these words of warning: "Friendship itself prompts it (the United States government) to say to the imperial government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of the rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens, as deliberately unfriendly."

The American press and other neutrals pronounced the American note not only a demand that the rights of Americans be respected but a defense of humanity and neutral rights generally. The negotiations at this point seemed to have come to such an impasse that the exchange of notes between Washington and Berlin was stopped and the controversy was brought into the realm of "informal conversations" between Secretary Lansing and Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador.

It was thought that much could be accomplished by personal contact which was lost in a cold exchange of documents.

Meanwhile, the Arabic was sunk on Aug. 19. Coming close on the unsuccessful Lusitania negotiations and a continuation of submarine attacks which Americans had suffered, it seemed that the United States and Germany had at least reached the point of a break. Then, on Sept. 1, came the first rift in the threatening alliance. Count von Bernstorff presented this written assurance to Secretary Lansing:

"Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of non-combatants, provided they do not try to escape or offer resistance."

The United States had agreed all along that ships halted for visit and search by war vessels took a risk if they attempted to flee, but it contained not for the safety of "liners" alone but for the immunity of all peaceful merchant vessels. The word "liners" was the complex point in Germany's assurances, and a complete agreement on what it actually meant never was finally reached.

More hopefulness was added to the situation when, on Oct. 5, the Arabic case was disposed of by Germany disavowing the sinking and giving renewed assurances that submarine commanders had been again instructed to avoid repetition of the acts which provoked American condemnation.

With that, the negotiations reverted to the Lusitania case. Germany already had agreed to pay indemnity for American lives lost but the negotiations were delayed by a seeming deadlock over the words in which Germany should acknowledge the illegality of the destruction of the liner. Germany, unwilling to use the word "illegal," substituted a declaration that "reprisals must not be directed at others than enemy subjects."

A formal communication including such a declaration and expressing regret for loss of American lives, assuming liability and offering reparation in the form of indemnity, was submitted to Secretary Lansing.

A favorable settlement of the long and threatening controversy seemed to be in sight when all the progress that had been made was reduced to nothing by Germany's declaration of a new submarine policy of sinking without warning all armed merchant ships. That precipitated a new situation so vitally interwoven with the whole structure of the Lusitania case that President Wilson declined to close the Lusitania settlement while the other issue was pending. Meanwhile German submarine warfare was continued.

Finally, the accumulation of evidence reached such proportions, with the destruction of the Sussex, that President Wilson despatched another note to Germany and, within a few days, made this declaration:

"I have deemed it my duty to say to the imperial German government that if it is still its purpose to prosecute relentless and indiscriminate warfare, the government of the United States is at last forced to the conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue; and that, unless the imperial German government should now, immediately, declare and effect an abandonment of its present methods of warfare against passenger and freight carrying vessels, this government can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations altogether."

The wording of the note to Germany, which was despatched April 8, was almost identical with the foregoing passage.

During all the negotiations the Berlin foreign office has looked to Count von Bernstorff to prevent a break. His attitude has been represented as propitiatory from the viewpoint of the United States and opposed to the submarine warfare of von Tirpitz.

On several occasions he is said to have warned his emperor personally that a continuance of the warfare against which the United States protested would surely lead to a break.

LOWELL PITCHERS EASY

Special to The Sun.
SPRINGFIELD, May 5.—Santa Claus couldn't have been more generous than two Lowell pitchers were to the Ponies yesterday afternoon at League park. Out of a total of 16 hits and six errors, Flynn's men grabbed the big total of 15 runs. With this kind of hitting the Ponies didn't have to worry much about the outcome and Chief LaRoy, making his first league appearance of the season on the mound, breezed through the matinee without the least bit of trouble. LaRoy didn't have to pitch much and he took things easy while his mates slammed the ball all over the lot. The final score said Springfield was 16 runs better than Lowell and the tally was 15 to 5.

The Ponies made their 16 hits good for 25 bases. They had seven doubles, one triple and eight singles and a majority of the drives figured in the scoring. To date this is the heaviest hitting performance in the Eastern league and the combined run total of the two clubs made it the heaviest scoring game of the season. Everett Booe provided a big bundle of the fireworks for the Ponies with a single, double and triple in five times at bat. Hickey helped himself to a pair of singles and a double, while Jack Flynn had a pair of doubles. Hammond with a double and single and Stephens with the same record were others in the hitting limelight.

It wasn't Hank Horsey's day, otherwise Harry Lord would have never selected him to start on the mound for Lowell. Three singles were put together in the first inning by the Ponies for a tally and they kept right on pounding Horsey's delivery in the second until Lord charitably benched the pitcher. King, a southpaw, who succeeded Horsey, was punned to good purpose in the second and by the time the three required outs had been recorded Pony hits off the two pitchers amounted to three doubles and a triple which with a base on balls, sacrifice hit and two errors, gave Flynn's men five runs.

The Lowell pilot evidently considered it proper for King to take a good beating while he was at it and kept him in the box for the remainder of the game. A single, sacrifice and double gave the Ponies another run in the third; a single, double, a base on balls and an error furnished three more in the sixth; a single and double coupled with a base on balls, an infield out and a passed ball accounted for three in the seventh while two more in the eighth came on two errors and a single. Spikes went into the field for Lord in this inning and the first thing he did was to pick up Parks' bunt and heave the ball about a mile over Munn's head, Booe scoring from first.

Poor fielding gave Lord's men a run in the first inning and a slip at short was the means of a second in the third. Lowell's three in the seventh were due to solid smashing and Parks' muff in right. Four singles and a double were put together in this frame.

There was plenty of flashy fielding all over the lot. Booe stood up against the left field fence and picked Briggs' drive out of the air; Hammond went into the air about 20 feet more or less and speared another Briggs clout and Murphy and Riconda, not to be outdone in pulling off feature stuff turned similar stunts on King and Stimpson, in the fourth inning.

NEBES LEADS AND IS CLOSELY FOLLOWED BY YALE WITH TWO MORE NIGHTS TO GO

Albert Nebes of this city continued his speedy work in the six-day skating race at the Rollaway last night and added three-quarters of a lap to his already good lead over Billy Yale of New Haven. The interest in the race reached its climax last evening and the Rollaway almost shook from the loud applause.

Nebes lost nearly a lap by a fall early in the race but soon gained the space. Yale put up a plucky exhibition and made a third attempt to lessen Nebes' lead, but was unsuccessful. Two more nights remain, however, and it is possible that some important changes will take place. Last night's racing results:

PITCHER DAVIS PERFORMS REMARKABLE FEAT WHICH WILL PROBABLY STAND AS RECORD

Smart Clothes

Men have been reading so much about the increased cost of clothes, and the scarcity of good dye-stuffs, that they are giving more attention to the selection of their clothes than they have been in the habit of doing.

We are glad to see this. When men begin to think, they are sure to look beneath the surface—to consider not alone what meets the eyes, but the hidden parts—and to question the reliability of maker and seller.

O'Brien's has always sold Good Clothes. We welcome this education which causes men to investigate. Already we have put O'Brien clothes on the back of many men who never wore them before.

Stein Bloch
Smart Clothes

Are featured by us exclusively in Lowell. They are the highest type of stylish ready-to-wear clothes for men—the product of an organization that has been producing only Good Clothes for over 61 years.

Stein Bloch Suits and Topcoats at O'Brien prices of $20 and upwards, are a good investment for any man.

O'Brien Clothes at $15 and $17.50 have more style than you find usually at these prices—due to their good tailoring.

In spite of all you see and hear, we are unreservedly guaranteeing satisfaction as to color, fabric and workmanship with every garment bearing our label.

NEW MASS. B. D. LEAGUE

CLASS D ORGANIZATION BEING ORGANIZED WITH SIX TEAMS—JACK KIERMAN A PROMOTER

The new six club league in Massachusetts, which is chiefly due to the efforts of Jack Kierman, former Manchester manager, will start the season May 26, Kierman declares. The league will have Class D rating and be under the protection of organized ball, Kierman says.

Jack will manage the Fitchburg club which city he is very popular. A few details remain to be disposed of and with matters straightened out, he will get busy signing players.

The cities to be included in the circuit are: Fitchburg, Lowell, North Andover, Pittsford, Northampton and Greenfield.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

Yesterday was certainly an off-day for the Lowell players.

Rinconada, third baseman, was the only brightfield man who failed to hit safely.

Spikes made his first appearance in the lineup since the team left Bridgeport.

Green or Lohman will face the speedy few London team today.

Ty Cobb's batting average took a lump yesterday. He did not land a safe clutch in six trips to the plate.

Pete Clemens is in his old place as lead-off man in the Portland lineup gain this year.

"Dutch" Leonard worked in splendid form and held the New York team to two hits.

Christy Mathewson began his 17th season with the Giants yesterday and ordered the Braves to go to Indiana to beat him. With the exception of the last inning, Matty worked good and howed considerable old-fashioned stuff. Matty's miff of a fly was partly responsible for the defeat of the Big Six.

The Cleveland club has one of the speediest outfielders in the country in Brannan, Speaker and Roth. Grane's hitting better than he hit in years, and fighting sensationally. The addition of speaker seems to have acted like a tonic on the Indians.

Judging from the start, it looks as if Bridgeport will have a banner attendance this year. Bridgeport had three times as many as New Haven on a cold opening day and Saturday morning was excellent. Corns and Knorr, the new ones, need only a few more hits to make a first division club.

To ask waivers on a player is the best possible way to get him playing his best baseball. Burns of

HUGH JENNINGS MAY LAND WEILMAN OF BROWNS FOR TIGERS

DETROIT, May 3.—Manager Hugh Jennings is hot after a good pitcher. He believes if he can land a good twirler or two the Tigers will surely cop the flag this year. With this in view he has made a liberal offer to Fiedler Jones of the St. Louis Browns for Carl Weiland, the lanky southpaw. Hughie says that if he could get Weiland he would be happy for two reasons. One is that the Tigers would surely land the much sought cloth for this city, and the other one is that the Tigers' jinx would be removed. Last season Weiland practically put the Junglers out of the pennant fight when he won eight out of nine starts. And he is apt to do the same thing this season, although recently the Tiger boys beat him easily in St. Louis by a score of 7 to 2.

Detroit serves as an example of this. Hughie Jennings requested the waivers and immediately the player started murdering the ball and has been soaking it at a terrific clip since. Hughie won't go out of the league, however, as the Red Sox will not pass on the player.

Catcher Phil Carroll of the Worcester club worked out yesterday morning with his mates at League Park very much to his own sorrow. He caught a foul tip between the thumb and fingers and ripped open a big gash. He will be out of the game for two weeks at least. Manager Hamilton rushed Freitag from Worcester to fill in for Carroll—Springfield Union.

Manager Wagner is still busy in strengthening his lineup. Three new men, farmed out by the Toronto club of the International league, have been reported here for duty. They are: Smith, a former star Pittsfield pitcher, pitcher, Lyons, a right-handed hurler, and Reed, an outfielder. The local team has released P. E. Smith, a pitcher, and Maroney an infielder. The Shawinits accept the challenge of the Glendales Second team for Saturday afternoon at Lincoln park at 2 o'clock. The game will be played for two quarter balls.

The Braves will play the Young Glendales Saturday morning at Faulkner's field for a quarter ball. The Braves can beat any team of their size. Anybody who wants to back that up let J. V. Flanagan, 361 Lincoln street, know.

The Jewett A.C. want a game with any 14-year-old team in the city. The lineup is: Rouke c, Burns p, Burke 1b, Campbell 2b, McGowan 3b, Higgins ss, Irwin lf, Mara cf, Coon rf. Send challenges to Manager Rouke, 2 Puffer avenue, or Dick Edwards, 1 Richardson avenue.

The Red Sox of Centralville administered a severe defeat to the Stanley A. C. yesterday, the score being 15 to 4. There was nothing to it but the Sox from the time the first man reached base until the end of the ninth inning. The superiority of the Sox was evident during the entire game, the hitting and fielding leaving only a question of what the final score would be in the minds of those in attendance. Richard Menton, manager of the Red Sox, has gathered a wonderful 12-year-old team together, and it is expected that more victories will be forthcoming. The Red Sox would like to arrange games with any 12-year-old team in the city. Send all challenges to 94 West Sixth street.

CRAWLEY ENTERED

Eddie Crawley of this city, star athlete at Colby college, is entered for the high jump in the Maine intercollegiate track meet at Bowdoin, May 13. He will also participate in the New England meet at Springfield, May 20.

JUDGE AT ODDS WITH UNITED STATES ATTORNEY GENERAL T. W. GREGORY

BOSTON, May 5.—United States Attorney General Thomas W. Gregory takes serious exceptions to statements of Judge James M. Morton, Jr., of the United States district court of Boston, referring to the department of justice as "overbearing and tyrannical" in a letter received yesterday by Congressman Gallivan.

The attorney general says that "the propriety, if not indecency," of such statements makes him believe that Judge Morton did not make them, but Judge Morton, in reply, last night, said he did make them and can prove every statement he made by the official correspondence on file in his office.

Judge Morton contends that some leeway should be allowed to federal judges to deal leniently with offenders brought before them and remonstrate against the iron-clad rule that every offender is to be dealt with without mercy.

In published reports of Judge Morton's address he was quoted as saying that the attorney general advised the full application of the law in the case of a 16-year-old Springfield boy, without previous criminal record, breaking into a freight car.

The judge said positively that he put such a hypothetical question to the attorney general, but that it was a post-office the boy broke into, not a freight car, and that he was instructed that the federal law as passed by congress should apply and that the attorney general knew of no authority for him to do otherwise.

The judge looked up correspondence in his office signed by the attorney general and reiterated that what he said was correct except for slight newspaper inaccuracies.

Congressman Gallivan, upon learning of the story of the 16-year-old, asked Attorney General Gregory if any such instructions were ever issued, and said that he would be surprised to learn that the story was true. Answering the charge, Mr. Gregory says:

"This is the first I ever heard of a Springfield youth, or of him or anyone else taking 50 cents' worth of metal from a freight car, and any statement to the effect that the department gave any instructions relating to the penalty to be inflicted on this youth is without the slightest foundation. This department has nothing whatever to do with the discretion of a judge in determining the degree of punishment which shall be inflicted in a particular case."

Wide publicity was also given to an alleged statement of Judge Morton at the same time, to the effect that "the average lawyer and layman little realize the scope and significance of the situation until he comes into contact with it in court. Then he feels sharply his powerlessness before the overbearing and tyrannical methods of this remote bureau of justice," and concludes that, "after all, great advantages lie in local self-government so far as it is possible."

ROOT IS A CANDIDATE

SANCTIONS CAMPAIGN CONDUCTED IN HIS BEHALF FOR REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, May 5.—Formal announcement that Elihu Root has sanctioned the campaign being conducted in his behalf for the republican presidential nomination, was made here yesterday by former-Congressman John W. Dwight, in charge of the Root headquarters in this city.

The statement was issued as a denial of reports that Mr. Root was not a candidate for nomination.

WORTHEN STREET M. E. CHURCH

The monthly supper and entertainment of the Worthen Street M. E. church was held last evening and was well attended. Supper was served at 5:45 and the chicken patties and strawberries were the best ever. The program of entertainment included selections by the Viking male quartet and songs by Arthur P. Woodies, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. W. Brett. Directly after the entertainment, Rev. and Mrs. Brett were called forward and a substantial purse of gold was presented to the pastor and a beautiful cluster of American beauty roses to Mrs. Brett. The gifts were a genuine surprise and both Mr. and Mrs. Brett feelingly expressed their gratitude to the church members, who so kindly remembered them.

The arrangements for the supper were in charge of Mrs. Mary Staples and Mrs. Stone, assisted by Mrs. Waiter Thibault, Mrs. Charles Kidder, Mrs. John Ponder, Mrs. Franklin Coolidge and Miss Mary Hardy. The waitresses were Miss Georgia Wright, Miss Irene Forrest, Mrs. Hugh Johnson and Mrs. Hugh Green. A "white elephant" table was presided over by Mrs. Chas. Kidder.

A ZEPPELIN DESTROYED

GERMAN DIRIGIBLE WRECKED BY BRITISH LIGHT CRUISER SQUADRON

LONDON, May 5, 12.31 p. m.—A Zeppelin dirigible balloon was destroyed yesterday by one of the British light cruiser squadrons of the Schleswig coast, says an official announcement issued by the government today.

This is the second Zeppelin to be destroyed in two days. The Zeppelin L-20 was blown ashore on the Norwegian coast on Wednesday after returning from a raid on the east coast of England and Scotland Tuesday night. When the disabled balloon began to be carried away again by a strong wind the Norwegian military authorities at Stavanger blew up the air vessel.

WOMEN OF M. E. CHURCH

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., May 5.—The women of the Methodist Episcopal church have raised $3,432.505 during the last four years for home missions, according to figures submitted to the general conference of the church today. This is an increase of nearly $100,000 over that raised during the preceding four years. The money is contributed through the Women's Home Missionary society.

The society, according to the report, owns schools, hospitals, homes for girls and other institutions in the United States, Alaska and Porto Rico that are valued at $2,331,163. The organization's activities comprise social and religious work among negroes, immigrants, Indians, young women and mountaineers. In seven cities it conducts settlement houses.

ARCHBISHOP OF LYONS DIED
PARIS, May 5.—Hector Irenaeus Sevin, cardinal archbishop of Lyons, died today. Cardinal Sevin was 64 years of age, and was crowned cardinal in May, 1914.

TOMORROW, MAY 6, AT 3 O'CLOCK

A TWO AND A HALF STORY HOUSE AND ABOUT 5600 FEET OF LAND AT NO. 164 WENTWORTH AVE.

On the premises I shall offer for absolute sale, regardless of weather conditions, this very attractive little home. House consists of eight rooms, bath, pantry, set tubs, open plumbing, cemented cellar, furnace heat, has all hardwood floors on the first floor. It is very conveniently laid out. There are four rooms and pantry on the first floor, four airy and well lighted chambers, bath and sewing room on the next floor. There is a large piazza running the full length of the house. The lot, having a large frontage on Wentworth avenue, making an area of about 5600 square feet, sets well up from the street. Now then, here is an opportunity for some one to purchase a home in a first-class locality, surrounded by neighbors where every one owns his own home, within 100 yards of the electric cars.

C. F. KEYES in Charge.

ABSOLUTE SALE BY TRUSTEES OF THE ROGERS LAND

TOMORROW, MAY 6, AT 3.30 O'CLOCK

IN SIX SEPARATE PARCELS

On the premises, regardless of any conditions of the weather, we shall offer for absolute sale the balance of unimproved lots of the Rogers land on High and Rogers streets.

LOT 1—Located on High street corner of Porter street extension, has a frontage of 35 and 40 feet on High street, 100 feet on Porter street, making an area of 7500 square feet. It is very level and dry, and will certainly make a nice building site if you want to locate in Belvidere.

LOT 2—The second lot, located on the opposite corner of High and Porter streets, with a frontage of 51 and 20 100-120 on Porter street, making an area of 6144 square feet. It is high and dry and will be an excellent site for a two-family house. Now then, the above two lots have been made very valuable by the extension of Porter street, and it would be hard to find two better sites for a home in Belvidere.

LOT 3—Located on High street, just opposite the church, has a frontage of about 50 feet; depth, 120 feet, making an area of about 6000 feet.

LOT 4—Which adjoins this one, has a frontage of 50 feet and 120 feet depth, making an area about 6000 feet. These two lots set up well from the street. They are high and dry, and if you are thinking of locating in Belvidere, it will be to your advantage to look them over.

LOT 5—Has a frontage on High street of 48 feet, depth 120 feet, making an area 5760 square feet. There are two beautiful homes built on each side of this lot.

LOT 6—Which is located on Rogers street, very near the junction of Nesmith street, has a frontage of about 70 feet on Rogers street, with an area of about 4000 feet. There are several attractive homes located near this lot.

Now, Mr. Homeowner, this is your last opportunity to purchase a lot of the Rogers land in High street, and the sale will be absolute on the general premises, regardless of any condition of the weather. A deposit of $100 will be required on each lot as soon as struck off.

For further particulars, see the auctioneer whom we have left in full charge.

NORWEGIAN SCHOONER MARS, BOUND FOR ENGLAND, SEIZED BY GERMAN CRUISER

LONDON, May 5.—The Norwegian schooner Mars, bound for England with pit props was stopped and burned by a German cruiser, says a despatch from Copenhagen to the Exchange Telegraph Co. The crew was saved.

General Scandinavian opinion, the despatch adds, is to the effect that the submarine warfare against merchant shipping is on the wane.

NO. CHELMSFORD NEWS

BUSINESS IS RUSHING AT THE FACTORIES—BASEBALL CLUB ACTIVE

The annual meeting of the North Chelmsford Women's club was held this week at the home of the president, Mrs. Hiram C. Gage in Newfield street. There was a large number of members present and all took much interest in the reports submitted by the different officers. After the regular business session an election of officers took place with the following result: Mrs. Hiram C. Gage, president; Mrs. Edgar Dixon, vice president; Mrs. Will E. Blakeslee, secretary; Miss Alice F. Freeze, treasurer.

Big Baseball Game

Tomorrow afternoon the newly organized St. John's T. A. society baseball team will oppose the South Ends on McCabe's field. Manager John McTeague has secured a number of first class men for his team, three or four of the players coming from Boston college. At a concert held last Sunday night for the benefit of the baseball team sufficient money was raised to purchase uniforms, and these will be donned for the first time tomorrow. Among those taking part in the benefit concert were the following from Lowell: Miss Madeline Boland, Miss Agnes Meagher, Miss Mae Wren and Leo Lanoue.

The South Ends will present their strongest lineup against the North Chelmsford aggregation tomorrow and Manager Lyons will probably send Lawson, his star box artist in to do the twirling. Lawson was last year voted as one of the best amateur pitchers in Lowell and Manager Lyons is of the opinion that his man will go even better this year. The rest of the South End team will be selected from the following players: Freeman, Belleville, O'Dea, Gallagher, Breen, Lyons, McGreevey, Dowd and others.

Mills

The mills of the village are running prosperously and indications point to their continuing to do so during the summer months. The Silesia mills are running full time days while some of the departments are being operated nights. The G. C. Moore mills are working day and night and the North Chelmsford Machine Co., has plenty of work on hand. The Lowell Textile Co. is very busy and its workers are steadily employed.

Inspecting Roads

A member of the state highway commission was in the village Wednesday afternoon inspecting the roads and as a result of his visit, a gang of men started to work yesterday repairing bad spots in the Princeton boulevard from North Chelmsford to the village line. Other streets in the village which are maintained by the town will be put in good condition as speedily as possible.

Boy Scouts

Members of the North Chelmsford troop of boy scouts will soon begin to make arrangements for their regular summer work and also for their summer camp. The North Chelmsford troop was one of the first to be formed in the state and at the present time it is considered as efficient as any troop in this section of the country.

The troop is still under the supervision of Scoutmaster Kibber, who also has supervision of the Lowell divisions.

Summer Camps

A number of the summer camps along the banks of the Merrimack river are now open and within a few weeks, if the weather gets warmer, the population of the village will be considerably increased by the influx of campers.

St. Alban's Mission

Rev. Wilson Waters will preach a sermon at the service to be held at St. Alban's mission on Sunday. At the last business meeting of the mission reports were presented by various officers, all of which testified to the continued growth of the parish. The report of the treasurer showed a satisfactory balance on hand.

YOUNG BAKER KILLED

OVEN DOOR HIT ELECTRIC WIRE, FORTHING CIRCUIT FROM WHICH CIRCUIT PASSED TO HIS BODY

PETERBOROUGH, N. H., May 5.—Karl R. Hodgkins, proprietor of a bakery, was killed in an unusual manner today. An oven door which he opened was swung against an electric wire, cutting through the insulation and forming a circuit from which the current passed to his body. He was 25 years of age and had purchased his establishment only two weeks ago.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Tomorrow, May 6, 1916, at 3 and 3.15 P. M.

AT NOS. 64 AND 87 SUMMER STREET, LOWELL, MASS.

By warrant issued by the Probate Court for the County of Middlesex and by order of the commissioner, I will sell without limit, two parcels of real estate belonging to the late Elizabeth O'Neil. Lot 1, being No. 87 Summer street, consists of a very desirable piece of tenement property consisting of a three story house of four tenements, with a French slated roof; also a three story, flat roof house that is in the rear, which has four tenements and 3500 square feet of land, more or less. The tenements are all rented to good tenants and the buildings are in good repair, inside and out. This property has a yearly income of $792 and will be a good paying investment to the purchaser.

Lot 2, being No. 64 Summer street, consists of a 2 1/2 story, two-tenement house and barn, and 2875 square feet of land, more or less, which has a yearly income of $276, and is always rented to good tenants. The buildings are in good repair inside and out. This property is situated in the heart of the city, near the common, where tenements are always rented.

This property has always been the source of a very good income to the estate, and will be the same to the purchaser, so that you do not want to fail to attend the sale.

Terms of sale: 10 per cent of the purchase price must be paid to the auctioneer at time and place of sale. Other terms at sale.

Per order JAMES H. McDERMOTT, Commissioner.

A WORD OF WARNING:

BE SKEPTICAL IN SELECTING YOUR SPRING SUIT OR TOPCOAT THIS SEASON. ON ACCOUNT OF THE SCARCITY OF GOOD WOOL AND DYES AND THE INCREASED COST OF WORKMANSHIP, CONDITIONS IN THE CLOTHING INDUSTRY ARE CHAOTIC AND FIRST QUALITY CLOTHING IS SELLING AT A PREMIUM.

THE MERCHANT WHO DID NOT PLAN AHEAD AND PLUNGE ON SPRING GOODS MONTHS AGO WHEN PRICES WERE DOWN, FINDS HIMSELF TODAY PAYING ALMOST FABULOUS PRICES FOR INFERIOR GRADES OF CLOTHING, AND YOU, MR. MAN, WILL BE ASKED TO PAY OUT YOUR GOOD MONEY FOR THIS INFERIOR CLOTHING BECAUSE MR. MERCHANT WAS NOT ON THE JOB.

THE BEST NEWS we can hand to the men of Lowell today is that we own thousands of suits and top coats in LAST YEAR'S VALUES AT LAST YEAR'S PRICES and as far as they go we will hand them out at LAST YEAR'S PRICES.

Ready for you today—Thousands of suits of character and style from such nationally known makers as A. Shuman & Co., Benjamin Washington Co., and Sampeck.

We want to call your attention specially this week to our showing of suits and top coats at—

$15 and $20

Fashionable, serviceable suits, all hand tailored to the last detail, made from fine worsteds, cassimeres and blue serges, full lined or skeleton lined, pinch backs, English soft roll, or conservative models; all sizes, 32 to 50.

Plenty of other Suits and Top Coats from $10 to $30. No matter what your price for a spring suit we positively guarantee the quality and price to be same as last year.
